WEDNESDAY, MARCH 16, 1910.

Minnesota seems to be having an awful time telling the difference between denatured alcohol and the real stuff. Strange what culture will bring us to.

tion of continuing in the profane path. Not much chance of establishing a chair on artistic profanity, is there?

In spite of the fact that the same languor, the same dreamy atmosphere prevades the campus that would be present were there no classes, the university is passing through an attack of mid-semester examinations. And then—EASTER.

The officers of the cadet battalion have talked about the possibility of receiving pay for their fourth year's work. They think the present compensation of nothing plus a little honor is too small. We would like to suggest that in some other lines of work in the university even the honor is omitted. The salary of the university track coach would hardly amount to a good sized Pullman tip, and there are others about the campus which would not keep our business manager in postage stamps.

SEE-SAW ELECTION.

The matter of selecting a university track coach appears to be about as hard to decide and as long winded as the time-honored discussion as to whether the man went around the squirrel. Yet there is one difference. The squirrel argument means little or nothing to the student body, while the matter of a track coach means a great deal to the student body, and everything to the track team.

Dillydallying and delay are sufficient to kill the enthusiasm and life of any track team or the support of any student body; but when this is combined with fluctuating, vacillating indecision and worse—reversion of verdict—one can hardly wonder that the greater part of the student body are disgusted. The trouble lies not in the choice, but in the see-saw, stand-up and back-down method of choosing.

THE FRESHMAN'S LOT.

The poor freshman finds the walls of his nursery growing tighter every year. Not many years ago he won his letters in Big Six colleges, and wore them with all the gusto of the veteran. But that was done away with, and wisely too, we believe. And now Oberlin has taken another step in the same direction. The members of all succeeding freshmen classes will be denied the right to represent the college in inter-collegiate debates or oratory and in the varsity glee club. The faculty of that institution has decided that it is best for the welfare of the youngest members of the community that no outside attractions may enter to rob them of their time and prevent a proper commencement of their college course.

Since college life is a continuous process of adjustment to the conflicting demands of college activities and class rooms we rather believe the freshmen cannot begin the adjustment too early.—Ex.

Co-eds Are Tubbed.

According to the Willamette Collegian, several co-eds were tubbed at Whitman College the other day for yelling for opponents in a football game. This statement is branded as false by the Whitman students.

Will Prepare Maps.

Professor Sponsler will spend two weeks in the national forest in Thomas county with a few of his students, making type maps of the various planting areas. These maps are necessary as a proper basis for experimental work in the department.

Freshmen, Attention.

Freshmen who wish to order class caps will please do so as soon as possible. Caps may be ordered from the following solicitors: Dean McBrien, Gene Holland, H. H. Milligan, H. B. Coffee, V. D. Andrews, R. H. Kositzky, S. A. Fossler, C. F. Phillips and H. H. Wiebe. Girls who wish caps see Miss Mary Robbins.

Return to United States.

Of the 1,789 men who were recipients of Rhodes scholarships last year, 90 were from the United States, 78 from the British colonies and 11 from Germany. All but one of the American students have returned to the United States for employment.

Y. W. C. A.

In consideration of the high prices of the times and with hogs going up to fifteen, the Y. W. C. A. considers it highly appropriate to give a hard-times social. Accordingly, they have planned an entertainment which will be within the means of everyone, to be held at the armory Saturday night, March 19. To provide a special treat for pleasure starved souls, the association has made arrangements with a first class circus, which will give performances during the evening, and several families of note, although poor, will be in the receiving line. You will be given an opportunity to meet Mrs. Wiggs of the Garden Patch, the Ruggles family and many others. Before closing, the guests will be in the bread line and receive refreshments. A medal will be awarded the most poverty stricken person present, by way of consolation. Bring only your pin (money) with you.

The small cabinet will meet in the association room Thursday evening at 6:30.

Mr. Wm. H. Mast, forest supervisor of the United States, for the past week has been giving a course of lectures on "Collection of Forest Tree Seeds" and "Government Nursery Practice." Mr. Mast is a graduate of Yale and has been a member of the forest service for nine years, and has had more extensive experience than any official in the service. For this reason the students think they are getting a rare treat in his lectures. Mr. Mast will lecture here at the Nebraska Conservation Association meeting held March 29 and 30, on the subject "Forestation."

To Review Journals. Professor Phillips, head of the forestry department, has been appointed reviewer of all lumbering journals for the Forest Quarterly. This is the best technical magazine on forestry in the country. It is edited by B. E. Fernow, a friend of Dr. Bessey.

Receives Donations. The forestry department is in receipt of a liberal donations of log rules from the Lufkin Rule Co., Saginaw, Mich. Also a number of tree cones from the U. S. forest service. The department here express a decided appreciation for the gifts.

Guest of Former Student. Edwin Meyer, professor in the University of Berlin, and the greatest living authority on ancient history, is a guest of Professor W. L. Westermann, U. of N. '94, of the University of Wisconsin. Professor Westermann is professor of ancient history at Wisconsin. He is writing text books on ancient history which will be ready for the press this summer.

Music at Convocation. The program at convocation tomorrow will consist of selections by a string quartet, piano and organ. Those giving the program are Edward J. Walt, first violin; Ernest Harrison, second violin; William Quick, viola; Lillian Eiche, violoncello; Mrs. Ferd Rehaender, pianist.

Notice. All persons desiring senior class pins must get them at once. All pins will be drawn from sale after April 1st, as a settlement must be made with the firm at that time. Pins on sale at Temple book store or by committee of Groer, Modessitt, Tucker, Cochran and Baumann. H. O. BAUMANN, Chairman.
