NEBRASKA PLAYS EASY GAME AGAINST DOANE

WINS FEATURELESS CONTEST BY 12 TO 0 SCORE.

PUT SUBSTITUTES IN THE BACK FIELD

Twenty-five Minute Halves Devoted to Game in Which Doane Made Distance Only Three Times.

In a game almost devoid of features or spectacular playing the Cornhuskers defeated Doane Saturday by the score of 12 to 0.

The afternoon was warm, almost sultry, making the work slow and sluggish. The Cornhuskers were instructed in the beginning to take no chances in attempting to run up a big score. Cole was content to win the game on a narrow margin in order to save his lineup intact for the Kansas game. Not a Nebraska man was seriously injured. Rathbone was the only man who received anything that might be called an injury. Early in the first half he hurt his shoulder and was taken out and Hascall put in his place at quarter. Rathbone's injury is slight, however, and he will be in fine fettle for the game next Saturday.

Sub Back Field Used.

When the game started the Nebraska regular line was used, but a substitute back field consisting of Elliott at full and Sturtzenegger and McDonald at halves, was sent in. The back field subs were not very well up on team work. Their work was slow and they could not act together. The inability of the back field to deliver disconcerted the line somewhat in the first part of the game and threw them off. They showed steady improvement as the game progressed, however, and were going pretty good before time was called.

The halves were short, being only twenty-five minutes. This fact, together with the sultriness of the day and the fear of injuries accounts for the low score. The team emerged from the game in such good condition that when time was called for the second half, Coach Cole sent the men through some fast signal work to warm them up before their bath.

About fifteen hundred spectators saw the game, a goodly number of whom were from Doane. The Doane rooters occupied the west end of the grand stand and were conspicuous by their colors and their rooting. Some good-natured repartees were exchanged between the Doane leader and some of the Nebraska rooters.

Doane put up a good game even if they did not score. They have a heavy team and a good line. Twice their line held heroically when the ball was on their three-yard line, but they were finally beaten down and the ball shoved over for Nebraska's first touchdown.

Many Substitutes.

Many substitutes were made after Nebraska had scored. Wenstrand went in for Wolcott, Spellmeyer for Temple and Freitag for Shonka. In the last few minutes Beltzer and Franck went in to liven up the back field.

The game was almost devoid of features. Some of Sturtzenegger's returns of punts in the first half were good, one especially when he returned for over thirty yards. "Stutts" playing was hard at all times and he suffered some severe bruises in the first half. The feature of the game, however, was Captain Beltzer's great run towards the close of the second half. He caught a short punt almost in the middle of the field and by a fine exhibition of dodging, shifting the ball, and stiff arming, he ran forty-five yards diagonally across the field to within five yards of Doane's goal line. From here Harte carried the ball over for Nebraska's second touchdown.

The First Half.

Doane won the toss and chose to defend the west goal. Sturtzenegger kicked off for Nebraska. The ball was worked slowly back by Doane, but they soon lost on a fumble which enabled Elliott to fall on the ball, giving it to Nebraska in the center of the field. A series of punt exchanges followed, with the result that the play worked into Doane territory. Nebraska followed with a touchback. A punt by Doane brought the ball to the center of the field, where the Doane line held well and Nebraska punted to their ten-yard line. A good return was made, but a fumble followed and Johnson secured the ball.

A forward pass from Rathbone to Magor made a gain of seventeen yards for the Cornhuskers and placed the ball on the three-yard line. Here the Doane line again held well, allowing Harte to make only a single gain. On the third down Temple carried the ball for a touchdown, and Rathbone kicked goal, making the score six to nothing for the Cornhuskers.

On the next kickoff Doane fumbled but recovered, and the play was soon in the middle of the field. Hartwell, the captain and right end of the Doane team, followed with a good end run, making a five-yard gain. Doane then punted and Nebraska returned the ball down the field for steady gains on line bucks. On a punt Doane fumbled but regained the ball, repunting and Hartwell capturing the ball for Doane. Another punt followed and Sturtzenegger returned the ball to the same part of the field, the interference of the Cornhuskers being good. But after a couple of downs Nebraska lost the ball on a fumble, but soon regained it and it was worked down the field in the Doane territory. Time was called with the play on the Doane eighteen-yard line.

The Second Half.

At the beginning of the second half Dutch went in for Hobert and Griffith for Arnold in the Doane lineup, and during the remainder of the play a number of changes were made. Early in the half Nebraska again used the forward pass for good gains and also on side kicks. From the thirty-yard line in Nebraska territory the Cornhuskers carried the ball down the field to the Doane twenty-six-yard line, all of the distance made on line bucks, with the exception of one forward pass. Doane punted on securing the ball. The punt was taken in by Beltzer, who made the sensational run of the day, carrying the ball from the middle of the field to within a few yards of the goal, which was followed by the second touchdown for the Cornhuskers.

