ATHLETIC FIGHT ENDS

STUDENT AND FACULTY MEMBERS COME TO AGREEMENT.

REGENTS ACCEPT RESOLUTIONS

Director for University Athletics Created—Athletic Board and Manager Retain Functions. Single Coach.

The special committee of the board of regents appointed at the meeting held in Omaha on Friday morning to consider the recommendations of Chancellor Andrews and the athletic board which had been protested against by several hundred students settled the disagreement on the proposed change in the athletic government of university athletics Saturday afternoon by adopting resolutions drawn by the student members of the athletic board and signed by all excepting an absent member of that body. Two sections of the resolutions were not accepted by the regents' committee but these were parts that had nothing to do with the disagreement and with which the students had not been concerned with them.

What Students Wanted.

The recommendations as accepted by the committee were just what the students asked, and their adoption was a victory for the undergraduates. The students made a fight to keep athletics under the joint control of the faculty and the undergraduate body and in this they succeeded.

By the adoption of the recommendations of the athletic board the regents placed all athletics under the department of physical education. At the same time the head of this department was given the title of "Professor of Physical Education and Director of Athletics." This professor, however, has "merely advisory powers to the athletic board in athletic matters."

Board Retains Power.

Under the new rules the athletic board still retains its present functions and the present system of management for university athletics is continued. It was on those two points that the students made their fight. The original resolutions as drafted by the chancellor and recommended by the athletic board to the regents left the students in doubt as to what the powers of the athletic board and the manager were to be, and the undergraduates of the athletic board made a protest against the recommendations because they believed their control was to be taken away from them. The new substitute resolutions made it clear just what the power of the athletic director and the athletic board should have.

Coach for All Year.

One of the important changes made in the present athletic system by the revised resolutions was the recommendation that after the season of 1909 a single coach for both football and baseball be hired. The coach will stay at the university during the entire school year and his services will be given during that time to coaching and training the Nebraska athletes. This rule will not become effective until after next fall, and will enable the board to engage "King" Cole for another year as coach of the football team.

The recommendation for the assessment of a semestral gymnasium fee of $1 on every student of the university was "turned down" by the committee, and will be referred back to the board of regents. The committee did not believe the levying of a fee came under its jurisdiction and said that the board itself would have to act on that matter.

A Misunderstanding.

It developed at the meeting of the regents' committee in the office of the chancellor that the row between the students and faculty members of the athletic board had resulted from a misunderstanding as to the intentions of the faculty members who were responsible for the original set of resolutions. These men had not meant to make any radical change in the present system of athletic control, and had not intended to take away the functions of the athletic board or of general manager of athletics. The object of the promoters of the scheme was simply to put university athletics on a more dignified basis by giving them an athletic director, and in this way they were successfully supported by the students.

The original resolutions, which caused the trouble between the two factions of the board, did not pass the regents. A revised set drawn up by the student members of the board Friday night and approved by the faculty members Saturday morning that went before the committee.

The Original Set.

The original resolutions were as follows:

"It is hereby recommended:

"A. That the university athletics be incorporated under the department of physical education.

"B. That the title of the head of the department of physical education be changed to 'professor of physical education and director of athletics.'

"C. That the athletic board retain its present functions.

"D. That every student in the college of literature, science and the arts, the industrial college (aside from the school of agriculture) and the teachers' college be charged a semestral fee of $1, to be collected at the time of registration and to be available for the department of physical education for additional assistance, for athletic instruction, and to increase the equipment of the department."

The Revised Set.

The revised resolutions as accepted by the regents' committee follow:

"It is hereby recommended:

"A. That the university athletics be incorporated under the department of physical education.

"B. That the title of the head of the department of physical education be changed to 'professor of physical education and director of athletics,' with merely advisory powers to the athletic board in athletic matters.

"C. That the athletic board shall retain its present function.

"D. That after the season of 1909 a single coach for both football and baseball be engaged and that the services of said coach be at the disposal of the university for the entire school year.

"E. That the present system of management of university athletics be continued.

THE LAST FACULTY RECEPTION:

Farewells to Chancellor and Mrs. Andrews in Temple.

