"The Streets of All Nations" instead of the "County Fair." Well enough. But the fact remains that it is only a new name, for the typical county fair is usually a pretty fair representation of a number of nationalities.

Dispatches from Iowa City state that "Iowa is working hard in preparation for the decisive game for the Missouri Valley conference title at Lawrence" next Saturday. Decisive, indeed? That implies that Iowa is still in the running. Well, it may be so, although the indications don't point that way. Iowa has a habit, however, of coming out of a fearful slump with a remarkable display of sensational ability, and she may show the Jayhawkers a few tricks yet. The Hawkeyes have one virtue at any rate—they never know when they are downed—and it is a good thing to have in gridiron contests.

The other day the Nebraskan said something on the subject of professors holding classes over the time limit. The very next day the specific instructor whose dilatory tactics called forth the remarks held the same class clear into the next period.

The following is a suggestion from "A Reader": "What's the matter with 'Corn-field' as a name for the new athletic field?" Suggestion is respectfully referred to the ath. ed. of the afternoon sheet who is the self-appointed christener of the new ground.

The Friday afternoon teas come to a close this afternoon, when the last of the series will be given. These weekly social affairs have occupied a unique place in the university this semester, and it is to be hoped that they will be again revived next fall. As a place to get new students acquainted they have no competitor.

THANKSGIVING RAG.

The annual football edition of the Daily Nebraskan will be issued next week. It will contain a full account of the season's gridiron record, with the various features of the game covered by competent writers. With a special cover design and an insert with half-tones of the individuals of the team, the paper will comprise sixteen pages of material.

A review of the Cornhusker season by a competent critic will give a comprehensive resume of the work of Cole's pupils. A Missouri Valley eleven will be named containing the best players in the conference. Other special articles will be printed on the various things of interest in football, and especially in Nebraska football.

Owing to the fact that but a limited number of these special papers will be printed, orders should be put in now at the Nebraskan office for extra copies. The edition will make an excellent souvenir to send to friends as a sample of what Nebraska athletics amount to. Subscribers to the "Rag" receive the enlarged paper without extra charge.

LACKS THE SPIRIT.

According to statements of the Nebraska coaches some difficulty has been experienced in getting a few of the varsity men out for hard work during the past week. One or two of the regulars are said to feel sure of their "N's" and lack interest in the rest of the season. Constant effort is necessary on the part of the coaches to get them into the game during the daily practice.

That such a condition as this should exist, even with but one or two men, is a feature of the athletic situation which the Nebraska student who is loyal to his school will fail to appreciate. Men who have the ability to make the Cornhusker varsity should surely have the loyalty to remain with the squad to the finish. There should be no sluffing simply because a man's individual glory is achieved, beyond ter than ever before, but the contest is likewise to be harder than in the past.

Nebraska students then have two contests to look upon with interest tomorrow. Victory in either can be won only by hard work, but that is within the ability of the Nebraska teams.

MISS DAYDEN TO EXPLAIN.

Art Director to Give Special Talk to Students in Gallery Monday Morning.

Miss Sara Hayden will give a special talk to students who visit the art exhibit next Monday morning between 11:30 and 12. Miss Hayden is the best authority on art in the city, and what she will have to say is certain to be of value. She will explain the pictures and will answer questions. While the student attendance is increasing somewhat, it is still far below that of former years. It is hoped that many can be present Monday morning.

Miss Hayden yesterday entertained a party of friends at the exhibit. A very enjoyable time was spent over the pictures in the collection. Dr. H. B. Lowry talked at the gallery Monday night. Tonight Mrs. Clara Walsh Leland is on the program. She is an artist with a large reputation and was formerly an instructor in Wesleyan university.

possibility of loss. The honor of Nebraska is still at stake and the members of the team should keep at the work till the close of the last game.

It is just such action as this which impels the athletic board to suggest a change in the "N" system.

AN INSPIRATION.

Students who attended the convocation musical yesterday morning heard a song recital that was of unusually high grade. Good music was rendered by an artist capable of bringing out the best that there was in the several selections.

Such music as that yesterday cannot but be an inspiration to the student. A half-hour spent at such a convocation leaves the listener more capable to go about his work, more enthusiastic, and more optimistic than a similar time spent in almost any other way. Music is, to some extremists, the voice of the soul. While not endorsing any such radical views, it can easily be said that good music is an inspiration not to be overlooked.

TO TWO FIELDS.

Yesterday two Cornhusker athletic teams left Lincoln to represent the university upon different fields and in divergent interests. The football squad went to Denver to fight with the Denver University team for the big end of a gridiron score. The cross-country men went to Chicago, there to meet the runners of six other schools in the western intercollegiate run.

In both of these contests Nebraska students should feel a great interest. The football game is the more spectacular of the two, but it is doubtful whether it counts for as much as does the Chicago meet. In Chicago the Nebraska men will meet representatives from six of the other big schools of the west. Four times in five years Nebraska has won the intercollegiate. This year the Cornhusker team is bet-

Time is the test of clothes satisfaction. You have seen clothes that look better after a year of hard usage than others at the end of three months. The difference is in the amount of good, conscientious work put on the inside.

Men find that Kensington clothes last about twice as long as other kinds, because there's more—much more—put into the unseen parts. Try a Kensington Suit or O'Coat. If you don't find this true, we'll refund every cent you paid—That's fair.

You can't afford to buy an Overcoat before seeing ours starting at $15. They're just as good as we tell you and we say they're as good as money can buy, whatever price you pay, $15 up to $50. The correct styles are here.
