TEACHERS TO MEET IN ANNUAL SESSION

SUPERINTENDENTS AND PRINCIPALS HERE THURSDAY.

UNIVERSITY MEN ON THE PROGRAM

Dean Davis Speaker on Preparation of Students in the High Schools for Advanced Work in the Colleges.

The Nebraska superintendents' and principals' association will hold its annual meeting Thursday and Friday in the Temple theater. A very large per cent of the school men of the state are expected to be present. A very interesting and timely program has been arranged.

The general session will open at 8.45 a. m., Thursday. The question to be discussed is, "Should the language requirements for admission to the colleges of arts and sciences be changed so as to permit the substitution of modern languages for Latin?" Among those who are to give opinions on the subject are Professor Fossler of the German department and Professor Barber of the Latin department of Wesleyan, Dr. Clark of the Kearney normal, Superintendents Eaton of Geneva, Humphrey of Broken Bow, Moritz of Red Cloud and Hon. C. H. Aldrich of David City.

Bishop to Speak.
State Superintendent E. C. Bishop will speak on "Agriculture as a basis for the science work in the high school." Agriculture is coming to be an important branch in high school work over the state and the question of how to best adapt it to the other work is provoking much discussion. An address on "Hygiene and our Public Schools," will be delivered by Superintendent W. M. Davidson of Omaha.

In the afternoon the program will be opened with music by the Pawnee City orchestra. The discussion will be on music in the high schools, the need of industrial subjects, and high school debates. Thursday afternoon the county superintendents will hold a session in the music hall of the Temple. Among the topics to be taken up in this meeting are the uniform examinations of eighth grade pupils, teachers' certificates, and the part the county superintendent should take in the enforcement of the school library law.

Banquet Thursday.
Thursday evening at 6:30 a banquet will be held at the Lincoln hotel, L. E. Mumford, a member of the class of 1899, and a prominent student here, is master of ceremonies. Mr. Mumford is now agent for Ginn & Co., in Lincoln. Superintendent Fred M. Hunter of Norfolk, Nebraska, '05, is to be toastmaster. Mr. Hunter will be remembered as a debater, a member of the football team and a Phi Beta Kappa man. The Pawnee City high school orchestra will furnish music.

At the Friday morning session the normal training question will be taken up. Superintendent Tout of North Platte will give an address on principals doing supervision work while being compelled to teach practically all the time. A symposium of interest to college students will also be held at this session on "the preparation of the high school student as shown in his subsequent work." Of students' work in normal schools Professor Crabtree of Peru will speak; in the universities the subject will be handled by Dean Ellery W. Davis of Nebraska; in the churches, Dr. I. F. Roach, pastor St. Paul's church, Lincoln; and in the industrial world by W. A. Selleck, president of the commercial club of Lincoln. Dean Davis has sent letters to each sophomore in the university asking them along what lines their training has been weak and how it compared to the university work. His data should be very valuable.

The county superintendents will hold another session Friday morning. The business sessions will be held Friday afternoon. There are also a number of speakers on the program for that afternoon. Friday evening a general session will be held in Memorial hall. President A. B. Storms of Iowa State College will deliver his address on "Buried Treasure." This address is being looked forward to with great interest by many students as well as the teachers.

The cast of characters follows: Media, Miss Wagner and Miss Skinner. Jason, Miss Rokahr. Creon, Miss Baker. Nutrix, Miss Smatt. Nuntius, Miss Miller. Chorus, Miss Grimm.

SOCIETIES WOULD CO-OPERATE.

Learned Organizations Offer to Help Carnegie Institute.

Committees from the following societies of the United States have presented to the trustees of the Carnegie Institution of Washington a memorial expressing the desire of these societies to co-operate with the efforts of the Carnegie Institution for the advancement of knowledge in the fields of literature and art, including historical, archaeological, philosophical, linguistic, literary and artistic investigation: American Historical Association, American Institute of Architects, American Philological Association, American Philosophical Association, Archaeological Institute of America, Modern Language Association of America, National Academy of Design, National Institute of Arts and Letters, Society of Biblical Literature and Exegesis, The American Dialect Society.

The object of the memorial is to plead that similar recognition be given all the departments of literature and art as is now given to the physical and natural sciences. The memorial has been heartily endorsed by the presidents of Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Cornell, Pennsylvania, Hopkins, Virginia, Wisconsin, and Stanford Universities.

The University of Missouri will enter a team in the two-mile race at the Pennsylvania relays in April. This is the first time that university west of the Mississippi has entered this meet.

The Bachelor of Wabash College says of student politics at that institution: "It looks as if each clique or group is working for all it can get, and what it can get it keeps everybody else from enjoying."

PLANNED TO EXCHANGE UNIVERSITY STUDENTS

AMERICANS TO EUROPE AND FOREIGNERS TO UNITED STATES.

OUTLINE BUREAUS FOR THE WORK

Some Prominent Educators Said to be Back of Scheme for Inter-Education By Systematic Exchange.

Prominent educationalists in the United Kingdom, Canada, and the United States are busily engaged in the movement of international interchange of students among these countries.

The main objects of this movement are to provide opportunities for as many as possible of the educated youths of the United States, Canada and the United Kingdom to obtain some real insight into the life, customs and progress of other nations at a time when their own opinions are forming, with a view to broadening their conceptions and rendering them of greater economic and social value; to extend the value and efficiency of university training by the provision of certain traveling scholarships for practical observation in other countries; to promote interest in international relations and in civic and social problems, and to foster a mutual sympathy and understanding internationally among students; to promote interest in travel as an educational factor among the authorities of universities, with a view to the possibility of some kind of such training being included in the regular curricular, and to promote international interchange for academic work among English-speaking universities, in the matter, for example, of arranging for the part of a course taken at one university to be recognized at another to which the student can transfer himself.

Plan Bureaus.

To accomplish these objects the following arrangements have been proposed: Two students' traveling bureaus are to be established, one in London and another in New York, to be managed by college men whose duty it is to afford every facility to graduates and undergraduates of any university and others who wish to visit the United States, Canada and the United Kingdom for the purpose of obtaining an insight into the educational, industrial, national and social life of these countries; and twenty-eight or more traveling scholarships are to be distributed among the universities in the three countries. These arrangements, with their details are to be controlled by two general committees, one in the United Kingdom and one for the United States and Canada.

Start in England.

The movement was recently started in England, and committees, with the Rt. Hon. Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, G. C. M. G., Chancellor of Aberdeen and McGill Universities and High Commissioner for Canada, as their president, have been actually organized there to carry it out. The plan has been given hearty reception and warm support by the foremost educational authorities in Canada and this country, resident Butler of Columbia, and resident Hadley of Yale, being among its earliest supporters.

Among those who are taking active part in the arrangements in this country are ex-Dean J. H. Penniman of the University; President Hadley of Yale; President Butler of Columbia; President Lowell of Harvard; President Shurmann of Cornell; President Van Hise of Wisconsin; President Wheeler of California; President Judson of Chicago; President Alderson of Colorado School of Mines; Vice-President Burrill of Illinois; President Jordan of Leland Stanford Junior University, and Professor E. G. Elliott of Princeton.

In registration, Columbia, with 6,132 students is at the head of the leading American universities. Pennsylvania has 5,235, and Michigan and Harvard have respectively 5,200 and 3,994. Cornell ranks fifth with 3,903.
