UNIVERSITY NIGHT.

Tonight we are to witness the inauguration of something really new at Nebraska. Every organization in the university has been given an opportunity to participate in one big entertainment. It is a university affair, cosmopolitan in every respect, and designed to promote the broader feeling of college loyalty among the students. As the athletic meet on Charter day is open to all, so are the series of funny acts to be given tonight. Other universities have tried the plan and found that it works well. There is no reason why it should not be a great success at Nebraska.

While this is the first University Night and may be called an experiment, yet it has come to stay. Nebraska has few traditions, but each year adds something new to the few, and at a time not far distant its life ganized in the latter part of January, is showing that it is no mere association. From the time it was first formed it has been getting right into the harness and working for the university. There were a hundred present at the first meeting when the organization was perfected and resolutions providing for taking an active part in the proposed removal of the medical college adopted. There are alumni clubs in several other large cities and more should be formed. Their value to the university and to the members is inestimable.

CORNHUSKER CLUB.

Nebraska Students at Michigan Organize and Elect Officers.

About thirty-five men from Nebraska have organized a Cornhusker club at the University of Michigan. There is much enthusiasm among the members and it is expected that they will be in a club house of their own before long. A dance will be given at the Country club next Saturday evening.

At a meeting held recently the following officers were elected: President, Raymond M. Crossman, Omaha; vice-president, Bruce J. Miles, Fremont; secretary, Harry Kutakofsky, Omaha, and treasurer, William H. McDonald, Valentine.

DRAMATIC CLUB ELECTS.

After Short Program Officers Are Chosen.

The Dramatic club met last night and after a short program held a business session and elected officers for the semester. "Birds' Christmas Carol" was given in pantomime by Miss Jasmijn-Sheriaden.

The following were the officers elected: Miss Howell, by virtue of being the head of the elocution department, holding the office of president; vice-president, Mildred Bevins; secretary, Florence Hostettler; treasurer, F. C. McConnell; sergeant-at-arms, Nye Morehouse.

will be replete with those customary events which lend a charm to the collegian's life. The committee has worked hard and deserves the support of the student body. Every one who can should be at the Temple theater tonight when the curtain goes up on a new chapter in the social life of the university, a chapter which will never grow old, but will be read many times by those who come after.

SOMETHING DANGEROUS.

It is not dandelions nor Russian thistles, but it is taking the campus sure as fate. This plague has made itself known in nearly every building. It frequents the adjacent grounds and forms barriers on walks and in doorways. Those tardy to class are further delayed and occasionally the class itself has paused in its deliberations and marveled at this strange pest. It has increased wonderfully in proportions the last few months, and the situation is now critically dangerous. There is but one way to exterminate it and that is through the joint efforts of the students and faculty members, if any are able to render assistance. The plan of action is simple—leave your dogs at home.