Once in the last half the ball was on the Nebraska five-yard line. Doane kicked a touchback, and while the play was on the twenty-yard line Nebraska was penalized fifteen yards, but a kick by Beltzer placed the play well out in the field. Nebraska tried for a place kick during the last half, but this was blocked and the Cornhuskers lost about thirty yards as well as the ball. The game closed with a series of punts and time was called with the ball on the Nebraska forty-yard line.

ANDREWS GOES TO INDIA SOON.

Former Chancellor Leaves Cape Town in Improved Health.

Former Chancellor E. Benjamin Andrews left Cape Town, South Africa, November 1, according to private letters received in Lincoln, bound for Calcutta, India, where he will remain until March of next year. The chancellor emeritus writes from Cape Town that both he and Mrs. Andrews are in improved health.

After remaining in India during the winter, Dr. and Mrs. Andrews will go to France, visiting especially in Paris. They will return to Lincoln about October 1, unless their present plans are changed.

DELTA CHI HAS HOUSE FOR NEBRASKA MEMBERS

LAW FRATERNITY HAS BEEN ESTABLISHED TWO MONTHS.

THE OFFICIAL ROLL OF THE MEMBERS

First Authentic Information as to New Organization Was Announced Last Evening.

Delta Chi has established a chapter at Nebraska. The fact that such an organization had been established at the university was not known until yesterday evening when the membership roll of the new chapter was made public. Delta Chi is a national law fraternity, and the establishing of a chapter at Nebraska comes as a complete surprise to the student body.

The members of the fraternity rented at house at 237 North Sixteenth during the summer and have been occupying it since the beginning of school. The chapter was organized last spring as the John Marshall Law Club for the purpose of petitioning

LOUIS HARTE.

One of Last Year's Heavy Line Men Who is Playing Steady Ball This Fall.

Delta Chi for a chapter, but owing to the lateness of the season, the charter was not granted until this fall.

Was Kept Secret.

The matter was kept remarkably secret throughout. No reports of the petition leaked out until a few days ago, when a rumor to the effect that a new law fraternity might be installed at Nebraska was published in one of the state papers. Since then several guesses have appeared, but nothing approaching the facts was known until last evening.

The new fraternity includes in its membership roll some of the most prominent men in the law school. The list of names as given out last evening follows:

Robert W. Devoe, Lincoln; Arthur B. Bouton, Bellwood; Roy B. Carlberg, Bancroft; Oscar B. Clark, Lincoln; Allyn Cole, Crete; G. A. Fitzsimmons, Tecumseh; W. H. Reynolds, Nodaway, Iowa; Dell D. Stull, Lincoln; Raymond M. Tibbetts, Hastings; James M. Patton, Dabinda, Ill.; C. Petrus Peterson, Stromsburg; M. E. Cornelius, Odell; James E. Bednar, Lincoln; Frank C. Burke, Lincoln; Frank A. Dutton, Lincoln; Vancil K. Greer, Lincoln; Henry S. Lower, Lincoln; Milton H. Pilcher, Custer, S. Dak.; Sylvester V. Shonka, Albia; Ralph E. Waldo, South Omaha; Ross W. Bates, Springfield; Robert R. Hill, Geneva; W. K. Hodgkin, O'Neill; E. L. Powell, Smithfield; Glen A. Preston, Fremont; S. C. Stoner, Osceola; A. E. Warren, Superior; Herbert J. Curtiss, College View.

Some of these petitioners were seniors last year and are not in the university at the present time, but they all expect to be back later in the year. Professor Maxey and W. J. Bryan are both members of Delta Chi. The petition for the installation of a chapter at Nebraska was strongly endorsed by Mr. Bryan, Professor Maxey, Governor Shallenberger, M. B. Reese, chief justice of the supreme court of Nebraska, once dean of the law school; Chancellor Avery; Dean Hastings of the law school; Geo. P. Costigan, late dean of the law school; Professor C. G. Vernier, and Professor E. B. Cohant.

Will Have House.

The new fraternity is barred from taking into membership any Greek letter man, although its members are permitted to join other fraternities. The reason given for this is that it prevents the fraternity from becoming an interfraternity organization. Among other points in which it differs from Phi Delta Phi, the only other law fraternity at Nebraska, is that the national fraternity compels its chapters to maintain a house.

Delta Chi is a strong fraternity nationally. It ranks second in point of membership, and first in the number of houses maintained among law fraternities. Its membership may be roughly estimated at twenty-four hundred. It has twenty-four chapters which are located at the leading law schools of the country. Among the chapters, the more prominent are located at Michigan, Minnesota, Chicago, Leland Stanford and Columbia.

GEOLOGY CLASS TOOK A TRIP.

Annual Tramp of Condra's Pupils to Louisville and South Bend Held Last Friday and Saturday.

