WEDNESDAY, APRIL 6, 1910.

There's an effervescence in his eye, a shine on his face, a halo about his whole being. He is not wearing a straw hat—not yet. But he is a baseball fan.

It is getting so now days that a man can't even cross the pond and hunt lions with a bunch of natives but what somebody wants him as chancellor of Minnesota. While we are not discrediting the pursuit of the wild beast in his native haunts as a fit preparation for the chancellorship of the Gopher school, we are sometime led to wonder, "What next?"

The ponderous political organization selfishness, and finally shrewd thieving and trickery, sugar-coated with a smile. His fraternity tolerates him; his companions suspect him; and his friends doubt. Once exposed, he is the faculty's "mark," the ladies' suspect, and the fellows' disgust. If he is wise enough he may fool them all. Sometimes he's a poke.—Ex.

ENERGY.

Have you ever stopped to figure out the difference between success and failure?

The difference may be expressed in the one word energy. Energy is that power which keeps one on the move and at his work until it is finished. Wherever it is lacking, there success is lacking. Energy is the key to success. Energy and persistency always win when given time. It is not the man with talent, given to spasmodic attempts, who is the most successful.

With the coming of the first warm days of spring and summer, energy usually begins to fall. Persons then become lazy and indifferent. The business man allows his correspondence to pile up unanswered and his business to go unattended to. The student puts off for tomorrow what should be done today and marks are placed to his discredit because of his lack of energy.

Here is where the energetic person passes the indolent. While the lazy one is basking in the haze of spring fever, only dreaming of what he is to accomplish, the other is pushing ahead with defiance and is accomplishing his purpose.

Energy to a great extent is dependent upon the will power. A determination at the beginning of any work, to stay with it until it is accomplished, will bring the energy to carry out the work. One must keep pegging away. The energy and persistency in the ordinary man have brought success thousands of times; where the brilliant man, folding his hands and depending upon his brilliancy to carry him through, has failed absolutely.

successful concert given by the Chicago Glee Club just before the Easter vacation and the support given it by the students. It gives a stimulus for further work. The concert aside from the musical point of view was successful and gives credit to the organization as capable of "doing things."

Students should understand that while the club is nominally connected with the school of music, yet it has its own officers and student managing committee, who act in conjunction with the school authorities. It is essentially an organization made by the students for students. Also know that membership is limited to sixty, and at present it is open to all students, while next year only freshmen and sophomores are eligible except by special vote of the club. For that reason we urge every man who sings or thinks he can sing, or who would like to gain membership, to come at once, and regularly. The fact that we have Professor Kirkpatrick, recognized as one of the leading instructors in the school of music, as director, should be no small inducement for bringing to our meetings the best singers in the school. He has already begun the formation of a nucleus—the glee club which makes the trips, etc.—so if you want to belong,—come running.

Meetings of the club are regularly held, Wednesday at 7 to 8 p. m., and Friday from 5 to 6 p. m. Get your name on the roll,—pay us at least a visit if you can't stay longer. Music hall, Temple, is our place of business Wednesday night, banquet hall in the basement on Friday. H. C. S.

Leave for Zoological Meeting.

Dean Wokcott and Professor Barker will leave on Wednesday afternoon for Iowa City to attend the meeting of the central branch of the American Association of Zoologists. Professor Barker is on the program with a paper on "Trihedral Taeniae," a very rare form of monstrosity which he has found among the tape-worms of dogs in Lincoln.

of a sophomore class of the present day makes a puny metropolitan organization look like a Noah's ark in comparison. Perhaps a few graduates from over the state will have to be called in to manage the class campaigns of the future while the candidates themselves attend to school duties. But then—there is nothing like organization.

The wind bloweth where it listeth. It usually listeth to blow into our face. With the present restless condition of the surface real estate of the campus it will be almost necessary for the university to provide us with goggles. We don't mind dodging a pall or two of soil now and then, but when a chunk the size of a young football field gets started our way, we admit being a trifle timid. But then—there's no use being peevish. We repeat. The wind bloweth where it listeth—and it bloweth hard.

THE POLICY MAN.

Commonly known in college circles as the "politician." He becomes a prominent factor in every phase of college life—how, we never know. He fills his own sphere inadequately, but manages to fill up the place of some more efficient man—too game to grumble.

He cannot be fully characterized. Sometimes he looks distinguished; sometimes not. Often he is energetic; generally he is not. Frequently an athlete; rarely not. Always polite, sometimes accommodating; apparently nerry, self-assertive, shrewd, witty, generally a student, and too often a liar. He is usually found out—"discovered"—by another politician. They rarely agree; sometimes they do effectively.

The "politician" is made, not born. He makes himself before he knows it; sometimes in high school; oftener after he gets to college. He grows from natural conceit into cultivated
