THREE BLOODY BATTLES IN THE WAR OF THE COW BELLS

cept a few perhaps who had their best clothes on—and one man who it is said ran away. The heat was intense.

Both classes claim the victory, each one doing so on the assertion that they have possession of the right bells. It is believed that each class has one in its possession, while Chancellor Avery secured one.

A large meeting of the freshman class was called to order at half past eleven o'clock. President Coffee introduced to the classmen the boy who had so faithfully played his part by carrying the cow-bells and banner. Great applause and a good yell for the boy were followed by speeches and a report by Chairman Kozlitzky of the Olympics committee.

The attendance at the meeting was considerable over two hundred. A. H. Dinsmore submitted the copy of a yell which was enthusiastically received.

U. N. Rah! Rah! Serene, supreme. U. N. Rah! Rah! Nineteen-thirteen. He explained that the class was quietly gaining supremacy and that this was the reason for the "serene, supreme" part of the yell.

Will Present Trophy.

Both of the underclasses are busy patching up anatomies for the contest Saturday. The chancellor has announced that he will present a trophy to the winning class. Just what this trophy is, has not been made public. As both classes claim the victory in the battle of yesterday, the Olympics tomorrow are expected to develop some of the keenest class rivalry ever experienced at Nebraska.

THE SUPREME COURT GIVES A STUDENT A SQUARE DEAL

Expect to Remain.

"These student-voters expect to remain at the university during such time as their studies demand until the completion of their university courses. Hundreds of said students may not remain at the university during the vacation, but will go wherever they can secure employment, so that they may be in the university next year, and the next, until the university course is completed. All of said students, whether living in Lincoln with their parents, or whether they have come from different parts of the state of Nebraska, or other states, are uncertain and undecided as to their future course or as to their place of residence upon the completion of their work at the university. They do not have any special residence in view during their university career other than Lincoln. All university student-voters are men at least twenty-one years of age—some of them 30, some 40, and a few 50 years of age, especially in the graduate college. They are as a rule without any business relations or connections at any other place than at Lincoln, and many of them will not be engaged in any other business while attending the university. Said students are not under parental control and they regard the seat of the university as their home. None of said students will have, at the time of voting, any intention of removing from Lincoln before the completion of their studies and when they take their summer vacation, they expect to return to the university upon the opening of the term. Not one in a hundred of said students will return to the town from which he came to make it his permanent home upon completing his university course. It is upon these facts that the question of the right of said students to vote at the coming city election must be determined. Paraphrasing the language of the supreme court of Nebraska in the case already cited, there can be no doubt that at least ninety-nine out of every hundred student-voters of the University of Nebraska have lost their residence at the homes of their parents, or at the towns from which they came, and if they have not acquired a residence in Lincoln they are men without a country.

FARQUHAR

ANNOUNCES CANDIDACY.

Second Candidate for Managing Editor of Cornhusker Appears.

Yesterday afternoon R. F. Curtis of Omaha announced that he was a candidate for the position of managing editor of the Cornhusker. With his announcement politics in the sophomore class takes on a new aspect. Previous to this time but one candidate had appeared in the field, and this was D. B. Van Dusen of South Omaha.

Meanwhile the race between G. C. Kiddoo of South Omaha and C. L. Clark of Lincoln for the position of business manager of the Cornhusker continues. These last two men announced that they were candidates for this position about a week ago and they have been actively campaigning since that time.

The election for these positions on the Cornhusker will be held next Thursday morning. The men selected at this time will hold office next year and will be in charge of the work of the publication next year.

Van Dusen is a member of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity and is second sergeant of company K. Curtis is a member of the Alpha Theta Chi fraternity and was a member of the Nebraska staff last semester. He has been very active in class politics since entering school.

Kiddoo, one of the candidates for business manager of the Cornhusker, is a member of the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity and has had experience in this work, as he is business manager of the Daily Nebraskan at the present time. Clark, the other candidate, is a "barb" and a graduate of the Lincoln high school.

It is reported that the German Club has organized a quartet. We are hoping that they will appear in public, giving us the benefit of the musical German, set to music.
