Nebraska won from Denver Saturday by the decisive score of 27 to 0. The Cornhuskers played the Denverites off their feet, scoring the first touchdown after four minutes of play. Denver was beaten, hopelessly and irretrievably, in the first quarter of the game. Nebraska started with a whirlwind attack and tore great holes in Denver's defense with apparent ease.

While the big score Nebraska piled up would seem to indicate that Nebraska has the far stronger team of the two schools, Denver played to hard luck and the score does not show an accurate comparison.

Denver had a strong team—there is no denying that fact—but, whether it was the change of atmosphere or merely an "off day," they could not get off on the right foot. Their forward passes failed to work and plays which otherwise would have brought big gains were nipped in the bud by unfortunate fumbles.

New Plays Successful.

The new shift plays which Coach Cole has been pounding into the Cornhuskers since the Minnesota game proved the best ground gainers seen on the Nebraska field for years. Through one side of the line and then through the other, around right end and then around left, the Cornhuskers went for yard after yard, failing to make their distance only twice during the game.

A close game had been looked for, but a battle like the one fought to a victorious finish by the wearers of the Scarlet and Cream was more than was expected by any rooter who saw the game.

Not once were the Denverites dangerously near the Nebraska goal. Twice the Colorados were within striking distance—kicking distance—but both attempts to put a drop kick over the bar failed.

Two in First Quarter.

The Cornhuskers crossed the goal line for touchdowns twice in the first quarter. During the second and third periods Denver rallied and played Nebraskan an even game. But in the fourth period the Denverites' strength seemed to leave them and the Cornhuskers broke loose and tore things up for three more touchdowns.

There was more good football to the square inch in the game Saturday than to the square foot in any of the other games here so far this season. If Nebraska was weak on offense in the South Dakota or Minnesota game, all trace of the weakness has since disappeared. The game brought to the minds of old grads the days when Nebraska would go through a season without being scored against. Nebraska's offense was brilliant, spectacular and the interference on end runs and forward passes was clever work.

Stars for Nebraska.

Owen Frank, Shonka, Chauner and Warner were Nebraska's stars. Owen was at his best and carried the ball for long gains both on end runs and line plunges. Shonka played his best game as a Cornhusker. He has always played a hard, conscientious game, but his work Saturday, particularly in carrying the ball, was brilliant. Chauner, while he fumbled one or two forward passes which were unusually difficult to handle, held down his end to perfection. "Jerry" Warner made his most spectacular plays on defense. He broke up interference and nailed the man with the ball whenever he had a fair chance.

Other Cornhuskers who deserve mention for their work are: Harmon, Collins, Hornberger, Sturmer, Temple, Lofgren, Russell, E. Frank, Minor and Rathbone.

The Girls Were There.

The girls' section of the stand was the only place where the Scarlet and Cream was really in evidence. The little section was a single mass of the university colors.

Notes of the Game.

"We must beat Doane." "The Cornhusker" as sung from the girls' section had more real music in it than the same selection as rendered by the bleachers.

Scarlet and cream demotions were even distributed through the atmosphere. Small scarlet balloons waving cream ribbons ever and anon throughout the game sailed merrily across the field.

Chauner's ninety-yard run for a touchdown on a forward pass from O. Frank was the most spectacular play of the game. It was a perfect exhibition of the possibilities of at least one of the new rules.

The team will go through a scrimmage practice today. Last night's work was light.

Crawley played the whole game for Denver. He made gains totaling more yards than any other one man in the game.

If the Cornhuskers keep up the pace started Saturday the Kansas game will be well worth seeing.

BELL RUSH IS THE FEATURE

OLYMPICS TO BE A REGULATED CLASS SCRAP.

HOG TYING CONTEST IS ADDED

OFFICIALS ARE NAMED FOR CONTESTS SATURDAY.

One Hundred Thirty Points to Be Divided—Both Classes May Get Sixty-five.

The Olympic plans have at last been completed and the members of the two lower classes are working out the details of their organization for the fray.

On next Saturday morning at nine o'clock, the two armies of enthusiastic classmen will assemble on the gridiron. They will not be clad in the armor of the chivalrous ages nor the gaudy garb of the Spanish bull fighter, but rather in the ordinary clothing of the every day tramp. No beautiful colors will bedeck the classmen when they line up on the battle field for the annual test of strength. Every man, however, who enters the fray will start out with a full suit of clothing. Just how much of it he will still wear when the battle is over, no one is at this time able to determine.

Battle of the Cow Bells.

The Olympics will not be any silk glove affair. The battle of the cow bells, which will take the place of the "free-for-all" fight of last season, will last for twenty minutes. Eleven cow bells will be placed on the ground an equal distance from the members of each class, and at the shot of the pistol the two lines of howling enthusiasts will rush frantically for the bells. The battle will last for twenty minutes. At the end of that given time the bells will be counted and each bell will count five points for the class which possesses it. Last year only one class could score in the battle royal, but this season the points will be distributed in a more fair manner.

Class Rallies.

Class rallies will be held on Thursday to perfect the organization for the fray. President Sears of the sophomores has announced a class meeting and rally for Thursday morning, and the freshman leader will follow this example today and Thursday. Chairman E. H. Habne of the Olympics committee is urging big rallies for Thursday. He is anxious that the best class shall win the contest, and knows that unless the entire class can be pulled into the line the results will not tell the tale truthfully. Both classes are enthusiastically waiting for Saturday.

