FACULTY MEN DINE TOGETHER AT LINDELL

PROFESSOR SWEZEY ACTED AS TOASTMASTER.

OVER 110 MEMBERS WERE PRESENT

Dean Davis, Regent Allen, Professor Alexander, Professor Engberg and Miss Fifer Respond to Toasts —Enjoyable Affair.

The Faculty Club held a very enjoyable dinner Tuesday evening in the new dining room at the Lindell hotel. There were about 110 persons present, including lady members of the faculty, gentlemen members and their wives and the regents who were in the city. A short time was spent in a social way before the dinner and also after the close of the toast list.

In the absence of Professor Fossler, Professor Swezey acted as toastmaster. Dean Davis gave the first toast, his subject being "The Next Step." He thought this to be the addition of a graduate college, or at least of more graduate work in the university courses.

Regent Allen gave a very witty and sarcastic toast on why he was elected a regent. His talk was enjoyed very much by his listeners. Professor Alexander of the philosophy department responded to his toast, "Ornithology," with an original poem. Professor Engberg was called upon to tell us of the sorrows and pleasures he experiences in his work at the head of the delinquent committee. Miss Fifer responded to "The Last Word," which she said was her due as a woman.

The members of the faculty who were present unite in saying that the dinner was one of the most enjoyable enjoyable ever held by their club.

BIG BUSINESS AT STATION A.

University Postoffice Shows Remarkable Increase.

Station A of the Lincoln postoffice, which is located in University hall, did more business during the month of March than it has ever done before in the same month. The total postal sales at station A amounted to $1,636.32, this being an increase of 62 per cent over the amount of business done in March of 1909. Miss Gunnison, who is superintendent in charge at station A, stated to a Nebraskan reporter yesterday that she was at a loss to know just what was responsible for the great gain in business last month. She said that the business of the university branch had been steadily growing for the past three years.

The Lincoln postoffice has five stations. About two years ago the postoffice department at Washington made the postoffice at University Place, seat of Wesleyan University, a station of the Lincoln postoffice. Therefore, the fact that station A did the most business of the five stations has some bearing on the comparative postal business of the state and Wesleyan University. While University Place station draws its business from the entire suburb, the students and campus employes at Nebraska furnishes practically all business for station A. Station A is in charge of Miss Ida Gunnison, superintendent, and Mr. Beach, assistant. The carrier, Mr. Witte, has been with the campus postoffice since it was established in 1901. The first of the year a substitute clerk was added to the force because business had grown so much that three persons could not handle it. Miss Gunnison says that the entire force are continually busy, and that there is no time to "read postal cards."

INTERFRAT BANQUET

the home of the college man, and there fellowship and fraternity spirit were to be developed. That through years the barriers between fraternity men would be removed and greater fellowship aroused.

Chancellor Speaks.
 Toastmaster Hardy then introduced the guest of honor of the evening—Chancellor Avery. The chancellor responded to the toast, "Spare the Rod." The chancellor stated that we should be proud of our state and school and our fraternity. He pointed out that modern fraternities had developed out of the secret state into the social state and now into the scholastic state. He said that fraternities have to exist under present conditions, as in this way men are brought under control. He said that he did not sympathize with those who thought fraternities undemocratic, although he thought they were slightly aristocratic.

The chancellor stated that he was optimistic for the university, and that today the university had one student for every 300 people in the state. This being a better record than that held by any other commonwealth. That the people are taking more interest in the university, was the chancellor's belief, and they will give us what we need and ought to have. That there is a growing sentiment, stated the chancellor in closing, for the whole state to help, and develop the university of today, tomorrow and the University of Nebraska for a thousand years hence.

The banquet closed with all the men standing, joining hands and singing the "Cornhusker."
