IN THE LEGISLATURE

SOME UNIVERSITY MEASURES STILL ON THE FILE.

CARNEGIE BILL FINALLY DEAD

NO HOPE OF RECONSIDERATION OF PENSION PROPOSITION.

Mill Levy Bill and Bill Creating Departments Approved by Governor.

Citizenship School and Special Appropriations Pending.

Excepting the bill providing for Carnegie pensions for the University of Nebraska professors, all measures introduced in the state legislature touching affairs of the state school are progressing favorably. The mill levy bill and the Kotouc measure dividing the university into seven colleges have been passed by both houses and signed by the governor. The bill creating a school of citizenship is awaiting action by the house, and the special university appropriation is in the same fix as regards the senate. The anti-frat bill has been reported for passage by the house, where it is now on general file.

The provision of the mill levy proposition and of the Kotouc bill have already been stated at length in the columns of the Nebraskan. The one formally turns over to the university treasury the proceeds of the one mill tax assessed on all property of the state. The second measure establishes seven co-ordinate colleges in the university, abolishes the industrial college, raises the schools of agriculture and of engineering to the rank of colleges, and legalizes the teachers' college and the graduate college.

Pension Bill Out.

The Carnegie pension bill is out of the race beyond resurrection. The vote of the house of representatives which was unfavorable by a vote of 51 to 47 has stood impregnable and the supporters of the measure have not been able to re-align the votes so as to justify a further effort to pass the bill. It had been hoped that a couple of votes could be swung to the support of the bill and that on vote of reconsideration a majority of the house would support the measure. This action was first expected early last week, just after the bill was first defeated. Various delays were occasioned, however, and when the supporters of the bill came to count noses late last week they decided that it would be vain to try to urge a reconsideration. The bill is, therefore, dead and nothing further can be done in the way of putting Nebraska on the pension list until a new legislature assembles two years from now.

The bill introduced by Senator Miller requesting the university regents to establish a school of citizenship is still awaiting the action of the house. The senate passed the bill by a good margin and it was sent to the lower house several weeks ago. There it has laid ever since. There is now some doubt whether or not the measure will survive the rush incident to the last few days of the session. The sifting committee of the house is slashing things right and left in an effort to present only the essentially important bills to the house for consideration by all members. There is some danger that the citizenship bill may be lost in the shuffle.

When the citizenship measure first came up in the senate there was considerable opposition manifest on the part of certain newspapers on the republican side of the political fence. These publications declared that the bill was a disguise for a supposedly vile and dangerous "Bryan political factory," which would educate the youth of the state in all sorts of cheap political intricacies. The supporters of the bill claim on the other hand that its sole purpose is a combination and re-arrangement of courses in the departments of political science, political economy and American history to the end that a more symmetrical system of study may be offered in these lines.

Sore at Fraternities.

The anti-fraternity bill, which provides for the complete annihilation of all secret societies in the universities, save those honorary in their nature, has been recommended back to the house for passage by the committee to whom it was referred. It is now with the rest of the bills on general file in the hands of the sifting committee. Whether or not it will be passed back to the house for consideration is a matter of doubt.

In case the sifting committee should allow the anti-frat measure to be argued by the house members there would undoubtedly be a strong anti-fraternity sentiment developed. There are many members of the lower house of lawmakers who are absolutely opposed to the fraternity system. There are others who have been led to oppose fraternities at Nebraska on account of some incidents of foolishness and senselessness on the part of a few fraternity men. With this combination working together in favor of the bill, it is certain that it would receive a good many votes in the house. Whether or not it would pass or not is much in doubt. In any case the senate would still have a voice in the matter.

ALUMNAE ENTERTAIN VISITORS

Omaha People Are Given a Luncheon and Informal Tea.

The Lincoln branch of the Association of College Alumnae entertained a number of the Omaha association Saturday.

The Omaha visitors were entertained at luncheon at the Lincoln hotel. Toasts were responded to by Mrs. Paul Hoagland, as president of the local branch and Miss Anna Peterson. Besides the luncheon, the entertainment committee of which Miss Louise Pound of Lincoln is chairman provided an informal tea, automobile rides and other amusements for the visitors. Several of the visitors are members of the Delta Gamma sorority and attended their annual banquet at the Lincoln hotel.

Among the visitors were Miss Nona Bridges, Miss Laura Bridges, Miss Alice Buchanan, Miss Hilda Hammer, Miss Bess Moorhead, Miss Anna Peterson, Miss Helen Ribbel, Miss Ellen Rooney, Miss Millicent Stebbins, Miss Ethel Tuckey, Miss Bess Dumont, Mrs. S. E. Davies and Mrs. Paul Hoagland.

MERCER TO SPEAK WEDNESDAY

Y. M. C. A. Man Will Talk at Mid-week Evening Meeting.

The Y. M. C. A. Wednesday evening service this week has a special attraction in the person of Mercer, the association man who has been visiting the university for the past several days. Mr. Mercer spoke Friday evening in the Temple and he has been conferring with the association workers since that time. His subject Wednesday will be, "The Story of My Life." Inasmuch as Mr. Mercer's career has been a varied and checkered one, his talk should be interesting.