Last Friday and Saturday the students in Geology 21 took a two days' trip to Louisville in order to study the rock formations on the Platte river. The class is composed of eighteen boys and fifteen girls and were accompanied by Dr. and Mrs. Condra and Prof. Bingson.

The first stop made on the trip was at South Bend, where the party divided. The girls, accompanied by Dr. and Mrs. Condra, continued on the train to Louisville. The boys crossed the river and made a visit to the state fisheries. After a study of the rocks and springs there they proceeded to tramp down the river towards Louisville. The old abandoned quarries on that side of the river were visited and the formations studied.

About five o'clock in the afternoon the two parties met at Louisville and went into camp north of the village.

After supper the party spent the evening in sitting around a big bonfire listening to stories and songs contributed by various members of the class.

The next day the parties again started out on their study. The Murphy quarries were first visited, then the National Stone company quarries and the Cedar Creek quarries. At four o'clock they returned to Lincoln.

AGRICULTURAL CLUB ELECTS.

Students' Organization Hears Address and Picks Officers.

The Students' Agricultural Club met last Saturday evening in the Temple and planned for the year's work. After a short address by Prof. Pugsley the club proceeded to elect officers. C. A. Broderick was elected president, W. Forbes vice president, E. L. Currier secretary, Mr. S. Jussel treasurer.

NOON MEETINGS AT Y. W. C. A.

Good Program to Be Rendered This Week at Noon Hour.

That the noon meetings of the Y. W. C. A. are interesting is proven by the fact that they are so well attended. Besides affording a recreation during the noon hour, they are interesting and instructive. The following is the program for this week:

Monday—Claire McKinnon.
Tuesday—Miss Scoville.
Wednesday—Florence Parmelee.
Thursday—Ida B. Vibbard.
Friday—Professor Eves.

NEBRASKA OR KANSAS IS VALLEY CHAMPION

MISSOURI VALLEY HONORS TO BE SETTLED SATURDAY.

KANSAS IS THE BETTING FAVORITE

Jayhawkers' Offensive Machine Gives Them the Edge Over Cornhuskers—Cole May Upset the Dope.

BY E. C. ELLIOTT.

Who will be the 1909 champions of the Missouri Valley conference?

Three teams—Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri—still are eligible for the coveted honor, the other members of the "Big Seven" having been removed from the race by the previous games of the autumn.

Iowa, the last of the strong contenders for the title, was eliminated by Missouri in the 13 to 12 game at Iowa City Saturday. Ames, in permitting Missouri to play it a tie one week ago, had its hopes shattered. Kansas disposed of Washington in easy fashion on the same afternoon the "Show-Me" contingent was lowering the colors of Clyde Williams' pupils at the Iowa agricultural college. Drake, meeting only members of the Iowa state college league, has no claims on the valley prize.

Nebraska vs. Kansas.

Of the trio remaining in the contest, Nebraska and Kansas appear to be the teams that will really settle the championship question. Missouri is strong this fall—much stronger than in any recent season—but its rather poor showing against Iowa Saturday indicates that it will have little chance of defeating the Jayhawkers in the annual clash at Kansas City on Turkey day.

Coach Roper has turned out a remarkably fine eleven for the Columbia institution, and in ordinary seasons probably would be a strong favorite over Kansas. This fall, however, Coach Kennedy has developed an eleven that is fully as powerful as the aggregation that was "all-victorious" last fall, and western football critics can only see defeat for Missouri. Removing Missouri from the race, as the "dope" demands it should be, there are left the two old rivals, Nebraska and Kansas, to fight for the conference supremacy.

In the showings up to the present time the Jayhawkers are favorites over the Cornhuskers. Men of the betting fraternity pick them to win the annual clash on Nebraska field next Saturday.

Kansas Undeclared.

Kansas has come through its first half of the schedule without suffering a single defeat. In several of its games it has been able to use substitutes. Even against Washburn Saturday Kennedy did not permit the star back, Bond, to work.

Nebraska, on the other hand, has suffered one defeat and has been tied once. The game lost went to Minnesota, a team that undoubtedly will be the champions of the west and one that Kansas could have held to no lower score than the Cornhuskers did, so that defeat is indicative of nothing that can be taken as "dope" in comparing Nebraska and Kansas.

With Iowa the Cornhuskers, of course, were handicapped by the absence of their regular quarter, whose presence would undoubtedly have given them the game. Kansas could have defeated Iowa easily. But couldn't it have made a better showing against Iowa than even Nebraska could, had Cole been blessed with fortune and had his regular quarter in the lineup?

Kansas' Good Offense.

Most answers to this question must be in the affirmative, for Kansas has a scoring machine the like of which has not been developed at Nebraska yet. Kansas has a powerful back field and Nebraska's has not been proved very strong.

In the Minnesota and Iowa games the Cornhusker offense was deplorably weak. It was only on the defense against the Gophers that Cole's men played well. On the offense they
