Mr. Bryan objects to the Carnegie pension fund and declares that it is the most "insidious poison that has ever entered the body politic." No criticism can be made of Mr. Bryan's conduct if he recognizes as clearly the evils which the pension is aimed to remedy and takes as active measures to have these evils remedied in one way or another as he is taking to defeat the Carnegie bill.

The reputation of Nebraska is surely spreading to distant lands. When students who have traveled all over the world pick out this institution as the best for the work that they wish to take it means that Nebraska is not falling behind her sister institutions. The latest case of this kind is the announcement by Lazarus Mallek of Persia that he will take work in the University of Nebraska next semester.

The students of the university should turn out in large numbers to welcome the basket ball team of the University of Minnesota when it plays here tonight and tomorrow night. This game is very expensive and not only

DESERVES SUCCESS.

A new plan for the holding of university dances is now under consideration by the board of regents. The plan briefly is this: All partitions between the rooms on the north side of the second floor of the Temple are to be removed and one large dance hall formed which shall be for the exclusive use of all the different university organizations. According to present plans a fine new floor will be laid and the hall will be made the equal of any other in the city for dancing purposes. As about $2,500.00 is needed to make the proposed changes the matter is now before the board of regents and must be acted upon by them before the plan can be put into actual operation.

A little thought will convince any university student that if the new plan can be put into operation it will be a big improvement over the conditions that have existed in the past. Of course the first and most important consideration in favor of the new plan is the fact that it will greatly reduce the expenses of university dances. It will be necessary under the new plan to simply pay the cost of lighting the room for the evening and the rent charge that has made university dances so expensive in the past would be entirely done away with.

It would be possible for all fraternity and sorority dances as well as university dances to be held in this new hall and just as enjoyable a dance in every way could be given. According to the plan it is not ex-

Happenings of the Past

Seven Years Ago.

Chemicals liberated in University Hall by the law students force all to leave the building for a time.

Arrangements were made for a second series of basket-ball games with Minnesota.

Six Years Ago.

New Physics building was definitely located on part of the athletic field. It was generally felt on the campus that the doom of Nebraska athletics was near at hand.

Five Years Ago.

Bids were called in for the new Administration building. Building is supposed to be ready for occupancy at the beginning of the next school year.

One Year Ago.

CLASS OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

Pandominium Reigns in West Wing of University Hall.

The noise which continued for some time in the west wing of University hall yesterday has at last been traced to the freshman law class. They were electing officers. The candidates for president were, R. R. Hill, Wendell Macdougill, and "Judge" Foster. R. R. Hill, a senior academic, received 37 of the 52 votes cast, and his election is a continuance of last semester's supremacy of the senior academics in the class.

The grand burst of hilarity came when the candidates for the vice-president were to be passed upon. As there were only eight, a motion was carried providing for a standing vote. Sidney Collins was elected by a plurality vote of 17. With cries of "Speech! Speech!" all business had to be suspended for a short interval until comparative quiet could be restored. S. P. Dobbs was then elected secretary by unanimous vote when, unable to contain themselves any longer, the members of the class burst from the room leaving further elections for another day.

the moral but the financial support of the students is needed. The games between the Universities of Minnesota and Nebraska which took place recently at Minneapolis were witnessed by large crowds and it is only fitting that the students of this university should show the same kind of loyalty to the school that is shown at Minnesota. So far as fast interesting play is concerned these games will be the best that will be seen on a Nebraska floor this season and it is not asking the students to make any sacrifice in urging that they attend.

THE PROBLEM SOLVED.

The Daily Orange of Syracuse university has solved the problem of how to obtain a large and competent editorial staff. Here is the plan as told in the words of the editor of that paper:

"The Daily Orange herewith opens its second staff competition for juniors, sophomores and freshmen. The increased facilities of the paper and the new system instituted at the beginning of the year demand the cooperation of the undergraduates and the selection of the best material in the university for journalistic work. To this end, hereafter, two staff competitions will be held annually. All students desirous of entering the conpected that the holding of fraternity and sorority dances in the Temple would be made compulsory but they would be given the opportunity of availing themselves of the privilege. The relief to the Greek letter organizations of the excessive cost of their annual parties would most certainly be gladly accepted.

Another feature of the new plan would be the fact that university dances would become more conclusively university functions. It always detracts from the pleasure of a university function to have present a large number of people who have no interest whatever in the university and whose sole interest in the event is in having a good time themselves. With dances given in the Temple there would be much more of a university atmosphere about the whole thing.

In the university it is always desirable to have as little of formalism in university functions as is possible and the holding of all dances in the Temple would certainly tend in this direction.
