FAREWELL.

With this issue we bid farewell to the five-column edition of the Daily Nebraskan. With tears we bid you go, old comrade, and with your leaving we will cherish memories of those many hours we have spent together.

In the darkest hours of despair we have consoled each other, and when the sun again came out from behind the gloomy clouds, we have greeted its bright rays with a happy smile and a joyful heart. And now as you leave, we again bid you farewell with sorrow which can not be comforted, and turn to greet our new friend—the four-column edition.

dicap on their neighbor, by standing in the halls and gossiping. It is best that each man and each woman watch this, especially in University hall, where more students go back and forth between classes than in any other building on the campus. It is a fair proposition. How would you like to be held up some day when you are a trifle late to class, by a large number of men and women who are doing nothing else but talking over the latest fashions or discussing the possibilities of winning the next football game?

DID YOU DO IT?

Whoever they were, we can not say; but it is apparently the work of some of the people who attend the university and are supposed to be classed under the name of men. However, they are not to be considered as such under any circumstances. The individuals, whoever they are, have been small enough to mark up a number of the bulletins posted at various places on the university campus. These parties have not been satisfied with this sort of destructive work, but they have persisted in cutting away various parts of the announcements so that they read far different from anything that was

ATHLETIC BOARD MEETING.

New All Year Coach May Be Up for Consideration.

A special meeting of the athletic board will be called today at 11 o'clock in Dr. Clapp's office. Things of importance will be discussed, and it is urged that every member of the board make an effort to be present. Whether or not action will be taken in regard to the new all year round football coach has not been definitely announced.

TWO BIG GAMES MONDAY.

Class Football Teams to Clash on the Gridiron for Interclass Championship.

The freshman and sophomore classes will stage the opening contest of class football Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. These men have been working for some time in preparation for this game, which will go a long ways in deciding the interclass championship. The freshman team, which has been practicing daily since school started, will be slightly disorganized on account of the disqualification of six of the star players because they have been considered varsity material. These men will not be in the game on this account.

The first big battle will be followed by a second in which the juniors and the seniors will hold the center of the stage. The winners of these two games will play Friday, November 18, for the interclass championship. The price of twenty-five cents will be charged to see both of these games Monday. The receipts will be used to purchase sweaters for the winning class eleven.

The captain of the Indiana basketball team has been denied his letters because he broke training rules by attending a dance.

THINK ABOUT IT.

There are a few things that must be considered in this university, and that is that once in a while we should have a wee bit of consideration for our neighbors. This is not an extract from a catechism, but it appears to the majority of students that something should be done to stop the minority of men and women of the university from transforming the halls of the buildings on the campus into a seminary room for the latest gossip. Between classes in the morning it is almost an impossibility to walk through the halls without stepping on somebody's toes, sticking your elbow into somebody's side, or smashing another person's hat, to say nothing of the numerous times you must apologize for other impolite actions. It is only fair that between classes that students be allowed to chat and gossip, but would it not be fairer to those desiring to make their way to classes that these meetings be held outside of the buildings. The weather at the present time is such that it is not necessary for the students to linger in the halls, and as a result it would make it much easier for those who are desirous of making their classes on time, if each member of the student body would stop and realize that they were placing a han-intended when they were first published. Jokes are all right in their place, but when it comes to doing a thing of this kind, when there is no cause for it, it is far from being a joke. There is nothing more disgusting to the university public than a poor joke. Things of this sort should not even be considered as a joke. It is vandalism of the worst sort, and whoever the guilty parties are they should be made to feel that students as a whole consider them anything but men. Besides it is an infringement upon university rules.
