OCTOBER 20, 1910.

The more walks that are built the more the students of this institution will persist in "cutting across."

Perhaps the student who has been wishing for cooler weather so that he could study commenced to work yesterday.

School has been in session for nearly a month now and still no university hops have been held. Who said that Nebraska students spent all their time in social affairs?

The girls' mass meeting which will be held this morning is a step in the right direction. The co-eds have as many privileges in this school as the men. That they should have nothing to do with athletics is an idea which should be abolished.

The Daily Iowan comes forth this week with a curt bit of irony on the crowd who watched the football game last Saturday between Iowa and Missouri, in which the Hawkeyes were defeated. It appears to be a case of the pot calling the kettle black. Can you remember, Iowans, when you were beaten on your own field by the Cornhuskers several years ago and of the University of Nebraska, and show the world that this is a school for men and women, who fight to the last for the Scarlet and Cream.

DR. HOHLFELD SPEAKS.

Points Out Changes in Germany Since War in 1870.

Prof. A. R. Hohlfeld, head of the department of Germanics of the University of Wisconsin, delivered a lecture Tuesday evening in the Temple auditorium on the subject of "Impressions of Modern Germany."

The lecture consisted of impressions of the European nation that he gained during a year which he spent in the kaiser's empire. He stated that Germany was no longer to be considered as a minor factor in the decision of international affairs.

Professor Hohlfeld stated that at the beginning of the nineteenth century Germany was looked upon as a nation for the cultivation of idealists and enthusiasts. Many thought for a long time afterwards of it only as a land of idealistic thought and romantic poetry. Since the war of 1870 with France, Germany has developed from an agricultural country into a commercial power.

This change has left its mark on the German people, and as a result there has been many alterations in the external appearance of the people and their surroundings. Professor Hohlfeld said that he noted that this change had not been so marked in the organizations of the great German universities. That a large amount of the roughness of forty years ago had been abolished, but at the present time the students still maintained the life and dash that had marked their life in the middle of the nineteenth century.

Professor Hohlfeld also pointed out

The much discussed rule compelling fraternities and sororities to pledge only sophomores has been abandoned for this year at the University of Kansas. Records for the first year showed that the fraternity and sorority students made higher scholarship averages than those outside.

The senior class at Illinois has initiated a movement looking to the abolishment of final examinations in the second semester of the senior year.

Moving pictures of interesting features of campus activities are to be exhibited throughout the state of Missouri for the purpose of advertising the university.

Harvard, in an effort to win the intercollegiate cross-country race this year, has employed as coach of the long distance runners Alfred Shrubbs, who holds many of the professional records from one to twelve miles.

your rooters were so peevish over the defeat that they cheered the Nebraska players with a shower of bricks and tender remarks that would not look well in print?

WITHHOLDING GRADES.

Perhaps the plan suggested of withholding grades on rhetoric themes is all right, but the students cannot see it that way. It is only fair that the university student should know what his work is graded. Non-publicity of grades is all right in a high school, but not in a university.

GET READY FOR DENVER.

Denver is the next lamb to be offered up on the Nebraska altar. Whether it will kick hard enough to get away as did Minnesota remains to be seen. However, it is the duty of every Cornhusker to come out and show the defenders of the Scarlet and Cream that every student is with them. They need your support. You need their spirit of never giving in.

The time has come for old Nebraska to flock around the good old colors and fight, fight, fight! Never say die! It is only fair to the university, to the team, and to yourself that you go to the football field Saturday and cheer for Nebraska as you have never cheered before. Join hands, students that the people of Germany were growing in spirit, and concluded with the generalization that people can maintain their power so long as they continue to grow in spirit.

Coach Reed of Cornell created a sensation at Cornell because he called off varsity practice. The reason was that half the regular team did not report. The coaches have gone on a strike. At Cornell the college work of the men breaks up the practice, many being unable to report until late in the afternoon. The coaches say no more work until a definite arrangement is made whereby the men can practice every night.

A Cleveland memorial monument is to be erected on the golf links at Princeton. It is to take the form of a tower about 150 feet high and 40 feet square at the base. It will stand on the ground of the old Princeton battlefield of the Revolution, and is a very appropriate place, both historically and for its scenic environment.

A radical change has been made in the attendance rules at Williams—the maximum number of cuts allowed now totals one week of work in each semester.
