The announcement that "King" Cole has been re-engaged for another season as coach of the Nebraska football team is one of the pleasantest bits of news that could come to Nebraska just now. It seems that Nebraska will have one of the best teams in the Missouri valley next year, and furthermore that the team will be the very best that can be made out of the material at the command of the coach. "King" Cole, in his two years at Nebraska, has won the confidence of all and will be in a position to do more for the team next year than any other man could do.

A TYPICAL DIFFERENCE.

The difference between the college of the east and the college of the west is in no way more strikingly illustrated than in the difference in the college papers from the two sections of the country. In the Nebraska office the papers from all parts of the country are received and it is almost possible to tell by the nature of the paper from what section of the country it comes.

The papers of the oldest and best gains a breadth of view, but at the same time that he does this he loses the things that make the western man distinctive; the enthusiasm and the push that have become characteristic of the west. The western colleges have not got the reputation that long years of successful activity have given to the great activities of the east, but they have got brains, they have got money, and best of all they have got good, unbounded enthusiasm and confidence in the future.

WHAT IS CULTURE?

Culture conforms to the dictates of convention, but never does so blindly. Every act that is an evidence of culture takes an impress from the personality of the doer. As this is true of an individual, so it is of a people, also. Sometimes the fear takes possession of us that existing institutions are not everlasting. The older generation always deprecates the passing of old customs. But political institutions, social customs, religious practices all must go. Is there one who thinks clearly who desires them to endure? A people must be original to have a sound life just as surely as must the individual.

The danger of following a pattern is illustrated in what is known as fashionable society. Fashionable society is not positively bad. At the worst, it is only negatively good. It is a variegated copy of the best things that are in life, socially. The trouble is that with the participants it is too often only a copy. It is the play of boys "keeping store" or of little girls who "pretend like" they are keeping house, only with the incongruousness that the players have grown old in their pastime. It becomes fictitious, and the sin of reality is better than the virtue of fiction.

It is truly said that culture cannot be taught. It is a will-o'-the-wisp. "You seize the flow'r, its bloom is shed." The country youth gets over his awkwardness only with many blunders and much modification, and his only consolation is that it is better to be green than blase.

Be cultured if you can, but remember that it does not show culture to stay at home for the lack of evening dress or of a new Easter hat.—Daily Missourian.

In answer to a question on Andrew Jackson's personal appearance in a recent examination in American history IV., the following answer was given: "Jackson was a medium sized man of good physique, and with a fine constitution."

HOLD EXPOSITION ON CAMPUS

Washington University to Gain Buildings as Result.

Unique among colleges of the world, the University of Washington will soon be the possessor of several magnificent new buildings which a college would not ordinarily obtain in a decade. Lack of accommodations for the normal increase of students has resulted in a decrease in enrollment of new students this school year and the natural growth of the school has been seriously retarded. Now a remedy for these evils has been found in an appropriation of one million dollars by the state for the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition, which will be held next summer on the university campus. Six hundred thousand dollars of this goes to permanent buildings for the university. Three of the largest are the Auditorium, the Machinery Hall and the Fine Arts buildings which are destined to become known colleges are small sheets that are in their nature but little more than bulletins. The news consists simply of stereotyped announcements written in stereotyped form. The western papers as a rule are much larger and an attempt is made along the line of progressive journalism. In fact, some of the western colleges are able to support daily papers as large as the average newspaper of the small town. This is notably the case at the University of Illinois, where the students are given every day an eight-page, five column paper.

This radical difference in college journalism cannot spring from a lack of enterprise in the east, but it must rather spring from the different viewpoint in the two sections, which is evident not only in this line but in all other activities. The east is not any longer a new country, it no longer feels the enthusiasm and push that comes as a natural part of the work of opening up a new territory; its methods have become fixed and there is not so great a demand for initiative and therefore so little of it is seen.

The colleges of the west are typical of the west. One often hears it said that the western student should go east to school, that a breadth of view is obtained in this way. It is undoubtedly true that the western man

Happenings of the Past

Six Years Ago.

$115,000 was cut out of the appropriations for the university, which were expected by those in touch with the situation. This action was taken by the legislature as the result of the attitude of Governor Mickey.

Five Years Ago.

Sixth annual banquet of the Y. M. C. A. was held in the Lindell hotel and the most prominent men in the university were present. Among these was Chancellor Andrews.

Four Years Ago.

$350,000 was appropriated by the legislature for university salaries. This was $50,000 more than had ever been appropriated in the past for that purpose.

Elaborate plans were made for the annual gymnasium exhibition.

Three Years Ago.

Question as to the use of tobacco in the law school aroused a great deal of talk on the campus and considerable agitation was worked up over the conditions that seemed to prevail.

the University Auditorium, the Mechanics Hall and the Chemistry building.

These are all of pleasing architectural design and finish, harmonizing well with the present Administration building and besides serving in an eminently satisfactory manner the uses to which they are destined, will be a distinct adornment to the campus.

Besides these buildings, built by legislative appropriation, there will be other permanent and semi-permanent buildings erected by various states, counties and societies, which will serve to house new departments and provide much needed class-room. Although it has not yet been definitely decided to what purpose each building will be dedicated some have been assigned, as for instance, the unique forestry building of logs and native woods, appropriately enough, to the forestry department, and the California state building, a beautiful example of Spanish mission architecture, will be used for recitation rooms in the department of liberal arts.

Eight canoeists of Kansas university recently formed a canoe club. The president and secretary of the organization are known as commodore and first mate respectively.
