

Seven Men May Be Lost

It is highly probable seven Cornhuskers who won their letters this year will not be back in the game next year. Four graduate and three have played their three allotted years on the varsity and will have to step out and make room for some of the younger aspirants.

Those who will graduate are: Chauner, Shonka, Sturmer and Elliott. Those who have served their three years are: Temple, Collins and Minor. Chauner has been playing a star game at end for the past two years and his loss will be felt. Shonka is one of the most powerful men Nebraska has ever had on the line. Last year he played center and this year tackle. Sturmer has been awarded his letter this year for the first time. For three years he has faithfully stuck with the squad and his perseverance has been rewarded. He played guard in several of the varsity games this season. Elliott is another guard who has two "N's" to his credit and who has been one of the foundation stones of Nebraska's stone wall.

Captain Temple, Collins and Minor are the only ones who retire on account of the three year limit. Temple has been more than holding his own at tackle, and has carried the ball for as great gains as any other man on the line. Temple hits hard and is hard to stop. Collins is one of the most adaptable men on the line. As center he has probably more to learn under the new rules than any other man on the team, and he has made good with a vengeance. Minor is the only backfield man who will retire. For three years he has played half-back and end and he has never failed to come up to the standard.

YALE'S RECEIPTS $70,000.

Big Sum Taken in on Football Games, But Figure is Not Up to Some Other Years.

Yale's football receipts for this year will be about $70,000. Of this about $34,000 will come from the Harvard game, $29,000 from Princeton, $5,000 from Brown, $1,500 from Colgate and $1,500 from Vanderbilt. When Yale plays one big game at Princeton its receipts are smaller than for a year when it is played at Harvard. This is therefore Yale's off year. Yale's football stands always are filled by either Princeton or Harvard, but the Princeton stands are smaller than the Harvard stadium.

Yale football men feel that Johnny Kilpatrick, Center Morris and Quarterback Arthur Howe are entitled to all American team choices. Morris has been the steadiest and best defensive center of any of the elevens. Kilpatrick has been the most wonderful end seen on an American gridiron since Tom Shevlin's time.

Howe has no competitor except Sprackling of Brown. Howe played wonderful football against both Princeton and Harvard. Sprackling had a marvelous game to exhibit against the Yale team, but was in third rate form against Pennsylvania and second rate against Harvard.

THE ALL-YEAR-ROUND COACH

Cornhuskers. So "King" Cole it was and is. Here's to him. His future may not ever be so bright, but may he always be able to stay that there's a shining spot for him in the Scarlet and the Cream.

Nor has "King" Cole been wanting in good assistance. Assistant Coach Harry E. Ewing, a recent alumnus of the University of Nebraska, has demonstrated that his ability as an instructor is consistent with his prowess as a football line general and an individual "star." It has been his duty to pilot the Freshmen in their preparation for varsity work. This he has effectively done, closing the season with probably more men to offer as real "varsity material" than has previously been the fortune of Nebraska.

Harry's record as a player is certainly one to be envied. While on the Nebraska varsity for three consecutive years, 1907, 1908 and 1909, he was twice chosen as guard for the All-Missouri Valley team. Another distinction which he bears as a Nebraska Cornhusker is that, during the three years of his varsity service not once was time taken out for him in any game. Assistant Coach Ewing is a law student in the University of Nebraska, and a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity. Without reiterating the eulogies rendered to "King" Cole, it certainly can not be doubted that they apply with equal aptitude to Harry Ewing and his attempts to continue flaunting the colors of his university in the face of all opponents.
