DATE TO BE CHANGED

CADETS WILL PROBABLY EN- CAMP TWO DAYS EARLIER.

COMMITTEE WORKING ON PLANS

BOTH SENIORS AND OFFICERS DE- SIRE THE CHANGE.

Chancellor Will Probably Call a Meet- ing of the University Senate This Week to Consider Proposed Change.

The date for the annual cadet encampment may be again changed. A committee is now working up a plan whereby camp may be held two days earlier than at present scheduled and still not conflict with examinations. The plan, when completed, will be submitted to the university senate, which will probably pass upon it some time this week.

The difficulty with the present date arises from the fact that various members of the battalion have prominent parts in the senior play which will necessitate their attendance at rehearsals. The committee now considering the plan is composed of representatives from the military department and the senior play.

Leave Earlier.

Two plans are under consideration. The one which seems to gain the most favor is that which will provide for the cadets going to Ashland two days earlier than the date as at present announced. This will not necessarily bring the examinations at any earlier date, as the class schedules are so arranged as to enable the majority of the examinations to be held, as already scheduled, and not conflict with the proposed date for the encampment. It is proposed to provide that those who have to take examinations after the cadets leave will be permitted to do so, being excused from camp during that time.

This change in the date will, it is believed, be beneficial to all concerned. The date for the encampment, if changed, will be from June 2 to June 7, instead of June 4 to June 9. This will mean that the cadets will leave here Wednesday and return on the following Monday. The other plan which also provides for the encampment from Wednesday to Monday is, to hold all of the examinations on the two days previous to the battalion's departure.

Seniors Support It.

The senior class is supporting the change of date for several reasons. In the first place several officers and members of the battalion are occupying places in the cast of the senior play which is to be given on June 10. As all of these characters are important to the success of the play, and as it will be almost imperative that they attend at least two dress rehearsals before the play is given, the change in date will benefit the play greatly in this respect. The cadets returning on Monday will also enable them, if they so desire, to see the morning matinee, before leaving for home. It is believed that many of them will remain in Lincoln for this matinee, and thus the benefits of the changed date will be reaped by both the cadets and the senior class. There will also be senior functions all during the week, and, as the number who would be absent with the battalion include some of the most prominent members of the class, they would be better able to assist at these class affairs if the battalion returned on Monday.

The authorities seem to fall in readily with the plan, the approval of many of the professors having already been secured. The chancellor will probably call a meeting of the university senate this week to pass upon the proposed plan, and at present it looks as though the change would be approved.

THE REGENTS ORDER 150 COPIES Books To Be Distributed Gratis Among High Schools.

Up to last evening less than 100 copies of this year's issue of the Cornhusker remained unsold. The action of the board of regents, taken Saturday evening in securing 150 copies for free distribution to all accredited high schools of the state, brought the remaining available number down to less than one hundred. These copies are secured for distribution among the schools of the state for the purpose of interesting students in the university.

The present arrangement of the books makes it especially well fitted for this purpose. It shows up each department in a separate division and gives a good, clean idea of the work being done here along all lines.

Two hundred pages of the Annual are now on the press and the remainder of the book is almost ready. It is being printed at the rate of thirty-two pages a day. This year's book will contain about double the number of cuts in last year's Cornhusker, and the individual "write ups" have been worked up in much more interesting fashion.

Tables, at which orders for the book will be taken, are established in the lobbies of the Engineering hall and the Library, and the management is confident that all of the remaining copies will be sold by Friday night. Only one thousand copies of the book will be printed this year, the forms being taken down as soon as these are run off.

TAKE FIRST CONTEST

MISSOURI BEATEN IN SLOW CON- TEST BY 11 TO 7 SCORE.

MANY ERRORS FOR BOTH TEAMS

Cornhuskers Play Poor Enough Ball to Lose but the "Show-me" Men Put Up a Much Worse Exhibition.

Nebraska 11; Missouri 7.

Nebraska had no license to win the "comedy of errors" with Missouri yesterday at Antelope park, but the fact that the visitors showed up with a larger error column than the local favorites resulted in Buck Beltzer's boys getting away with the vaudeville stunt to the harmony of 11 to 7.

Ward did the twirling for the Cornhuskers and permitted the crowd from Columbia to get away with eight safe bingles, two of which were converted into extra bases. Hayden, the wonder of the Missourians, proved to be out of form and the Nebraska lads found him for six safe jabs.

Gunlock at first and Alexander at second appeared not to be concerned with the hitting part of the game, for they were too busy taking care of the error column for their team and they managed to get in a few figures during the two hours and twenty minutes it took the teams to Marathon through the nine rounds of popular vaudeville.

The two teams are scheduled for another go this afternoon at Antelope park at 4 o'clock, but Captain Buck has decided to change the bill, putting on a serious drama, and probably will invite Charles B. Hanford out to the Antelope lot to see that the artists keep in the legitimate lines.

Score by Innings:

Nebraska 1 0 2 3 0 0 3 2 —11.
Missouri, 1 1 0 0 0 4 0 0 1—7.

Two base hits, Graves and Blake-ly. Sacrifice hit, Carroll. Stolen base, Cooke. Bases on balls, off Ward, four; off Hayden, seven. Struck out, by Ward, five; by Hayden, two. Umpire, Green. Batteries: Carroll and Ward; Hayden and Shannon.

Small Track Squad.

