DEFENDS HIS PEOPLE

PROF. BERNSTEIN DISCUSSES "THE RESTLESS JEW."

SMALL CROWD AT CONVOCATION

Omaha High School Teacher Declares That the Future Home of the Jew is in the United States of America.

Before a very limited audience at the Temple theater last evening Prof. Bernstein of the Omaha high school delivered a most interesting address upon "The Restless Jew."

Professor Bernstein spoke as follows: "The Jewish race has had a long, interesting and useful history. From earliest times and through the dark days they have kept the lamps of knowledge burning. He has always seemed apart and separated by some barrier, but now, however, he is shaking off the lethargy produced by his surroundings and must walk erect. The preparations for this change has extended over a long time. Many modifications in his one-time characteristics have occurred, yet many of these still remain and we see them evident today in his thrift and energy and adaptability.

Has Overcome Prejudice.

The Jew even in the modern times has had many difficulties to overcome and chief among these is prejudice, which has met him everywhere. There has been a general lack of understanding of the restlessness of the Jew. The restlessness of the Jew is as much a matter of design as it is of temperament. This restlessness has often been termed a tending to wandering, but it is not. The Jew does not wander at random. His spirit is as restless as his body. Jewish thought has at all times had an influence in civilization. He has represented one great, permanent line of thought at all times. The Jews have always been a brainy people, surpassing many others. In this way they have greatly promoted the development of civilization and shaped society by their social life.

The Jew has ever been a home builder and a home lover, and yet in the eyes of the world this fact has always been misunderstood. Yet this spirit of the Jew will live and endure and prove to be a potent influence in spite of adverse prejudice in showing his neighbors many of their own shortcomings.

Not a Wanderer.

The Jew has always been called a "Wandering Jew," but such is not the case. Rather, he is a "Restless Jew." The Jew does move, but it is not aimless or at random, but there is a demand to satisfy. Perhaps the distinction is only a matter of definition, and yet the apparent wanderings of the Jew or his restlessness is due to the fact that he has a home not yet attained.

What of the future Jew? And of his offspring? They will be better, perhaps. Great changes have occurred since the time of Abraham. The Jews are doing their duty to humanity, and in the higher evolution of society, they may yet receive a place. He will yet show us the true meaning of the teachings of the Nazarene, as to the idea of brotherly love. The Christian races, as the Jew has met them, have failed to show him Christianity's operation. The Jew has seen that there is much discrepancy between the teaching and the application. The early church endeavored to subject the Jew and compel him to support it. The unregenerate must become a part of the church even though his conscience might be involved. Men even yet have not learned the lesson they have tried to teach.

The Jew could not be expected to accept the teachings of Christ because he had received his law from Mount Sinai. Everywhere there have been such disrupting influences, yet it has given the Jew an opportunity to extend his own ideals. The greatest terror to the Jew is the unchristianity of those whom he meets. The world has long known the restless Jew. He is an average man. His standard has been high but his children will be higher and be better. He has found at last his ideal home. He has searched afar and waited long. The long social antagonism is passing away. His future home is in America.

INTER-CLASS GAMES BEGIN SOON

Freshmen to Contest in Basketball Series for the First Time.

Lively work is being done to get the various class basketball teams into shape for the series of games to be pulled off in the near future. The squads are being put through hard practice every day and the chances are that the series of games will be a good one. This is the first year that the freshmen will be allowed to participate in the inter-class championship series on equal footing with the other classes.

The inter-class athletic board has embodied in its constitution a provision whereby a committee of four, one from each class, may if necessary debar a number from the freshman squad equal to one-third of the men from the other classes who are debarred through participation in inter-collegiate athletics.

This provision is to be used, however, only in case the discrepancy in the strength of the freshman and the upper classes caused by the members of the latter participating in inter-collegiate athletics, is large enough to warrant its use.

