THURSDAY

Song Recital

Weeks the site of a series of battles between two opposing armies—the army of the red rose and the army of the white rose. Each side in the mimic warfare is striving not to annihilate the other, but rather to gain additional warriors for itself. The battle is waged not so much between the two armies as it is by both against the university girls in general.

The object of the "war" is to gain for the university Y. W. C. A. 300 new members. If this is done, Nebraska will rank at the top of the list for the number of girls enrolled in its student religious work. At the present time the University of California and the Minnesota State University equal Nebraska in Y. W. membership. With 300 more girls enrolled in Lincoln, Nebraska can claim her superiority over both of these present equals.

But entirely aside from the ambition that all Nebraska students should have to stand in the front rank, the Y. W. C. A. girls deserve all the support that can be given them. It will be well, indeed, if Nebraska can point to a larger Y. W. membership roll than any other university. But that is not all. Y. W. C. A. membership stands for something more than numbers. It stands for good fellowship

now. Let the class presidents get together and consult with the registrar in order that a definite ruling may be made before other class elections are held. As long as the present situation exists there will be trouble. It should be stopped immediately.

A GOOD SUGGESTION.

The following suggestion from a university alumnus is a good one. The rooting leaders and students in general will do well to consider it favorably. The letter follows:

"To the Editor, The Daily Nebraskan:—We are soon to have a new athletic field—in reality as well as in name; we already have a football team and loyal rooters. Now, why can we not have some distinctive custom at our games, which will be both significant and good to look upon?"

"In some of the years past, when our band paraded the field during the interval between halves, there was with them a husky color sergeant carrying a flag—a beautiful banner of Scarlet and Cream. When these colors passed, everyone arose and stood bareheaded.

"Now, Mr. Editor and readers of the Rag, would this not be a good 'stunt' to revive? It surely increases patriotism and increases our loyalty for Old Nebraska, as well as being an impressive and beautiful spectacle.

"Would it not be possible for those in charge to inaugurate this custom at the first game on the new field?
 C. J. FRANKFORTER,
 U. N. '08."

to wager that Iowa will manage to find some of the elusive "spirit" before the game next Saturday. Coach Griffith and his assistants know the game to play in whipping an eleven into shape, and the Cornhusker team may well watch out that Iowa doesn't repeat the Kansas trick of last year. Over-confidence was partly responsible for that fiasco, and a like feeling may cause all sorts of trouble for the Scarlet and Cream day after tomorrow. Iowa is not a foe to be scorned; she will at least make a game fight.

SURVIVAL OF THE FITTEST.

Tryouts to select members of the 1909 debating squad were held yesterday and a number of men were chosen to do the active work of preparing for the intercollegiate debates in December. At that time Nebraska will debate the income tax question with Minnesota and with Iowa, both of these universities being members of the Central Debating League, organized a few years ago largely through Nebraska initiative.

Between now and then the members of the squad will put in much time and effort in gathering and properly arranging material for the contest. Six of the men will be selected to make the arguments in the final debate, the others merely getting university credit for their work. All of which is a sample of the doctrine of the fittest. The best debaters in the university are picked by competitive tests for the squad. From these the best are taken, once again by competition, to represent their fellows on the platform. Incidentally there is a chance for the squad to do a lot of work in the meantime, which is put in the hands of the speaking representatives in the final debate.

It is a true case of the fittest surviving, and of these being aided by the work of all those over whom they have triumphed.

THE WAR OF THE ROSES.

With the campaign started yesterday, the university becomes for two among girls, and for religious and intellectual progress. Whatever the association wants and needs it should be given. Just now it wants numbers. University girls should see to it that it gets them.

RALLY TODAY.

The second football rally of the year is to be held at 11:20 this morning in Memorial Hall. At this time an attempt will be made by the rooting leaders to incite enthusiasm for the Iowa game Saturday.

Students responded well to the call for a Minnesota rally. Let the response this morning be equally as good or better. Professor Stevens' new university song, which has been the subject of favorable comment wherever sung, will be practiced with the band. This should be enough in itself to bring forth a crowd. Come out and give your opinion on the new tune. There will be other "stunts" also, well worth the hearing.

Be there—11:20—Memorial hall.

THE STATUS OF THE LAWS.

It is to be hoped that before the present election troubles are smoothed away, some definite action will be taken fixing the status of the law college students in academic elections. Under the past custom freshman laws have had a right to vote as sophomore academics. Senior academics taking freshman law work could qualify in freshman law elections. During the past year there have been several attempts of senior academics to take technical advantage of this situation to force themselves into sophomore elections. They have held that as freshman laws they had the franchise right in the second year academic class.

No matter what the technical aspect of the situation may be, it is manifestly unfair to permit men to vote in three separate classes, particularly in two classes of the same college. Some ruling should be made prohibiting such practices. Either the freshman laws should not be allowed to vote at all in academic elections, or else, which is probably the better solution, participation in two election in the same college should be prohibited.

The time to attend to this is right
