DISLIKES STATE UNIVERSITY.

A Prominent Business Man Makes a Severe Criticism.

R. T. Crane, of the Crane company, one of the prominent business men of Chicago, has recently given to the press a letter in which he viciously attacks the western state universities and contends that it would be much better for the state to apply the torch to its universities instead of spending larger and larger sums each year to maintain them. He even contends that he has statistics to show that the western state university is a failure. His letter is quoted in part below:

"I have given a great deal of thought and study to the subject of higher education, and have conducted several systematic investigations with regard to this and many other institutions engaged in advanced lines of education. In fact, as far as I know, I am the only one who has ever taken up this subject in a business like way, and the conclusion I have reached is that practically every one of these institutions is a fraud and an imposition on the public.

"In trying some years ago to find out the utility of an academic education for the young man who has to earn his own living, inquiries were made, not only of graduates from the of those who had engaged these graduates in a business way, and the result as shown in a booklet published at the time, was anything but creditable to the university."

The competition in which he won first place was open to all agents of the company and hundreds of papers were submitted. Mr. Eaton is now located in Omaha at the branch office of his company.