This year the rule is unnecessary as the teams are well matched and the championship games should, as a result, be good. The various teams are organized and have elected the following captains: Hilter, of the freshman team; Reed, of the sophomore team, and Flowers, of the junior team. The seniors have not yet elected a captain nor completed their organization, but F. C. Crites is their manager. The members of the winning team will be awarded sweaters bearing the class numerals.

The schedule of the championship series is as follows:

Freshmen vs. sophomores, Friday, Feb. 26.

Juniors vs. seniors, Saturday, Feb. 27.

Championship game, Saturday, March 6.

Fifteen cents admission will be charged to the first two games and twenty-five cents to the last, or championship game.

DE TRAY IS TO COACH IN OHIO

Captain of 1907 Chicago Eleven to Teach Football.

Leo De Tray, captain of the championship Chicago football team of 1907, and assistant coach of the maroon eleven last year, has signed a contract to coach the Wittenberg college eleven at Springfield, O., next fall.

At the conclusion of De Tray's competition in the spring of 1908, he was deluged with offers to coach at various institutions. He refused them, preferring to get a year's schooling in coaching under Director Stagg. Last season he was chief scout for Mr. Stagg, and always brought back valuable information about the team play of Chicago's opponents. In this way, he did much to help retain the western football championship for Chicago.

Fifty men are out for the baseball team at Stanford. Seven are former varsity players.

The Minnesota regents have hired an architect to plan a campus beautiful for the institution.

The girls in the University of Toronto have cross country runs which they call "paper chases."

The University of Virginia is preparing to present a comic opera entitled "The King of Kong."

It pays to advertise. A Daily Nebraskan want ad is the surest way to recover your lost pen or watch.

The current number of the Michigan alumnus has an article advising the institution to return to the conference.

SENIORS WILL MEET

ELECTION OF PRESIDENT TO BE MADE TUESDAY.

FRESHMEN CANDIDATE IN RACE

R. P. Thomas of Omaha Announces Aspirations for the Leadership of the First Year Class and Thus Supplies Void in Politics.

The senior class meeting which will settle the contest now being actively waged by two candidates for the presidency of the fourth-year organization will be held Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock in Memorial hall. E. W. Hills and I. F. Baker, the two contestants, are both confident of election and the balloting will undoubtedly be close.

Hills and Baker have both been in the race for several weeks and both have made thorough canvasses of the class for votes. Hills, being a member of the senior academic and freshman law classes, is supposed to be strong in the literary college, while Baker is presumed to have an advantage in the engineering school of which he is a member. It seems likely, however, that personal friendships and prejudices will enter into the affair to so large an extent that the colleges will not divide in anything like definite form on the presidential vote. Both Baker and Hills are well known in all departments of the school and personal popularity will undoubtedly be the deciding factor.

Frats Not in It.

The absence of a fraternity candidate serves to prohibit any union of the Greeks about one candidate and this aids in securing an election decidedly free from cliques or combinations. In another respect this year's election is different from that of one year ago in that no definite promises have been made so far as is known concerning the Ivy day orator, who is appointed by the class. Last year it was generally understood who would receive the honor in case either of the two candidates were elected. Consequently the influence and popularity of these men also counted in determining the vote for the principals.

In addition to the presidency numerous other important matters will be considered by the class. There will be no report on the senior prom owing to the absence from the city of the chairman. Reports will probably be received from the pin committee, the social committee, and play committee, and the committee on inter-class debate.

Freshman Candidate Out.

Freshman politics were enlivened yesterday by the announcement of the candidacy of R. P. Thomas of Omaha for the presidency of that class. Mr. Thomas is a graduate of Omaha high school in the class of 1907. He entered the academic college last fall and has been active in class affairs since the organization of the class. He is a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity.

With the announcement of Mr. Thomas the void in politics in the freshman class has been filled. Until yesterday the dearth of candidates in the first-year organization was so severe that President Gerspacher had announced that no meeting would be held until candidates were presented. It is likely that other men will now come forward for the place.
