GOPHERS NOT TO PLAY WITH CORNHUSKERS?

MINNESOTA STUDENTS QUESTION ADVISABILITY OF GAME.

DON'T LIKE TO WASTE THE EFFORT

Nebraska Contest Has No Bearing on Western Championship Say Go-pher Students and Risk of Injuries Is Great.

Following the stiff fight which Minnesota found necessary to down Nebraska ten days ago, the Gophers are beginning to wonder if it isn't too much work, after all, for the glory involved. The Minnesota students, looking down upon Nebraska from the lofty heights occupied by their institution in the football world, can't understand why they should work so hard to beat a team which doesn't amount to anything, all things considered.

After viewing the Minnesota hospital list and carefully inspecting the smallness of the score against Nebraska, the Minnesota Daily appears with the following extravaganzas:

"There is a growing sentiment at the university that the annual game with Nebraska ought to be eliminated.
It is not caused by any desire to ignore the Cornhuskers for unsports-manship, or because they are not worthy foes on the gridiron. The argument against the game is that Minnesota, in order to be in the running for the western championship, to play Wisconsin, Chicago and Michigan each year, and that these three big games are enough.

"Although Minnesota meets one of its toughest opponents each year in the Nebraska team, the game is considered in the nature of a practice game. For this reason the team work is never developed to its highest efficiency, and the men are not in first class physical condition for the contest.

Big Game for Nebraska.

"The Cornhuskers, on the other hand, consider the game with the Gophers the big struggle of the year.
They develop their team to its highest state of perfection for the Minnesota game. They would rather beat Minnesota than all of the other teams on their schedule.

"The result is that the Cornhuskers play like fiends against the Minneso-tans. There is hardly a contest between these two institutions in which one or more Gopher players are not laid out for the season, or else are so injured that their playing ability is decreased for the balance of the season. This is but natural, considering the strenuous nature of the game and the different view each team takes of the struggle.

"Another reason why the abolishment of the Nebraska-Minnesota game is advocated is because it ordinarily has no bearing on the Western championship. The victory over Nebraska was not necessary to give Minnesota the Western championship, provided she won all of the other games.

Nothing to Gain or Lose.
"Nebraska is not a member of the big nine. Outside of Minnesota and Iowa, none of the other teams in the conference have games with the Cornhuskers. Minnesota had already defeated Iowa, so that the Iowans are out of the running, even if they do subsequently defeat Nebraska.

"This year's game with the Cornhuskers were arranged last season when a two-year agreement was entered into. In view of the resumption of athletic relations with Michigan, and the annual Chicago and Wisconsin games, it is more than likely that Nebraska will not be taken on next year."

DANN SPEAKS ON CITY OF CONSTANTINOPLE

UNIVERSITY PROFESSOR TELLS OF HIS IMPRESSIONS.

MOTELY POPULATION IS A FEATURE

The Turkish Capital a City With an Entrancing History and With a People Uniquely Interested in Their Daily Life.

Prof. W. F. Dann addressed the Tuesday convocation on the subject "Constantinople." Before introducing the speaker, Prof. Grunmann made some remarks on the lack of student and faculty interest in the convocations.

He did not aim to scold, but thought that more interest should be taken.
Of Constantinople Prof. Dann said: "To see Constantinople has been my lifelong desire. Ever since I was old enough to spell the word I have wished to visit that city. I did not go to study art during my sojourn in Europe, but went almost directly to Constantinople. I had no business there, but was actuated only by a desire to get an impression of the city.
The time I spent there was only a few weeks and not long enough to get much knowledge of the larger problems. The time was spent in getting a general impression.

An Interesting City.

"One may wish to see Constantinople for any one of three reasons.
The first is, its natural beauty; second, its historic association, and third, to study the modern city and its conditions. Any of these are worthy reasons. As a city of beauty it is almost without a rival. The Bosphorus in front is a most interesting place, and is about one and a half miles wide. Modern Constantinople is of much natural importance geographically and politically. It was important even in Greek times and in the middle ages. It was the capital of the eastern empire a thousand years after the western empire had fallen.

"It is filled with the learning of the middle ages. Yet in other ways it is the center of much interest. Antiquities it has but few as compared with Athens and Rome, and for one expecting to find such remains it is disappointing. The great mosque is a magnificent specimen of architecture. It is very difficult to comprehend and can be understood only by seeing it.

