FOR THE HIGH SCHOOLS.

The Daily Nebraskan wishes to suggest to the board of regents of this university that they, at their next meeting, appropriate enough money to send the Daily Nebraskan to the leading high schools of this state. By doing this they would arouse an interest in the university among the high school pupils that would lead a greater proportion of the young people to enter this state school than come here now.

As it is only two high schools in Nebraska receive this paper. If the regents would furnish a small sum the Nebraskan could be mailed regularly to all the high schools of any importance.

That the students of those schools would be glad to receive the paper and would read it is the opinion of many high school professors who have written to the Nebraskan urging that the paper be sent for their pupils. It is related by these men that their pupils whenever a copy of the paper chances to reach their library, read it eagerly and discuss the happenings at the state school.

The high school student finds many interesting articles in the Nebraskan. They like, of course, to read about the athletic events but they also absorb much of the other news. Through reading the Nebraskan regularly they would come to have an interest in the university that would make them long to be here. Many of them would probably be decided through reading the 24. Professional Course in Social Service.—Planned to give practical experience to those who expect to prepare themselves to take positions in charitable or correctional institutions, or to take part in the social betterment work of churches, or Christian associations, probation work of juvenile courts, or welfare departments of industrial establishments. As far as possible the work will be adapted to the needs of each student. Students will work special investigations, and visit institutions in Lincoln and Omaha. Open to mature students. One hour attendance besides field work. Two hours' credit. Hour to be arranged.

Second semester courses by George Elliott Howard:

Course 4 is a continuation of Course 3 in biography of American statesmanship; but new registrations are accepted. Students who had Course 3 in 1907-1908 may continue their work in this course. Note, also, that this course 4 is entirely different from course 4 given in 1907-1908 (second semester); and hence it may be taken with credit by those who received credit for the last named course. T. Th., 10.

Course 16. This is designed to supplement course 15; and it is especially recommended for students in that course; but new registrations are accepted. M. W. F., 10.

Course 10. This is a course in practical or elementary sociology, and may be taken by undergraduates or graduates. About 35 general topics will be illustrated by 700 lantern slides. Note that two hours' credit are given, instead of one hour as stated on p. 302 of the university catalog. T. Th., 3.

French.

The French department wishes to announce that French I will be given again the second semester. The class will very likely meet at 10 o'clock.

Bohemian.

Bohemian 13, or the course on "Slavonic Life," will be given in English. This was omitted in the announcement on the bulletin board.

European History 52.

The Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Associations of the university desire to call the attention of all the students to the accredited course given by Miss Laura H. Wild on the "History of the First Christian Century." The name and calendar number is European History 52, meeting on Tuesday and Thursday at 4 o'clock. Two hours' attendance and two hours' credit. The following is a description of the course:

It will deal with the books of the New Testament especially, beginning with historical setting for the birth of Jesus, the history of the Pharisaic and Sadducean parties, the political situation which placed the Herods in power, the expectations of the people, and the mission of John the Baptist, as the background for the teachings of Jesus. The authenticity of the Gos-

Nebraskan and would plan to come to the university.

Through the Nebraskan, then, the young people of the state would be benefitted immensely and the attendance at the university would be greatly increased. This matter surely deserves consideration from the regents and ought to be brought to their attention.

THE SECOND SEMESTER COURSES

Offerings of Various Departments to Students.

Two courses in astronomy are open to beginners. Each is a lecture course, but with some written work every day such as the plotting of orbits, positions and motions of the planets. There is thus a constant training in geometrical conceptions, but involve no use of the higher mathematics. A student may take either or both courses, as fulfilling the requirements for "Exact Sciences."

Lectures in Astronomy 4a.

1. The astronomy of the ancients.
2. The dawn of modern astronomy.
3. Recent astronomical theories.
4. Gravitation.
5. The radiant energy of the sun.
6. Explosive forces in the universe.
7. Life history of a star.
8. Life history of a planet.
9. Life in the universe.
10. Mars—a possible abode of life.
11. Other worlds than ours.

Lecture in Astronomy 5.

1. Astronomy—its scope and uses.
2. The sun and the stars.
3. The sun's family of planets.

15. The aberration of light.
16. The tides.
17. Finding a ship's place at sea.
18. The telescope.
19. The measuring instruments of astronomy.

Political Science.

Second semester courses offered by Associate Professor Eaves:

14. Labor Legislation.—A study of the development of English and American labor legislation. Includes a review of important decisions interpreting labor laws, and discusses their practical application. Particular attention given to Nebraska laws and decisions. Two hours' attendance. Two hours' credit. M. W., 11.

20. Socialization of Education.—An examination of attempts that have been made to give definite training in social and civic duties. Particular attention given to the social and moral instruction of children in the public schools. Popular educational movements for industrial secondary schools, university extension, vacation schools, and public play-grounds, will be studied. Two hours' attendance. Two hours' credit. T. Th., 5.

22. Poverty and Dependence.—A general study of the causes of poverty and dependence, and the principles of prevention and relief, and a more concrete study of modern methods of caring for the poor. State institutions for the care of dependents, the methods of work of charitable and religious societies and emergency relief in times of great calamities will also be considered.

pels will be discussed. How do we know that they are true?" will be the question attempted. As the course goes on, the development of the early church will be dwelt upon and the Greek and Roman influences which helped to mould the life of Paul and the thought of the age.

Miss Wild is a graduate of Smith college. Those who have taken the work this semester are very enthusiastic in praise of it. The course is so arranged that those who have not taken it this semester may enter this next semester without inconvenience. It is broad and highly beneficial.

The "senior prom" the first of the formal dances will be held tonight at the Lincoln hotel. The advance sale of the tickets has been large and the financial success of the affair has been assured. "Henie" Weller is chairman and Euwin G. Davis master of ceremonies. Alumni of the university will attend in large numbers.

Calls have been issued for candidates for the freshman basketball team. All of the other three class teams have been out and practicing. The juniors have already played two games and have lost both of them to the city Y. M. C. A. and to Wesleyan. The juniors have a fast team, however, and will put in a bid for the championship. The strength of the seniors and the sophomores is an unknown quantity. The inter-class committees will hold a meeting after examination week to arrange for a series of class games.
