The geology II. class yesterday laid great emphasis on the lack of the desire for beauty among the American people. It deplored the fact that our streets were laid out with pure commercial ideas, and lacked the beauty and attractiveness found in other countries.

EVILS OF PUNISHMENT

PROFESSOR CRABTREE DISCUSSES QUESTION AT CHAPEL.

TELLS OF THE JUVENILE COURT
Declares That it is Better Not to Punish at all Than to Punish While Wrought Up About Any thing.

In discussing "Tactful and Tactless Punishment" at convocation Tuesday Prof. Crabtree of the Peru Normal school took opportunity to make several severe criticisms in respect to tactless punishment, and illustrated them with typical examples taken from experience.

Professor Crabtree declared that punishment is a penalty for wrong doing and is meted out to discourage and to repress it. The effect of punishment depends entirely upon the spirit in which the punishment is given and in which it is received. If punishment is given in the wrong spirit only harm will follow.
Successful Punishment.
One of the best ways of bringing about a thorough understanding between the teacher and the refractory student is to hold a consultation and then decide the punishment to be given when both parties are in a frame of mind to give and accept in the right spirit. Any undue haste is a very dangerous thing. The question might be asked whether it would be better to not punish at all than to punish when both teacher and student are in a wrought up state. The student must be impressed with the depth of feeling of the teacher and he must be effected by it and thus met in a receptive mood, otherwise the punishment will not serve any purpose, and may cause evil to be harbored in the mind of the student which will last for years. A boy never forgets and seldom forgives. In the juvenile court the refractory boy has a hearing and is then placed on probation. During this period the members of the child's family are interested. This same method is now coming into vogue in the disciplining