The Moslem do not like Christians in their mosques and resent any undue curiosity. The Turks are very religious. Five times daily they pray.
There are fountains about the mosques that they may perform abula-tions before prayer. Sometimes this is prefatory, but often is quite thorough. I think we may trust the Turks in cooking for they are a cleanly people.

Motley Population.

"The most striking thing is the der the sun is represented. The best place to see this is on the bridge across the river. The people live in quarters, every class having a section of their own. This gives to the city an extremely cosmopolitan character.
There is nothing to draw the people together, and their disunion is an unpleasant spectacle."

UNI PERU STUDENTS FORM ORGANIZATION

ANOTHER NEW UNIVERSITY STU- DENTS' SOCIETY ORGANIZED.

FORMER PERU NORMAL MEN ELEGIBLE

Enthusiastic Meeting of Old Members of the Normal School Leads to Their Organization as a Society.

Another university organization has been added to the rapidly growing list of university societies. This time it is a society of Peruvians. Fifty of the former students of the Nebraska State Normal school at Peru met and formed this new organization.

Last Saturday evening these former students were requested to meet at the woman's building. Here they were entertained by the girls and matron of the dormitory. An informal program was rendered, at which Miss Josephine Loomis of Crete gave a pleasing vocal solo. This was followed by a short recitation by C. M.
Penny of Albion. B. C. Marcellus of Lincoln gave a reading. This concluded the program, and an election of officers and the appointment of a committee followed.

Officers Elected.

E. W. Marcellus of Lincoln was appointed president pro tempore, and the following officers were elected:

Miss Mabel Bridges of Lincoln, president; Miss Mamie Jackson, secretary and treasurer.

A committee to lay plans for a permanent organization was appointed, with N. A. Bengston of the geography department as chairman. It was also planned to hold semi-monthly meetings at some place which would be determined in the near future.

The purpose of the organization is to bring the former members of the Peru school in closer touch with each other, and establish the same friendly feeling here that was evident when they were students at the normal institution.

Eligibility Rules.

The members of this club are all former Peru students who are now attending the state university, or who are members of the faculty of the university or of the Lincoln public schools.

This organization is the first new university society to be formed this year. The list of the various organizations among the students of this school is gradually increasing. Last year the number formed was large, and from rumors the number of new organization to be formed this year will exceed the number developed last year.

NEED TO SHOW YOUNG PEOPLE OF THE WEST

NEBRASKA GRADUATE FINDS HIS ALMA MATER UNKNOWN.

HE APPEALS TO STUDENTS FOR HELP

Says That the Thing to Do is to Give Residents of the West an Opportunity to Know What Nebraska Can Do.

In a letter to a Nebraska professor a university graduate of last year declares that this university counts for nothing more than a "country school" to the people of the west where he is now located. He insists that Nebraska students should do something at once to make known to the west the advantages of their school, to the end that western young people may come to Nebraska rather than to Chicago and other eastern schools.

The writer of the letter is not a pessimist. He is a man who was noted for the excess of his "Nebraska spirit" while an undergraduate. Since leaving school he has been at work in a city not more than a thousand miles west of Lincoln and it is of conditions there that he writes.

Is Not Known.

The letter, devoid of personal references, is as follows:
"I want you to put it up to those people at Nebraska at they must do more to make our university felt here in the west. I will tell you why I say this to you. I have been here for six weeks and during that time I have met a number of college people from the east and a great many who never have been east of Denver. To this latter class the University of Nebraska stands for no more than a country school. This is because they know nothing about it; they have never had an opportunity to hear of our good work, but it does not lessen the feeling of chagrin of one when he re-realizes that his college is not appreciated."

"There are four of us here now and we are working hard to show people what we represent, but we need help.
Every year young men and women are going to the east to study. Why not get them to come to Nebraska? You can have them there as well as Chicago. Some of the active students can take this work upon themselves and in co-operation with the alumni can begin a movement in the west. I think it is worth the time.

Still Interested.

"I do not want you to think that this letter is wholly an appeal in the interests of Nebraska University; it has a personal side also. I received a great deal of Nebraska spirit from you and I want you to know that I appreciate it. I want you to help me give it to some one else.

"I watch for the football results more eagerly than I ever did, and if the soul has any effect there is a great deal of 'soul rooting' coming from this section of the United States."
