Funny how demoralizing one day's vacation can be.

ANOTHER PROFESSOR LEAVES.

With the report that Professor Phillips intends to leave Nebraska for the Government service, the attention of Nebraska students is again directed toward the fact that there is a steady exodus of faculty members from Nebraska. Yet little seems to be done to remedy this state of affairs. The student body takes no definite action and no one else seems to care. The fact is that many people in, and connected with, the University care, but they have either become accustomed to this state of affairs or they have been waiting for some one else to watching a football game that twenty or thirty young men on the field were the only ones getting the benefit of athletics.

No better illustration could be given of the actual condition of affairs than to take the notices in one day's copy of the average daily college publication. First comes the swimming schedule giving the dates of the meetings through the winter and the classes for the various men. Following these are the field and track contests and indoor work is beginning. Calls follow for the university basketball team and the freshman basketball team, cross-country team, a call for wrestling, then the water polo men, the gymnasium team, and last of all, the meeting of the yacht club. All these are a sample of one day's notices.

From these instances one can form some impression of the New Idea which is extending all these advantages to every man in college. It gives him something to think of in the way of definite physical development combined with excitement.

POETRY.

Ever since the gods stepped down from Mt. Olympus and gave way to steam drills and things there has been a tendency to make the Muse conform to rule. Instead of courting the Muse spasmodically the wary poet has been inclined to trap her by scientific methods. This tendency has been developing more and more until today we have its culmination in a school for the budding poet at Missouri. Thus poetry flourishes in a scientific age.

Dr. Lewis Kranter, professor of botany at the University of Pennsylvania, was frozen to death while on a hunting trip in New Jersey.

The Michigan university authorities have advised the women of that school against patronizing the chop suey restaurants in Ann Arbor, because of the ill-repute into which the Chinese have fallen throughout the state.

From the sons of Nebraska! Not the sons of Oberlin, nor any other place, but Nebraska!

Whether any great results are accomplished this semester or not, the work may serve as a basis for next year's work, when we may confidently expect an excellent club.

Come with the bunch. First meeting on Thursday, 11:30, Music hall in the Temple. H. C. S.

UNIVERSITY GLEE CLUB. Notice! It is the opinion of a number of the students that there are enough men in school who enjoy singing and especially glee club work, to warrant the organization of a club this semester.

THE NEW IDEA.

In the March number of Outing Magazine, Mr. Walter Camp gives what is perhaps the sanest word yet spoken for sane athletics. The New Idea which he discusses may be divided into two steps. The first is that school and college are no longer split into the athletic and non-athletic; that every boy—and girl, for that matter—has the right to a certain amount of play every day, and that forced exercise does not furnish all that is required in this respect; that the play instinct is not satisfied entirely by this kind of exercise.

Secondly, that athletic sports and games are of immense value in disciplining the mind and body, and are just as necessary, aside from any benefit to health, as the educational training. An effort is now being made to put pressure, not by law, but by attraction, upon the man who burns the midnight oil and forgets his physical side in search of mental training.

There is a steadily increasing appreciation of the broader development, and of the belief that age should take an interest in the sports of youth; in fact, age itself should carry on certain sports suited to its years into later years and even to the end of life. This breadth of view is bringing up a better race and a happier one. Schools, more or less dreaded in the past, are now loved by the boys. One is apt to form an idea after