Tomorrow in rhetoric 16, the question, "All Asiatics should be excluded from the United States," will be debated. The affirmative will be represented by F. Ebert and F. B. Garver, and the negative by J. Alexander and C. H. Gable.

PLAY AT ANTELOPE

COACH HAS CORNHUSKER SQUAD DOING STUNTS.

INTER-CLASS MEET TO JUNIORS

Third Year Men Capture 37 Points and Seniors Follow With Total of 34—Sophomores in Last Place.

Coach Fox took his bunch of cornhusker baseball tossers to Antelope park yesterday afternoon for two hours of practice. This visit to the park marked the end of the long period of indoor work.

The next two weeks will be given over to trying out the pitching candidates. Yesterday work was started by men in the box and that will be continued during the next two weeks on days that weather permits outdoor work.

It is probable now, the diamond play has been inaugurated, that Coach Fox will begin weeding out the men and putting in his hard licks with the most promising of twenty-five or thirty candidates. He will begin stationing men at the various positions and cutting those out who seem to be poor players.

Rumor About Gophers.

Announcement was made in one of the local evening papers Saturday afternoon to the effect that Minnesota had consented to meet the cornhuskers on the gridiron in Omaha next fall. The story was a dispatch from Minneapolis.

No official word to confirm the newspaper article has yet been received by Manager Eager. Negotiations have been carried on by the Nebraska manager with Coach Williams in an effort to get the gophers to play in Omaha, but it was not expected that the northern manager would agree to the cornhusker proposition at such an early date.

The annual gymnastic exhibition will be held in the university armory Friday evening. This contest is a preliminary for the western inter-collegiate meeting to be held in the armory on Friday, April 1.

Program for Friday.

The following program has been arranged:

CLEMENTS EDITOR OF MAGAZINE

Former Nebraska Man on Staff of Scientific Publication.

Dr. Frederick E. Clements, a former student and professor in the University of Nebraska, is one of the associate editors of a new scientific magazine. The new publication is called "Mycologia," and is devoted entirely to the mycological phases of botany. Among the thirteen associate editors are three former pupils of Dr. Bessey, they being Dr. Clements, J. C. Arthur, and C. J. Shearn.

Dr. Clements left Nebraska a couple of years ago to become head of the botanical department of the University of Minnesota. His specialty is mycology, and he is a recognized authority in that branch.

HAS NOT RESIGNED

CAPTAIN WORKIZER IS TO REMAIN UNTIL NEXT FALL.

H. YATES MAY SUCCEED HIM

DIFFICULTIES ARISE AS TO PLACE FOR ENCAMPMENT.

Every Member of Battalion Opposed to Necessity of Attending Classes

While Enjoying Active Service.

Captain John G. Workizer has not resigned his position as commandant of the cadets at the university. On being interviewed regarding the truth of the reports published in various papers Sunday stating that he had resigned, the Captain replied that he had not resigned but that his term of four years' service at the university will expire on September 23.

After that time he will have to rejoin his company, the Second infantry, owing to a ruling of the war department which requires officers serving on such detail to rejoin their company for one year at the end of four years of detail service. As to his probable successor Captain Workizer could say nothing definite. There has been some talk of securing Captain Halsey Yates, who, after graduating from Nebraska, entered West Point, where he served four years as an instructor after graduating.

Here Four Years.

Captain Workizer, who will leave the university next fall, has served here in the capacity of commandant for four years. He has quite a history of active service. Graduating from West Point in 1897 he first served in North Dakota and then in the Spanish-American war. He saw active service in Porto Rico and Cuba and afterwards in the Philippines. While in the Philippines, in the province of Romblon, he held every office from governor of the province down. On returning to the United States he served in innumerable short detail trips. During all of this time he served first in the capacity of first lieutenant and afterwards as captain of the Second infantry, with the exception of a short period with the Nineteenth infantry. On the 23d of September, four years ago, he came to Nebraska as commandant and of his service to this school enough cannot be said.

Strong objections are being raised to holding the annual cadet encampment in Lincoln. That it was to be held in Lincoln this year was decreed by the university senate, and at the time the plan was thought to be perfectly feasible. But objections seem to be arising everywhere. Not only do all the men object to a plan which would enforce their attendance at classes as well as camp duty, but all the officers to a man object to the project.

Put to a Vote.

Affairs reached a crisis last evening when the project of camping at Lincoln was put to a vote of the entire battalion. All those in favor of the home encampment were requested to come to right shoulder arms. Not a gun was lifted. All those in favor of camping elsewhere were requested to come to right shoulder arms. Every gun was brought to the shoulder. Thus the unanimous vote of the battalion has gone in favor of locating this spring's camp at some point distant from Lincoln. While a few points have been discussed, nothing has been done with any authority in locating the place at which the camp will probably be pitched. In the light of the objections, however, it is pretty certain that it will not be located at Lincoln.
