AT THE PLAYHOUSES.

The Majestic.
 A novelty bill is offered at the Majestic this week with the Misses Hengler as the head-liners. They are a dainty pair of pretty little maids who really make their twenty minute skit well worth seeing.

Grace Emmet and company in "Mrs. Murphy's Second Husband" are a laugh-provoking quartet. The second husband is a match for a toothpick and boils his oxygen in order to keep his lungs clear. Miss Emmett as Mrs. Murphy is an Irish wit who provokes many a hearty laugh.

Peter McDonald and Meta Carson in "Alex McLean's Dream," cleverly enact a pleasing situation.
 Other good numbers on the bill are Rosalie and Doretts, European comiques; Fernandez May Duo, with European musical novelties; Tom Carrol and Joe Baker, in "The Hebrew and His Friend;" and Anskeland, a violinist.

The Lyric.
 "The Man on the Box," the play in which Henry Dixey starred for two seasons and made a big hit, is the attraction at the Lyric this week. Mr. Noble has the leading role and is pronounced by the first-nighters to be at his best.
