Minnesota crowd will probably bring their band with them, and all the Nebraska rooters are expected to show the Gopher bunch that the Cornhusker band is the best.

Between the halves the band will march around the gridiron and the rooters are expected to take part in the snake dance. A column will be formed of the rooters four abreast and all will dance the snake dance in step with the music of the band.

The rooter leaders want university students to give their heartiest cooperation to this program and parade and show to the people of Omaha that tomorrow is the real old university day for Nebraska students and Nebraska students alone in the Nebraska metropolis.

Rally Yesterday.

The football rally drew a packed house in Memorial hall yesterday morning after convocation. The band was present and played several pieces, a number of short speeches were made and yells were given.

The rally was presided over by Ralph Mosely and the cheering was led by J. S. Elliott and H. B. Perry. After a few preliminary yells and a piece by the band Mr. Mosely introduced Chancellor Avery, whose popularity was attested by the ovation he received when he took the platform. The chancellor's remarks about athletics being the principal factor in causing solidarity of college were greeted with prolonged applause.

After a few songs had been practiced, "Bill" Chaloupka, one of Nebraska's great players, who is now helping with the coaching, was called for. He spoke for a moment on the need of cheering as an encouragement to the players on the field. The crowd then yelled for Captain "Buck" Belzer, but he was not present. He and the team were cheered wildly nevertheless.

Condra Out.

Dr. Condra then made a ringing speech, in which he declared the team was under-estimated and were not going to try to make a good showing, but were going to win. He wanted everyone to get to boosting and quit kicking.

Professor Stevens of the school of music offered a new song to the assembly. Its catchy tune made an immediate hit. Ex-Captain Mason pleaded for the use of colors by spectators.

Captain Cole was then brought to the platform and was received with wild cheering. He said he felt encouraged by the enthusiasm of the students. He thought the team stood a good chance to win.

Tomorrow Nebraska will again meet a foe which has been one of her greatest gridiron enemies throughout her football history. Once in 1902 Nebraska scored a victory against Minnesota, and, since then, she has been sending team after team to attempt to repeat the victory.

However, despite the hopes of the Nebraska rooters, despite the hopes of Nebraska coaches and players, Minnesota has, since 1902, been able to hold her own. But the Cornhuskers have put up a fight each year.

Won from Minnesota.

The eventful victory in 1902 was in the days of Coach Booth. Captain Westover led the Cornhuskers to Minnesota and to a victory of 6 to 0. When the heroes returned, a holiday was granted, a parade was formed and marched through "O" street, and the young ladies showered the heroes with flowers. Salutes were fired and special exercises were held on the campus to commemorate the victory.

It was not until 1904 that the Cornhuskers, under the leadership of Captain Benedict, again met Minnesota at Minneapolis. Although Nebraska played under a severe handicap, she held the northerners to a 12 to 16 score. It was on this trip that a procession of 3,000 Gophers met the Cornhuskers at the station.

We Must Win.

"We must beat Minnesota," was the slogan in 1905. Coach Booth put forth every effort, together with Captain Borg, to lead the men to Minneapolis for a second victory. But the Gophers proved overwhelmingly strong and defeated the visitors a 35 to 0 score.

In 1906 Captain Mason and his bunch of warriors were again defeated 13 to 0. The cheerful news that Nebraska had crossed Minnesota's goal line came across the wires to the home rooters in 1907. It was the first year for Coach Cole at Nebraska, and his pupils, under the leadership of Captain Weller, scored 5 to Minnesota's 8. Last year Captain Harvey and his gridiron heroes attempted to whip the northerners. After a stubborn contest each side retired from the field with no score.

Edward L. Witte, '08, is principal of the Riverton schools. He has revised the course of study and will endeavor to have the school accredited to the State University as soon as conditions permit.
