The Forum

Nov. 4, 1909.
 Editor Nebraskan: The article labeled "Whose Move Next?" in the column of The Nebraskan called "The Forum" seems to call for a reply. As one interested in this controversy, I take it upon myself to tender this said reply.
 It seems to me that the argument to sustain Mr. Ritchie's motion is void of all basic principles. He certainly cannot support his argument on the grounds of custom, for so far as I can find, the class president has always appointed the various committees. If Mr. Ritchie imagines that he is a reformer he has certainly made a bad beginning. His argument that class spirit would be improved by letting the class as a whole elect committee chairmen is not based on a sound premise. To deprive the president of the dignity of his appointing power makes the office of class president a mere dummy and not worth fighting for. It would detract from the spirit of a class election rather than enhance it. When the whole question of class control can be settled by the election of one officer at one time the whole class will partake in the event and spirit will be at its highest. But, on the other hand, if there is no specific meeting of great importance, and all officers are elected by the class at meetings strung out through the year, there will at no time be a full representation of the class at a class meeting. And because of that the spirit will decline instead of increase.
 A president of any organized body has the inherent right of the appointive power. After being duly elected to the highest office which his class

BUSINESS MEN SHOW APPRECIATION OF STUDENT TRADE.

NEBRASKA AND KANSAS COLORS

Scarlet and Cream of Cornhuskers
 Mixed With Red and Blue of Kansas
 Jayhawkers.

Never before has the feeling among the people of Lincoln and the support of the business men of the city been behind the students of the university and their football as it has this year. Never before in the history of the institution have the business men of Lincoln and the residents of the city shown their urgent desire for the annihilation of a team representing a rival college as they have shown that desire this year for the annihilation of the Jayhawker bunch.

When the members of the Kansas team and the crowd of enthusiastic rooters arrived this morning they were greeted by the colors of both universities on every side. Everywhere there flaunted before the eyes of the Jayhawkers the colors of old K. U., but nevertheless the scarlet and cream was far more evident. On both sides of O street each merchant has attempted to exceed their next door neighbor in the beauty of his decorations.

Royal Decorated.

The Hotel Royal, where the Cornhuskers have maintained a training table this fall, have put up a large sign, "Rah Rah Nebraska." The various stores all along the north side of the street have showed their enthusiasm by the decorations of pennants and the colors of scarlet and cream.

The city ticket office of the Burlington route and the A. D. Benway company have shown their appreciation of the manner in which the Nebraska students patronize their companies by the tasty "N" pennants which they have placed in their windows and the decorations of scarlet and cream and of the red and blue of Kansas which they have put up. Spier & Simon, Miller & Paine and the Nebraska Hardware company have also shown their Cornhusker spirit by floating great scarlet and cream pennants from the flag poles on their store buildings.

South Side Beautiful.

While the decorations on the north side of the street may be very beautiful, they do not compare with the decorations of the south side of O. The tasty decorations of the windows of Mayer Bros. and of Rudge & Guenzel can be beaten by very few of the other stores.

Harley Drug company, where the enormous sales of tickets for the contest this afternoon has been held, have shown their appreciation of the student trade by the very pretty window which their decorator has arranged.

Magee & Deemer have strung a line of pennants from the top of their store building to the pavement, and the decorations of Harry Porter, the stationer, in both the Nebraska colors and those of Kansas is very beautiful. Miller & Paine have arranged very tasty windows in their store, and the decorations of Rector's, with the mammoth football, is worthy of attention.

Corn Husks Prominent.

The chief part of several of the decoration of some of the stores is the decorations in corn and cornhusks. Decorations of this sort are prominent in the arrangement of windows of Ed Young's and the Lincoln Gas & Electric Light company. The west window of the Armstrong Clothing company is one worthy of attention and is decorated in very tasty style.

Other stores having decorations of note are Farquhar-Fulk, Wirick's, Union Pacific railroad and Ludwig.

Much attention has been paid to the beautiful pictures of the various football players which the St. George studio has donated.

The services of Professor L. L. Dycle of the University of Kansas to join the McKinley expedition have been accepted by Dr. Cook, the Arctic explorer.

can bestow upon him, the president should have the right to choose his helpmates in carrying through the class policies.

If the opposition to Mr. Powers imagine that the class president has too much power, let them send a petition to the constitutional committee asking for a cabinet to advise and concur with the president, and to be elected by the class, and it will undoubtedly be given consideration.

As a member of this committee I will oppose all attempts to rid the president of his inherent right to the appointing power.

Sincerely,
 HERBERT A. RESNER.
