THE GLEE CLUB.

The tour which the university glee club started on yesterday is one of the best ways to advertise the University of Nebraska that could have been devised. The entire group of men are worthy to represent the university and will bring to the people of the state an actual realization of some of the things the university stands for.

Football teams may make great records; debaters may win victories, but to take your lady friend to a formal party, except on evenings when the weather is stormy?"

The whole argument can be settled on these two questions. Both questions deal with matters of economy and common sense. If this was a "rich man's school," the cabs for formal parties would be all right as a part of a formal function.

We are free and independent. Why not be independent and step aside in out attempt to follow in the steps of our eastern college friends, whose "pa-pas" have money by the drayload and whose "ma-mas" count the number of their diamond "dog collars" on an adding machine?

At a meeting of the committees of the freshman and sophomore classes Monday evening, the date for the indoor meet between the two classes was set for Saturday, February 15. Medals for first place in all of the events will be granted. The events will be the same as the program of the people of the state do not always appreciate the work of the students through these things. To stand up before an audience of Nebraska citizens and sing to them is the most powerful appeal for their support that can be made.

The music in humanity can be appealed to quicker and easier than anything else, and in so doing the glee club has the greatest chance to really advertise the great institution that many Nebraska people do not realize they are supporting.

To the glee club the duty of winning the support of the citizens of the state falls, and their efforts in that direction are worthy in view of the fact that they have made elaborate preparations for this tour of the state, singing to the people of Nebraska.

CABS.

"Cabs is cabs." No doubt that the question is an old one, but still there is no doubt but that it is a serious one. The men and women of this school realize it.

Let us look at the matter on all sides. To the women of the university we ask this question: "Is it proper that you should demand that your gentleman friend should furnish a cab for you to ride in to a formal party, when the weather is nice, and street car facilities are near at hand?"

To the men we ask this question: "Is it not best to refuse to use a cab the interfraternity indoor meet, which will also be held in February, with the addition of middle-weight wrestling and boxing matches.

The committees decided that a limit of three entries from each class in each event would be placed on the competing classes.

In addition to the athletic events, the committees discussed plans for holding an informal dance after the meet. It was decided that if permission was granted by the faculty, the biggest informal dance of the year would be held immediately following the athletic program. An admission of ten cents will be charged. This price to admit all visitors to the meet and the informal, if the latter is held. It is hoped by the under classmen that by this means the scheme for holding low-priced informal university dances in the armory may receive an impetus.

Points for the meet will be as follows: 5 for a first; 3 for a second; 5 for boxing; 5 for wrestling, and 10 points for both the big-of-war and the relay. Nothing will be given for a third place in any of the events.