Invitations are issued for an informal reception to be given by the university to Chancellor and Mrs. Andrews this afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock in the Temple Music hall. All members of the university force are invited to attend and say their good-byes to the chancellor. Should the invitation fail to reach any one connected with the university force it should be regarded as an oversight, as the intention is to reach every one. The invitations do not include the students.

Reception Today.

A reception will be given today from 4 to 6 p. m. in the Music hall of the Temple by the faculty to Chancellor and Mrs. Andrews, to which the teaching and working staff of the university has been invited. This will give every one an opportunity to say a friendly word to the Chancellor and Mrs. Andrews before their departure for Florida.

VACATION IN WOODS

ADVANCED STUDENTS OF FORESTRY TRY TO TAKE TRIP.

WILL STAY IN LUMBER CAMPS

To Be Gone Nearly a Month and Will Investigate All Places of Lumber Industry in Northern States.

During the Christmas vacation a new method of giving the forestry students practical training and information in their profession will be undertaken by the forestry department of the university. An extended trip will be made by Professor Phillip and the senior forestry students into the lumbering district of northern Minnesota and Wisconsin to investigate conditions as they actually exist in the northern forests.

According to present plans the party will leave Lincoln December 17th and will return January 13th. Practically all the advanced forestry students will make the trip and Mrs. Phillips will accompany the party. The trip north will be made by way of Minneapolis and returning the party will come by way of Chicago.

While in the north headquarters will be made at Rhineland, Wisconsin. This is in the heart of the lumbering district of Northern Wisconsin, and will permit a first hand study of actual conditions. The party plans to get their board and lodging at the lumber camps while they are in the field.

Subjects to Investigate.

While on the trip the party will study all sides of the lumbering industry, and problems met with. Among other things the lumbering of hard wood and conifers will receive the attention of the students. Time will be spent in the new burned area of the north studying the effect of the fire on the forests. Wood distillation, curing, valuation surveys, stem analyses and pulp mills will all receive their share of attention. The numerous state reserves will be examined and the students will investigate the relation of forests to stream flow.

Arrangements have been made for the students to have the services of an expert cruiser for one week, and Mr. Moody, the assistant forester of Wisconsin, will be with the party for three weeks. Mr. Moody was at the University of Nebraska last year for two weeks and delivered a number of lectures.

The party is especially fortunate in being able to secure the services of an expert cruiser. This method of estimating the amount of timber on a tract is the result of a lifetime of experience in the woods, and is a gift valued very highly in the lumber industry. While it is not as accurate as valuation surveys it is quick and of great practical value.

More Practical Experience.

From now on it is the intention of the forestry department to lay more stress on practical experience than has been the case heretofore. The department will insist that every student must have at least one summer's field work in forestry before he takes his degree. While most forestry students have in the past had much practical experience before they graduated. This has never before been a requirement of the department.

It is now planned to take such a trip as the advanced forestry students will start on in a few days every two years. In this way it will be possible for every student to have the benefits of a trip of this kind at some period during his course. As the students pay their own expenses on a trip of this kind it will never be possible to make such a trip an absolute requirement, but its value is so obvious that every student who finds it at all possible is taking advantage of the trip. Besides the benefit to the students it is expected that such a trip as this will have a tendency to interest lumbermen in the work that the forestry department is doing and will also aid in securing work for the students when they graduate.

PRACTICE COURTS CONTINUED.

Trial Work in College of Law Opened Friday.

The trial work for last week in the practice courts of the college of law was started Friday afternoon.

In the justice court of C. H. Taylor the case of Frank McCarthy, on the charge of defacing library books, was brought up for examination. No jury was summoned but the defendant was found guilty and was fined $5 and costs.

The first case on the docket Saturday morning was that of Green vs. Mutts in an action to recover rent. It was tried before Justice Aylesworth. Several witnesses were called and the entire forenoon was devoted to the case. Judgment was rendered in favor of the defendant plaintiff for $7.10 and in favor of the defendant for $50. Upon the advice of the winning attorney the justice taxed the cost of the trial on the losing parties.

In Justice Taylor's court, the case of Gilmore vs. Matteson was tried. In this replevin suit a judgment was rendered in favor of the plaintiff for $5.00.

