TO THE TEAM.

Cornhuskers, today the stage is yours. Twenty-five hundred Nebraska students and several thousand Nebraska alumni are watching you to see the manner in which you bring credit and glory to the school which they love. As you succeed or fail this afternoon, so they will be glad or disappointed.

We have faith in you. We believe that you have the brawn and the brain to win such a struggle as that which you are about to enter. We trust in you to strive to the very end for those athletic ideals which every loyal Nebraskan holds in reverence. Honorable victory is what we want, and we believe it is what you are going to give us.

Good luck to you, Cornhuskers. BEAT KANSAS!

first year in active operation, and the dean of the school reports that the beginning thus made has been highly encouraging.

In a recent address before the Missouri Press Association, Dean Walter Williams summarized the facts concerning the enrollment as follows: "The first year's enrollment of students has far surpassed the expectations of even the most sanguine friends of the school. There was general demand for the training that such a school could give. It was expected that in its first year twenty or thirty students would be enrolled, as had been true in the first year of the teaching of law and medicine. Instead, there have been enrolled this year at the university school of journalism ninety-seven students. Of this number seventy-four are primarily in journalism, candidates for the degree of bachelor of science in journalism in a four-year course. The others—twenty-three in number—are students from other departments of the university taking one or more courses in journalism. Fourteen of the total number are women."

If nothing else is shown by the rapid development of Missouri's journalistic school, it is at least evident that the creation of this department met a comparatively big demand. Missouri is to be congratulated on having the foresight to get thus early into the game and meet the want. Not only in this, but in other ways as well, the Columbia institution has manifested a "push" which is lacking in more than one western college that we might name.

K. U. "FRATS" ON PROBATION.

If Grades Are Not Improved Regents Will Act.

Fraternalities in the University of Kansas have been put on probation by the board of regents. Before the end of this semester, which is February 1, the student standing of the members must be as high as the standing of those outside the fraternalities or drastic measures will be taken officially by the university against the Greek letter organizations.

The average grade of fraternity men in the university last year, as compared with men outside the fraternalities, was 11 per cent lower than the grades of non-fraternity men. An official statement showing that his condition of affairs existed was prepared by the registrar, George O. Foster, and presented to the board of regents. The board then began considering a proposition of making a ruling forbidding fraternalities from initiating freshmen into the fraternalities and also forbidding the Greek letter societies from taking any man who was not a first-class student.

A committee of fraternity men from the Pan-Hellenic, which is composed of men from all the fraternalities, called upon the board of regents and protested that such action would cripple the organizations in the university. The board agreed to put the fraternalities on probation until February 1. At that time, they stated, if there had not been an improvement in the grades of the men the contemplated action would be taken. There are eight national and one local fraternalities in the university.

football just now, and especially this week, almost to the exclusion of every other form of athletics. Yet there are a few who are hard at work, endeavoring to sustain the record of Nebraska in other fields than the grid-iron.

With the first tryout of the cross-country squad held Wednesday afternoon the preliminary work for the Chicago meet is well under way. Another tryout and the members of the Nebraska team which is to contest for the western intercollegiate honors will be known. Then a short period of final practice and the Cornhuskers will go to Chicago to fight for supremacy in Jackson park. They have won repeatedly in the past, and Nebraska students have reason to be proud of their record. From present indications they have every chance to win again this year.

Besides the cross-country activity, renewed energy is being injected into the basketball situation by the opening of practice under Coach Hewitt. While the attendance of old men at the opening session was not so large as might have been, it is known that at least five former players will be back in the game within a few days. This will give the new Nebraska coach an excellent start for a winning five. As soon as the football battles are out of the way, basketball will take the center of the stage and some lively contests may be expected before it gives way to baseball early next spring.

THE HAT THAT MARY WORE.
HISTORICAL.

Miss Mary had a brand new hat That loomed up big and high. And it eclipsed for all who sat Behind her, the whole sky.

When in the class-room Mary sat The students howled their worst. They couldn't see around the hat, And they just sat and cursed!

AN APPEAL.

Oh, Mary dear, you ought to fear Such sins as you're inciting. With that big hat, that yard-wide hat Whose presence is so blighting.

In church and hall I pray you take Your big hat from your head, Then we'll be glad, and it will make Us bless you when you're dead! —Contributed.

The girls of Minnesota University have for the first time entered upon forensics. Three freshmen and one sophomore will take part in a sophomore-freshman debate.

For the season of '09 the University of Kansas sold 1,500 season tickets to her football games. As this represents 85 per cent of the total enrollment, we conclude that the Kansans have admirable college spirit.

In order to raise funds the California Athletic Association will present a farce, "Miss Rosie Posey." In this play figures a Stanford character, who is vanquished by "Shook," a football hero, in his attentions to Miss Posey.