Changes in Events.

Numerous changes have been made in the list of events. This gives the freshmen an advantage over the second year men who will not be able to use their knowledge of the old tricks which they learned last season. The first year men will outnumber the sophomores, notwithstanding the fact that the freshman laws are counted as sophomores. The list of events and points to be awarded for each is as follows:

Wrestling: Light weight, 5 points; middle weight, 5 points; heavy weight, 5 points.

Boxing: Light weight, 6 points, middle weight, 5 points; heavy weight, 5 points.

Tug-of-war, 15 points.

Marathon race, 15 points.

Hog tying contest, 15 points.

Bell rush, eleven bells, 5 points for each bell, making a total of 55 points for the bell rush.

The total number of points to be awarded in the contest is one hundred and thirty. It would be possible for the classes to break even with a score of sixty-five points each. Students are wondering what would happen if such a case presented itself. The officials for the meet have been announced. They will be as follows:

Referee, Ralph Weavering.

Official announcer, A. M. Oberfelder.

Time-keeper, Nye Morehouse.

Scorer, H. R. Ankeny.

The bell rush will be in charge of senior classmen. The events will start promptly at 9 o'clock Saturday morning.

SOPHS TO GATHER.

Second Year Students to Prepare for the Olympics.

The sophomore class meeting on Thursday will have a twofold purpose. A member of the student publication board will be elected, after which a general rally will be held and the secrets of the plans for the Saturday fight will be whispered about. Each of the upper classes is represented by one member on the student publication board, the board which supervises the publication of the Daily Nebraskan. No candidates have been announced. The senior and junior classes have already elected their representatives.

The Olympics committee will give its final report at the meeting Thursday and a general pow-wow will be held for a few moments. The chiefs must confer before the battle. Up to the present time the second year classmen have not shown any great amount of interest in the coming scrap and it is the general sentiment of the classmen that the scrap Saturday does not need much forethought. The members of the committee have, on the other hand, been working hard and have some good plans to make known on Thursday. President Sears is urging a full attendance at the pow-wow. The girls of the class are urged to be at the meeting.

WILL MAKE APPOINTMENTS.

President Gilmore Calls a Meeting of the Freshmen.

President Gilmore has called a meeting of the freshman class to be held in Memorial hall at 11 a. m. today. He will announce class appointments. The president urges that every member of the class be present.

Entries for events in the Olympics must submit their names to the proper committeemen by noon today. The members are: Purdy, free-for-all; Danielson, boxing; Mitchie, marathon race; Epperson, wrestling; Beck, tug-of-war; Knouge, hog tying contest.

Chairman Purdy, first named to head the Olympics committee, has had the work taken off his shoulders so that he may devote his entire time to managing the free-for-all. Purdy will have entire charge of this event and will not be required to attend to all the details of the other events. The president wanted at least one strong man at the head of the main event, who had nothing else to worry about. Purdy's work has fallen upon Beck.

ACTUAL INCREASE OF 280

TO DATE 228 STUDENTS AHEAD OF SEMESTER OF 1909-10.

ENTRANCE CREDITS HAVE BEEN RAISED

FIGURES DO NOT INCLUDE MANY DEPARTMENTS.

Largest Increase in Law College—School of Agriculture Lost 59 in Attendance Last Year.

That the University of Nebraska has experienced a remarkable growth in the number of registrations is a fact disclosed by the figure representing the total registrations, recently announced by the registrar.

Up to date, the total number of enrollments listed is 2,440. During 1909-10, however, the total registrations for the year were 2,212. These figures show an increase of 228 students for this year up until October 22, as compared with the total number registered last year. Taking the registrations of a year ago to date, the present record shows a gain of 280 students.

Minimum Raised.

One of the most significant features of this year's enrollment to be taken into account is that the large gain was made in the face of the fact that the minimum entrance requirements were raised from 22 to 24 high school credits. Also the fact that outside of special students, all students must present 30 instead of 28 credits to be fully admitted to the university as regular, must be considered.

It is also interesting to note that the total of 2,440 includes campus students only. It is a prevalent mistake for students and outsiders to credit the announced total registrations as including state farm students, Omaha "medics," the school of music and the summer session. Such is not the case. The students in these schools have not, as yet, been counted. It is thought, however, that when the registrations of these schools are added, the number will greatly swell the grand total of all University of Nebraska students, a record established last year.

Separating the various college registrations, the college of law shows the most marked advance. The stride in this college was made notwithstanding the fact that beginning with 1911-12 the regular law course will require four years for completion, the additional year to be devoted either to the college of arts and sciences or law.

To Hold Its Own.

The college of agriculture is expected to hold its own this year with the rest of the colleges. It may be remembered that the agricultural department suffered a loss of 59 registrations last year, which fact the officials later attributed to the excessive amount of bad weather experienced by this part of the country during the early part of the year.

Much interest is being manifested by the students regarding the outcome of the total registrations for the year. Illinois, Kansas and all of the other neighboring states are making proportionately large increases. Nebraska, to maintain her present rank among state universities, must show a corresponding high record.

ATHLETIC BOARD MEETS.

At a meeting of the athletic board Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock in Dr. Clapp's office, the matter regarding an all year coach was discussed. A committee, consisting of Dr. Clapp, Professor Wolfe and S. V. Shonka, was appointed to investigate further and report back to the board of control. Other minor business was also transacted.