Having less than twenty men on its track squad, the state university this spring is threatened with a dearth of candidates that may prove fatal to the chances of putting out a fast team; and this, too, in a season when there is a large quantity of fast material in school which, if brought together would give the Cornhusker institution the strongest bunch of representatives on the cinder path that it has had in many years. The cause of the small size of the squad is more serious than the absence of suitable candidates from the student body and it is due entirely to the lack of an athletic field on the university campus. This want proved a hardship on the base ball coaches in making a good nine and it is now a big obstacle in the way of producing a strong track team. No athletic field on the campus has necessitated the establishment of training quarters at the state fair grounds and the change has kept promising track men from reporting for practice.

Dr. Clapp, head coach of the cinder path men declared that the forced transfer of the training site has brought upon his department a serious situation in which to work out a well balanced team for the coming meets. He asserted that the present squad of candidates, which he has been working with the last two weeks is the smallest he has handled during his term at this institution. He lays the blame for the reduced squad to the absence of an athletic field.

Meet Saturday.

The annual preliminary meet will be held at the state fair grounds Saturday afternoon. In this contest freshmen, who are ineligible for intercollegiate games, will be allowed to compete. There are several first year men who are stars and they are liable to take a generous share of the honors from the upper classmen. The work of Curtis Collins, who is eligible for the varsity this spring for the first time will be watched closely by the local fans. Several times in practice he has beaten the university mark in the shot put, and many students believe he will make his long throws official by breaking the Cornhusker record on Saturday.

DEFENDS NATURAL SCIENCES.

Professor Powers Thinks They Are Important Studies.

Professor J. H. Powers yesterday spoke briefly before his class in zoology in defense of the natural sciences, which another university professor recently declared to be comparatively unimportant alongside the historical and economical studies. Professor Powers disclaimed any intention of reflecting discredit upon his colleagues of the other school, but he declared that his branch of learning had an argument in its favor.

Professor Powers dwelt briefly upon the conditions in Germany. There he declared the leading educators were coming more and more to believe in the natural sciences. He stated that these branches were being emphasized not only in the high schools and secondary colleges, but in the universities as well.

Aside from this, he believed that a knowledge of the natural sciences was in many cases essential to an understanding of the more classical pursuits.

TO GIVE GRADUATION RECITAL.

Miss Macfarlane is to Finish Her Course Tonight.

BURKETT OFFERS A BOQUET.

Nebraska Senator Compliments University Graduates.

Senator E. J. Burkett, himself a Nebraska graduate, recognizes the worth of Nebraska's state university and the character of its graduates. Writing from Washington to Professor Laurence Fossler, he says: "The old institution is taking a splendid part in the world's work. There are many of her boys here in Washington in public service. I have met forty or fifty of them and they are all doing good work and upholding the honor and credit of their alma mater." Senator Burkett took his first university degree in 1893 and his law degree in 1895.

DOCTORS REVIEW IT

PRACTICING PHYSICIANS TAKE A UNIVERSITY COURSE.

SEE MODERN DEMONSTRATIONS

UP-TO-DATE METHODS AND REM- EDIES ILLUSTRATED.

Men Who Have Practiced Profession Out in the State Come to Lin- coin in Order to Brush up on Latest Wrinkles.

Beginning yesterday the second annual practitioners' course of the college of medicine is now in session. Nearly a score of practicing physicians from over the state are in attendance, seeking to learn by practical demonstration the latest things in medical science. The course will continue throughout the week.

The practitioners' course was inaugurated last year. At that time only seven or eight physicians enrolled, but the work went through without a hitch. This year the number is doubled and the course is enlarged to meet the variety of needs. Lectures and demonstrations are given each morning and afternoon and three meetings are to be held in the evening.

Learn Late Things.

The course is intended to give to country practitioners a chance to see by demonstration the new things in medical science, such as do not ordinarily fall under their observation. There are many new discoveries which cannot properly be made clear through the medical literature, but which may be plainly demonstrated in the laboratory. It is these which are made clear to the visiting physicians.

The idea of such a course is taken from the University of Vienna in Austria. For several years this school has annually had such a course and it is attended by physicians from all over the empire. Comparatively few of the schools in America have undertaken the establishment of a similar department, but the Nebraska authorities have been much satisfied with the workings of their venture.

The Program.

Last evening Dr. Lyman, head of the department of pharmacy, gave a lecture on "The Relation of Pharmacy and Medicine." Tomorrow evening Dr. Gunthers will speak on "Some Aspects of Mental Theurapathy." Friday evening the visitors will be the guests of honor at the regular meeting of the pathological club at which Dr. Woolley and Dr. Stokes of Omaha will be the principal speakers.

The regular program for the week is as follows:

Monday a. m.—Dr. H. W. Orr, Orthopedic hospital.
Monday p. m.—Dr. H. H. Walte, bacteriological laboratory.
Tuesday a. m.—Dr. Poynter, anatomical laboratory.
Tuesday p. m.—Dr. Wolcott, anatomical laboratory. Dr. Willard, histological laboratory.
Wednesday a. m.—Dr. Everett, Everett sanitarium.
Wednesday p. m.—Dr. Ward, Orthopedic hospital.
Thursday p. m.—Dr. Guenther, physiological laboratory.
Friday a. m.—Dr. Lehnhoff, demonstration laboratory.
Friday p. m.—Dr. Lyman, pharmacodynamics laboratory.
Saturday a. m.—Dr. Pillsbury, state insane hospital.
Saturday p. m.—Dr. Gales, chemistry laboratory.
