FRIDAY, APRIL 23, 1909.

The work of the Nebraska High School Debating League is of especial importance to the university because it is the training school for university debaters. Its work means that men will no longer come to the university with the peculiar ideas of what constitutes debating that have so often in the past been displayed by first year men.

The announcement that no more small fees can be collected by professors to pay for such things as mimeographing and small text-books comes as a welcome relief to the student body. Such demands have not been so serious in the past in the way of a financial drain as they have been as annoyances. It is certainly fitting that the university itself should bear all such small expenses, or else provide that they be handled through the same channels that other expenses are.

Chancellor Strong of the University of Kansas has discovered as a result of his investigations that at that will automatically grind out success. The most brilliant intellect in the word could not construct a set of rules that would guarantee that the best and most representative men in the university would each year be elected to the athletic board. Good rules are very important and necessary, but something more is also necessary and this is the taking of an active interest in the matter by the whole student body. Without this no plan can be a success.

The rules provide that the election shall take place on the second Monday in May, and that all candidates must file written statements announcing their candidacy with the secretary of the athletic board at least one week before the date of the election. This means that if the best students are to become members of the athletic board they must be induced to file statements announcing their candidacy.

It is of vital importance for the good of the school and for the good of athletics at Nebraska that the best ability of the student body be represented on the athletic board. Not only must a large amount of money be handled by the board, but policies must be decided that are of the utmost importance. Athletics can only be kept in the most flourishing condition with men in control who have the respect and confidence of the student body.

The student body should show their interest in this matter by seeing that thoroughly representative men enter the race. It is likely that if nobody takes the initiative the students at the last minute will find that they have not made their choice among a list of men who are in no way desirable candidates. The only way to be sure of an able athletic board for next year is to act now and see that representative men go through the formality of announcing their candidacy before it is too late.

WHY PAY MORE?

Institution a large number of men are earning their way through college. The attitude towards life that makes this possible is peculiarly characteristic of western men, and it is likely that similar conditions exist in most western schools. It is certainly true at Nebraska that a man loses nothing of his position either social or any other way because it is known that he is earning part of his expenses.

NEW ELECTION SOON.

The regulations governing the election of student members of the athletic board which were published in yesterday's issue of the Daily Nebraskan came as the result of one of the biggest fights and most thorough upheavals that the University of Nebraska have ever known. They were adopted in the hope that they would provide a fair and thoroughly representative method of electing student members to the board and they were first tested at a time when all the elements that had opposed them were united to injure their effectiveness. They resulted in the election of five men as representative of the whole university as any that could have been picked in the whole school. The rules therefore vindicated themselves at the first trial.

No rules can be so framed that they

MUSIC IN THE UNIVERSITY.

A university should stress the emotion that comes from a contemplation of the beautiful. A life without the subtler influences that come from the arts is barren indeed. Life is something more than man can comprehend. There are human facts which logic cannot fathom, and which are not dreamt of in our philosophies. The most fundamental facts of personality are emotional, and so any scheme of education should include in purpose and scope the training of the emotions.

The strength of music lies in its vastness. It appeals directly to that elemental something in the soul called emotion. There are states of soul which other arts cannot describe, but which music expresses. Thus music is a necessary complement to the other arts. It deepens and purifies our emotions and helps guide the course of our inner life.

Musical culture can only come with familiarity with the best music. The greatest artists should be heard, and to hear more and better artists, more persons must be interested. We must train our sense of hearing and that training implies opportunity and repetition. We must establish the habit of hearing the best and hearing it often.—Daily Missourian.

Happenings of the Past

Seven Years Ago.

Negotiations were declared off for a football game between Iowa and Nebraska. Iowa was not satisfied with the proposition presented by Manager Engle of Nebraska.

Six Years Ago.

All classes were dismissed from 11:30 to 2:00 while President Roosevelt was in the city. Varsity defeated the Nebraska Indians by the score of 14 to 2.

Five Years Ago.

Requirements for entrance to Phi Kappa were so changed as to correspond more nearly to the studies taken by university students.

Three Years Ago.

Tennis season started with a rush and three courts were put in shape. It was planned to have tennis tournaments arranged with neighboring colleges.

One Year Ago.

All intercollegiate activities in athletics by women were forbidden by action of the Board of Regents. A school of pharmacy was also established.

Here is the cheapest good gun yet made. By the omission of the take down feature we have been able to greatly reduce the cost of production and at the same time have kept the gun up to the famous high Marlin standard of strength, safety and durability. Notice the clean simplicity of this gun. The workmanship and finish are perfect. The weight is only 7 pounds. The full choke barrels are especially bored for smokeless as well as black powder and so chambered that 2 3/4 inch or 2 1/2 inch shells may be used. Several improvements in the operating parts make it the easiest, most reliable and best working gun in existence. We are glad to make it possible for every lover of guns and bird shooting to get this high grade repeating shot gun at so low a price.
