FRIDAY, MARCH 5, 1909.

The double-header basket ball game to be played in the Armory this afternoon will determine the championship in the series of games that is now being played by the different classes in the university. The time of the game has been arranged with the special object in view of making it so that no students can complain that the time of the game is such that he cannot attend. Not only should class spirit induce everyone to attend but the financial support of each class is needed to make the affair a success.

The action of the senate in tightening the requirements of unclassified students is an action that is no more than fair to the rest of the students of the school. That the university is not a place to take one long holiday is a thing that it is sometimes necessary to drive home to students rather forcibly. There is undoubtedly a great deal of good done by the easy requirements which permit some students to attend the university when their this last story has been spread is but another illustration of this fact. If those who are responsible for the printing of university news would use a little more care in ascertaining the truth, they would find that the university is not engaged in any great and corrupt schemes and that the only desire of those university men who are interesting themselves in the work of the legislature is to promote the good of the state both directly and by improving its educational system.

CLASS POLITICS AGAIN.

When the election of officers in one of the upper classes is not able to create enough interest to get out more than a mere handful of students and when the election of officers is treated as little more than a joke both by those taking part in the election and those who are elected to office there is something radically wrong. It ought to be one of the highest honors to be chosen as one of the officers in a class, but this is certainly far from the condition at the present time.

The question that at once arises is that anyone's mind is what is the cause of this state of affairs. It certainly is not due to the fact that there is a lack of ambition among students at the university. A little investigation will reveal the fact that it is the same thing in a modified form that keeps the best citizens out of local politics, that is the trouble in the university. When an office goes not to those whose work has been of the highest grade but to those who have the time to make a personal canvas among all their friends and their friends' friends and who are willing to pull every string that they can previous work has been such that they are not qualified to take any regular work. There is an indication, however, that something is wrong when as many students attempt to register for unclassified work as has been the case during the past year.

CARE IS NEEDED.

No idea more injurious to the good of the school could well be circulated than that the professors of this university are engaged in a wholesale lobbying scheme among the members of the state legislature. Such an idea has found root and has been developed in some enterprising quarters into a good sized scandal.

The work that the legislature is doing is of such a nature that it is of very great interest not only to university professors but to students as well, and it would be a very strange state of affairs if the faces of many university men were not familiar about the state house. The fact that men have occasion to appear before different committees frequently and have business that takes them to the capitol is no indication that they are engaged in anything that is improper.

The Daily Nebraskan has insisted time and again that the university is not getting a "square deal" from the newspapers of the state, and the way think of for their own ends it is not to be expected that the men with the highest ideals and the greatest abilities will be chosen.

The solution of the trouble, if one can talk of solving a difficulty that is more the result of mental viewpoint rather than any temporary cause, is the same solution that is advocated for the reform of municipal and state politics; namely, to get the best men actively interested in class affairs so that they will take the time to attend class meetings. If it were possible to do this there would need be no more talk about class spirit and no more begging to get the class out to meetings and interested in the various interclass events.

Happenings of the Past

Seven Years Ago.

Basket-ball team went on southern trip and took so few substitutes that in one game the business manager, although entirely out of practice, was forced to play.

Six Years Ago.

Nebraska lost to Minnesota in basket-ball by the score of 13 to 4. The play was a rough and tumble exhibition.

Five Years Ago.

A mass meeting was held to arouse interest in the Wisconsin-Nebraska basket-ball game to be held in the armory.

Four Years Ago.

An enthusiastic debate with a large crowd present was held on the question, "Militarism vs. Americanism." Among those present were General Dagget and Captain Chase.

One Year Ago.

W. A. Robertson was elected editor-in-chief of the Cornhusker. Regular inter-fraternity athletic board was organized and a constitution was adopted. Plans were made for an indoor meet to be held March 14th.

DISTINCTIVE

BLUE SERGE SUITS FOR MEN

$10 TO $30

There's a big difference between Serge Suits as you have seen them and the Serge Suits we show.

With the aid of skill in tailoring we eliminate much of the sameness and sedateness of the average blue serge and give instead—style and tone that add wonderfully to its appearance.

Within the range from $10 to $18 there are strictly all wool, fast color Blue Serge Suits that represent some of the best values we have ever offered.

At $20, $25 and $30 we show several different and distinct models, both conservative and radical—either plain or fancy weave. These are the well known Kensingtons and we want it well understood that we fit you as exacting in every detail as though your measurement has been taken.
