

Directory of Advertisers

The following merchants and business men of Lincoln are anxious to serve the University students. By placing their advertisements in the columns of the Daily Nebraskan they show that they want your trade. And you may be sure that the merchant who is willing to make a little effort to get your patronage is the one who is going to treat you honestly and considerately in attempting to keep it. So you—as well as the Nebraskan—will profit by trading with these people:

FRESHMEN VS. THE VARSITY VICTORY AT ANY PRICE?

EWING'S PUPILS TO BUCK COLE'S REGULARS SATURDAY.

MAY BECOME AN ANNUAL EVENT

FIRST YEAR MEN HAVE A DIFFERENT LIST OF PLAYS.

Cornhuskers Start Work for the Thanksgiving Game with the Haskell "Reds."

Harry Ewing's freshmen will have their first real try-out of the season Saturday afternoon when they will meet the varsity eleven on the athletic field. The freshman team is one of the swiftest Nebraska has had for years, and they are longing for a chance to show what they can do. The varsity needs the practice, so everyone is satisfied.

A great deal of interest is being taken in the game, and the members of the freshman class are enthusiastic of their team's chances of giving the varsity a run for its money. And this the freshman eleven will doubtless do.

Make Regulars Hustle.

In scrimmage work the freshmen have been giving the regulars all they wanted and many times the youngsters have played rings around the veterans. They have as large a variety of plays as the varsity and are able to put them through with just as much precision. They have plays that the regulars have never seen before.

Assistant Coach Ewing has had entire charge of the freshman squad and he has turned out as good a team in every respect, taking into consideration the material he had to work on, as the varsity. And aside from his work with the first year men, Coach Ewing has been an invaluable assistant to Coach Cole in turning out the champion football team of the Missouri Valley.

May Be Annual Event.

If the freshman-varsity game is a success, and all indications are that it will be, it will probably become an annual event. The freshmen have no other way of getting a game. Under the rules of the Valley conference a freshman team is not allowed to play games outside the school. Thus, unless a game with the varsity can be arranged, there is nothing in it for the freshmen except signal and scrimmage practice, the same thing over and over every day.

The varsity will get out again this afternoon and start work for the closing game of the season, to be played Thanksgiving day in Lincoln. Seat reservations are already being made and a monster attendance is expected. Haskell has a team this year which is conceded to be the equal of the team they had last year, which so shamefully trod on the Cornhuskers. This year will very likely be a different story. The Indians will play for all they get, at least.

"The Bachelor," the Wabash college paper, published a memorial edition in honor of Ralph L. Wilson, the football player who died recently as a result of injuries received in a game with St. Louis university.

After a futile attempt to procure a ball, the undergraduate committee at Pennsylvania has decided to call off the annual push-ball fight this year and substitute some new contest. The nature of this fight has not yet been decided.

CHARLES F. DOLE OPPOSED TO THIS POLICY.

SPEAKS AT CONVOCATION

SAYS CONSTRUCTIVE VALUE OF HONESTY IS MEASURED.

Issues a Call for Real Men to Assume the Burdens of Democracy.

The university public listened to Charles F. Dole of Boston at the Tuesday convocation. Mr. Dole is the national Billings lecturer for Harvard university, and is making a tour of positive and constructive standpoint lectures on topics of general and national interest.

In discussing his subject, "Leadership in a Democracy," he urged that we view common honesty from the positive and constructive standpoint instead of from the negative. Victory at any price was frowned upon as being a relic of the animal in man. The animal in his search for food knows no law of the rights of his fellow, but in the civilized state we are presumed to understand the rights of others, and are presumed to understand the rights of others, and are supposed to govern ourselves accordingly. The conservation movement owes its rise to the spirit of hostility which has manifested itself against the doctrine "Get what you can."

Value of Honesty.

The constructive value of honesty is measured by the amount of good one can do to humanity besides that which he is barely obliged to do. This is the rule of nature, and has in fact come to be the slogan of the average business house; the best way to get business is to satisfy your customers in such a way as to make them want to patronize you again. Further it is the theory of evolution. We survive now upon the output of previous generations of science and industry.

And so it is that in a democracy, the educational system affords the greatest amount of material whereby the government can perpetuate itself. Students should keep in mind that they are being made a factor in the development of a system of government which they have learned to cherish. It is expected of them that they should, after leaving college, devote some of their energies to leadership along their particular line of activity. The country needs leaders and needs them badly. In congress today there can not be picked over a score of men who are assuming a position of patriotic leadership. It is not because public men are not able, but it is because they are not so inclined.

Calls for Real Men.

Mr. Dole issued a call for real men to assume the burdens of our democracy. And here he spoke with rare feeling. Men are needed who will measure up in every respect to the heights to which they are elevated. The college man has that opportunity, if he will only grasp it.
