CORNHUSKERS BEATEN BY THE JAYHAWKERS

KANSAS MEN WIN FIRST GAME BY SCORE OF 20 TO 40.

"WOODY" THE STAR OF THE GAME

Same Teams Meet Tonight in Battle Royal and "Tommy" Johnson's Jayhawkers to Be Fought to the Finish.

In the fastest game played so far this season on the local floor the Cornhuskers went down to defeat last night at the hands of the Jayhawkers by the score of 40 to 20.

Throughout the entire game the members of both teams of goal tossers brought the spectators to their feet time after time by brilliant playing and excellent guarding. Wood, as usual, was the star of the game and the work he did of guarding "Tommy" Johnson, the lanky Jayhawker captain, was of the nature to win him the glad hand time after time.

Nebraska Scores First.

Nebraska was the first to score and two points were chalked up to the credit of the Cornhuskers after a minute and a half of play. The men from Kansas quickly evened things up by a goal, and this was soon followed by another, which gave the Jayhawkers the lead, which they held throughout the contest. At the opening of the battle the Nebraska men were slow to cover and the scoring machine of the Kansas men had piled up a total of eight points before the Cornhuskers annexed any more to their original two points.

Vandeviese, right forward for the Jayhawkers, was easily the star for the Kansas bunch, and he scored a total of six field goals to his credit. The work of "Tommy" Johnson, which the Kansas men expected to be so spectacular, was handicapped to a great extent by having to play against Wood, the scrappy Cornhusker guard, and Johnson soon showed the effects of having to follow the tireless "Woody."

Nebraska Poor on Goals.

Where Nebraska lost the game was in the fact that they were unable to throw goals when opportune times arrived. Time and time again the ball was rushed into the Cornhusker territory, only to be lost after a vain attempt to locate the basket. Perry, the Cornhusker captain, scored four field goals for Coach Hewitt's pupils, and only through the efforts of the Scarlet and Cream guards were the Jayhawkers kept from running up a larger score.

In team work the teams were on a par and neither side excelled in this part of the game. Slowness to cover and inability to locate the basket spelt defeat for the Nebraska quintet. Amberson was particularly slow to cover in the opening of the first half, but he made up for it in the rest of the time he was in the game. Hiltner proved to be the surprise of the contest, and the lanky center proved to be more of an aggressive player than even the most optimistic of the Cornhusker supporters had expected. Time after time he managed to get the ball and was constantly on the alert to keep his man from scoring.

In the latter part of the second half Jones went in for Amberson at left guard and Schmidt substituted for Hutchinson at right forward. After the advent of these fresh men the Nebraska team seemed to strengthen, but the Cornhuskers only scored intermittently, while the Jayhawkers, who could locate the basket at any dis-ance, kept their scoring machine constantly at work.

The same teams line-up against each other this evening and the battle which will be fought between them for the two halves is expected to be as fiercely contested as was the game last evening. Both teams will have the same line-up, and the Cornhuskers will battle desperately to win the game from the Jayhawkers.

By an overwhelming victory the Jayhawkers defeated Drake, and the Nebraska men intend to show the men from the sunflower state that the teams of the northern section of the Missouri Valley conference can play basketball.

JUNIORS WIN GIRLS' BASKETBALL HONORS

THIRD YEAR GIRLS WIN CHAMPIONSHIP FROM FRESHMEN.

UNIQUE PARADE IN THE ARMORY

Exciting Battles Between Silver Serpents and Black Masks and Ferocious Wild Animals in Cages

Features of Tournament.

The girls' basketball tournament is over and the juniors are the school champions. After a month of hard practice and systematic training the big athletic event of the year is over. This tournament has become an annual affair and is looked forward to with great interest by the girls of the university. It is the one big event of the year in which all the girls take part and in which they are entirely alone for a big time. In this event the co-ed is given a chance to show her class spirit and athletic energy, by the original arranging of mascots and by participation in the athletic events.

Big Parade Comes First.

The parade this year was the most unique ever given. The costumes and decorating glittered and beamed like the brass trimmings and spangles of a real circus parade.

The Xi Deltas led the parade. They were dressed in military uniforms and represented a band. They played some very original music which was greatly enjoyed by the spectators.

Second in line came the members of the Black Mask. They were dressed in black caps and gowns and wore the customary masks. A very lively mascot accompanied them, namely a small white bull dog. Next came the senior class team. Their mascot was a small boy, wearing a senior cap.

The junior class team followed the seniors. They presented a very formidable appearance and many of the spectators picked them as winners.