All three of the district courts convened Saturday morning. In Judge Benton's court, a motion for a new trial was argued in the case of Collins vs. Troub and Marconnet which was tried in the same court by a jury the week before. The motion was overruled.

In the court of Judge Carlberg a demurrer was granted both petitions "in the matter of the Farmers' Bank." This case was postponed until Wednesday, December 16, by the consent of the parties to the case.

Attorney John J. Ledwith of Lincoln devotes a share of his time to these practice courts. He advises the students on points and questions which arise in the course of the trials.

THE ATHLETIC BOARD TONIGHT.

Question of Awarding Letters to Football Men to Come Up.

A regular meeting of the University athletic board will take place tonight at 8:15. The meeting was originally called for 4:30 but on account of the chancellor's reception from 4 till 6 it was postponed until 8:15.

At this meeting of the board the matter of the recently discussed change in the government of athletics at the university will be finally settled. Another matter of importance which will doubtless come up before the board at this time is the awarding of letters to this season's football team. The election of next year's captain will not take place, however, before Friday.

In order to be able to vote for the captain the players must have paid their training table board in full, and as this has not yet been done by several of the men they will be allowed until Friday of this week. The men who are to receive the letters will, however, be decided upon tonight and then if they fail to comply with the rules in respect to paying their board they will then be denied their letters.

It is possible that the board will vote upon the question of giving sweaters to the players. Last season the varsity players were given a jersey with the "N," the substitutes were given a heavy sweater vest without any initial, and the freshmen were given jerseys with an "N" upon which was a small white "2." It is reported that the board intends to be more liberal in granting the sweaters this year.

ISSUE CHARITY SEAL

RED CROSS SOCIETY HAS A NEAT CHRISTMAS STAMP ON SALE.

PROCEEDS GO TO CHARITY FUND

History of An Interesting Movement of Raising Funds for Charity Which Originated in the United States.

With view of promoting charity, and especially of assisting in the campaign against tuberculosis in Nebraska and in the United States the Red Cross society have issued a special stamp for the use of students and others in the mailing of Christmas, guilds, cards and letters to friends. The cost of the stamps will be a cent a piece, and they will be placed on sale at the university Book Store, also at the Co-op.

The stamps are a neat design, about an inch and a quarter square and in red and green colors. Around the border is the inscription "American National Red Cross, 1908." Inside is a wreath representing holly, surrounding the emblem of the Red Cross society, the cross with the inscription in red, "Merry Christmas and Happy New Year." The stamps have a sticky back, so that a letter, or a package can be neatly and effectively sealed.

First Charity Stamps.

The history of the "Charity Stamp" movement is intensely interesting, starting in America in 1863, shortly after the war of the rebellion had apparently resulted in a Confederate success for the preceding year, and during a time when the North was plunged in deepest gloom by the success of the Southern arms. From America the movement has spread to Europe, until today nearly all of the civilized nations of the globe have what is known as the "Charity stamp." In Sweden, the success of the stamp was remarkable and nearly three millions of dollars has been raised by this country in a comparatively short time through the use of stamps to be devoted to charitable purposes. England, France, Germany, Russia, Denmark and Spain annually contribute large sums of money to charity to be used principally in the establishment of hospitals, through the medium of the charity stamp. Originating in America, the movement spread like wild fire all over the world, and has resulted in an inestimable amount of good to the human race.

The money secured from the stamps at Boston during the war of the rebellion was used by the Red Cross in caring for the wounded soldiers who fell fighting for their country. Several thousand dollars were annually realized from the sale of the stamps. The little state of Delaware alone raised three thousand dollars in one year, enough to start a hospital for consumptives. Since the success in Boston and Delaware the charity stamp has been introduced by the Red Cross society into nearly every state in the union, the sales of the stamps are enormous, running into the thousands of dollars. The amount of good which this has accomplished cannot be over-estimated. Hospitals have been established, further research along scientific lines in the fight against the "white plague" is made possible.

Students Should Patronize.

In sealing their letters and packages for Christmas the students of the university should remember the Red Cross stamp. For all practical purposes the stamp is as near a seal as any Christmas design that can be obtained anywhere, and in addition by patronizing the students are assisting in a noble and important work, the campaign against consumption.
