THREE BIG DATES SET

CHICAGO TO PLAY MINNESOTA, WISCONSIN AND CORNELL.

BADGERS CLOSE MAROON SEASON

Final Football Game Next Fall Between These Schools Scheduled for Saturday, November 20, on Marshall Field.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—Director A. A. Stagg of the University of Chicago broke a few records in his football correspondence school yesterday by arranging the dates of his three major gridiron games for next fall. After a telegraphic conference with his "big three" conferees, he announced that Chicago would meet Minnesota at Minneapolis, October 30, Cornell at Ithaca November 13, and Wisconsin at Marshall field November 20.

The maroon coach had feared these important dates would take most of the week to arrange, but a final wire from Coach Harry Williams of Minnesota last night cleared up the tangle. The gopher coach agreed to the October 30 date and the Cornell and Wisconsin dates thereby were automatically set, the schedule having depended on the attitude of Minnesota.

Game Here for Title Possible.

According to the arrangement of the maroon schedule, Wisconsin and Chicago may meet again in the championship game on the final Saturday of the football year. As Chicago will meet Minnesota and Minnesota will meet the badgers before November 20, the football situation will be ripe for a championship struggle, as the maroon rooters see it from this distance.

The only unfortunate circumstance connected with the gridiron revival, according to the maroon enthusiasts, is the fact that Chicago must meet Wisconsin only one week after playing Cornell at Ithaca. The possible effects of the hard eastern game and the long trip are feared at the midway, especially as the maroon contingent counts the badgers of greater importance than the Ithacans, from the "big eight" standpoint.

Illinois on Schedule Again.

In addition to the three dates Coach Stagg announced that Illinois would be on the Chicago schedule next fall. While no contract exists between the two schools, the authorities have a verbal agreement to meet each other. It is probable the Illinois game will be dated for October 23 at Marshall field, the Saturday before the maroon-gopher battle.

Coach Stagg declared the rest of the maroon schedule could not be guessed at before Saturday's meeting of the maroon board of physical culture and athletic control. The rooters are inclined to believe that Northwestern, Purdue and possibly Indiana also will be on the list.

MORE THAN 70 ORDER HEADGEAR

Juniors Soon to Appear in Their Nifty Bulldog Caps.

Over seventy members of the junior class have already made the deposit of 25c and placed their order with the committee for the official headgear. The class cap is the blue "bulldog" type with gold numerals. It sells for 50c.

An original deposit of 25c is obtained in order that each person may be sure of getting the proper size and to insure the committee that the cap will be purchased on its arrival.

All gentlemen members of the class who are expecting to secure a cap are urged to see a committeeman at once as there will be only one order, which will be placed with the furnisher on Thursday noon, January 21, 1909. The committee is Ezra Ditterline, Carl Hutchinson, Fred Hoffman, Frank Wheelock.

The Minnesota Daily is objecting to the misuse of the study room.

Purdue has just dedicated a new agricultural experiment station building.

There is much talk of a non-fraternity-freshmen athletic organization at Iowa.

Twenty-five are practicing for the male chorus at Indiana.

The Minnesota faculty has definitely voted down a proposition for granting credit for work in the university publication and on the glee club.

Stagg is crying for a bigger squad for the freshman track team. At present only fifteen are out.

Iowa's track prospects are reported to be better than usual this year.

The Purdue athletic association elected its officers last week. The election was held in a business meeting. It also voted to grant a "P" to any man getting a first of second in a conference cross country.

The inter-society debate for the university championship will soon be held at Iowa.

The Indiana freshmen are striving earnestly to get their class caps in time for the Founder's Day examination.

The rules for freshmen at Cornell have been revised. No underling can now attend the junior prom there, nor sit in a box in the Lyceum theater. On account of the cold, however, a grey toque may be substituted for the freshman cap.