The sophomores presented a pleasing spectacle. They presented a picture of class loyalty. Their shoes were tied with the class colors and they wore large hair-ribbons of the same colors. Next came the freshmen. They had large class numerals on their white collars and white caps.

The Silver Serpents presented an appearance both unique and original. They were dressed in gymnasium suits and wore green masks. As they marched, they writhed like a serpent, and sang an appropriate ditty. Each member carried a banner of the order.

Cages filled with ferocious wild animals brought up the rear of the parade. The animals were all very rare specimens, as was explained by their keepers.

The Basketball Games.

The basketball tournament was exciting. The class of 1911 won the championship last year and the other classes were determined that they should not win again. The juniors were equally determined to win, and they did. The seniors were no match for them, and the freshmen were beaten with ease.

The scores were as follows:

First game—Freshmen, 13; sophomores, 3.
Second game—Juniors, 20; seniors, 0.
Third game—Juniors, 15; Freshmen, 9.

The following girls compose the championship junior team: Amanda Clement, Beulah Rader, Hattie Rollings, Vera Barger, Jessie Beghtol, Clara Erickson, and Janet Cameron.

Some Lively Mix-ups.

During the basketball tournament the Silver Serpents stole a Black Mask girl, tied her up in their colors, and carried her off into captivity. She was finally rescued by the valiant Black Masks after a great struggle.

Not content with this contest, the Silver Serpents dressed one of their own girls in a senior uniform. They then formed a circle about her and sang "Poor Old Senior." The Black Masks immediately rushed into the fray, seized the abused one, and tore off the cap and gown. The contest became so furious that Miss Gittings was forced to act as peacemaker and stop the combat.

ANDREWS MAY BE IN LINCOLN.

Will Leave for the United States Next Tuesday.

Dr. Andrews, writing under date of January 23d, says that he and Mrs. Andrews are enjoying their stay at Calcutta, India. They expect to start for the United States via China and Japan, about March 1st, reaching Hong Kong on the 20th. They expect to land at Vancouver about May 10th, and are thinking of making a visit to Lincoln about June 7th, although they have not definitely decided in regard to the points they will visit in the United States.

SAD MISTAKE IN THE DAILY BRINGS GRIEF

SUFFRAGETTES INCENSED AT REPORTER'S ERROR.

PLATFORM NOT BASED ON RIGHTS

Co-eds Think Ultimate Enfranchisement Will Come as Logical Evolution of Changing Structure of Society.

Apparently some grievous error has been made. In a recent issue of the Daily Nebraskan an article appeared setting forth the details of a meeting of the university club of the College Equal Suffrage League. It has caused trouble.

A member of the club has taken exception to several statements made by the Nebraskan reporter. It seems that the reporter gained his information from a member of the club not fully informed as to the standing, plans, and motives governing that organization.

The suffragette in question in her letter to the Daily Nebraskan expressed herself as unconscious of the fact that the club was composed of a "body of determined women." And furthermore, she claimed that it was not the intention of the club to "force" the issue of equal franchise. The club is not as aggressive a body as the Nebraskan reporter was led to understand.

The club moreover, it is claimed by the correspondent, is genuinely interested in its subject, namely; Equal Suffrage. The Nebraskan reporter failed to mention this detail, although from the general tone of the article this fact might have been gleaned. Among other things the club discusses recent articles from all points of view and its members endeavor to keep posted in current events.

Grave Error.

But where the Nebraskan reporter made the gravest error was in stating that "speeches" were made at the gatherings of the club. It is evident that the reporter was misinformed or that, in the use of words, he substituted the word "speech" for the word "discussion." The exact manner in which this transposition was brought about has so far remained a complete mystery owing to the disappearance of the reporter.

The word "denunciation" is also taken up by the correspondent. She maintains that no denunciations would ever be allowed at the meetings, even were some co-ed disposed to make them. Again the reporter, not being able to attend the meeting, had to depend on his informant, with the result that he gained an entirely wrong conception of the character of the meeting. The correspondent, furthermore, describes the meetings as "serene and tranquil."

A Logical Evolution.

The basic principle of the organization was missed entirely by the reporter. He stated it merely as a question of "rights." But that is not it. The foundation of the club is based upon the "ultimate enfranchisement of woman" as a logical evolution of the changing structure of society.

Another matter upon which the letter is enlightening is the viewpoint of the members of the club with regard to the men. They have hopes that in the course of time the men will grant them equal suffrage. This is to come, however, when the men find the spare time to think about it and later to act on it.

The letter which was received by the Daily Nebraskan and which it was requested to print follows:

"To the Editor of The Nebraskan:— May I ask you to make a correction or two, in your account of our meet- Continued on Page 4
