 University students will be interested in the sermon at All Souls' church Sunday, which will be addressed especially to students. This sermon, which is in accordance with the ministers annual custom, is given in recognition of the fact that many university men and women find themselves compelled to raise serious questions in reference to the current definitions of religion. 31-1t

"Les" Mann, the sensational Lincoln quarterback, has announced that he would play no more ball with the Lincoln high school, but he seems to be reconsidering the matter, and will play in the game today if he is needed. Mann's mother is anxious for him to give up the game, but he does not like the idea. He says, however, that he does not want to play against her wishes.

About ten days before the Omaha game Mann announced to his coach that the game with Omaha would be his last appearance. On the morning of the game with Omaha, a man's voice called for Mrs. Mann. When she came to the telephone, he told her that she had better keep Les out of the game, that he was doped to get badly hurt in the game. "If we don't get him today, we will fix him at Omaha," the man said. Mann said last night that he hoped to fix matters up so as to get out today, and he will be ready to go into the game. High school fans are looking forward to his participation in the game at Omaha next Saturday.

At the beginning of the season, when York was untried, Omaha walked away with the York scalps. The York team has been much strengthened since that game and Coach Starkey is looking for his men to put up a good front against the Lincoln bunch this afternoon.

 York and Lincoln high schools play today on Nebraska field at 3 o'clock. Owing to the loss of Leslie Mann, York has a decided advantage, and the championship of the state may be considerably complicated, as Omaha has beaten York by a decisive score.
