FOR THE UNIVERSITY.

The institution of a high school basketball tournament to be held on the campus is a great thing for the university. No better scheme could have been devised for advertising the university. It reaches the student body of the secondary schools and brings home to the very ones who are prospective students the advantages of Nebraska. No amount of literature could accomplish what this meet will. It is not so much the parents who should be encouraged to send

Last night the Glee club gave a concert that was a credit to themselves and the university. Those who did not attend missed something. The Glee club should have a night to themselves for this entertainment, and efforts were made to have no other functions scheduled for that night. Nevertheless, there were several organizations which paid little heed to the Glee club. They did not think it worthy of support or believed their own affairs more important. The date of the Glee club concert is one that should be kept free and no other entertainments scheduled. If they have been arranged, every effort should be put forth to postpone them to another time. There are enough days left on which these minor functions could be held.

JONES AND SCHULTE SOON TO BE FREED FROM SMALLPOX QUARANTINE.

"White fish, fried potatoes, bread and butter, pudding, blueberry pie, blackberry pie, tea and coffee and prunes," was the answer to a query sent over the telephone last night to one of the inmates at Rhodesia. "Oh, yes, we have fine meals and everything is home-made, too," he reported. "We eat, sleep, drink and are merry all the time. Gee, you ought to see me; I'm a sight to behold; got 'em all over me."

One of the favorite outdoor games is the time-honored "pitch," which is played with horseshoes. Another game by the same name proves popular as an evening amusement. "Seven up" is also played in the morning. One of the eight was released yesterday, which leaves only seven boarders at the health resort, five men and two women. Only three are university students. Frank Jones and C. J. Schulte will probably be let out next Tuesday, but Jean Cain has nearly two weeks ahead of him, and is hoptheir children to school, but it is rather the young people themselves who should be encouraged to come.

There are but few of the vast number of students in the secondary schools who have a clear idea of what college life means or what advantages are to be derived from a higher education. Those who are representing their respective schools will be entertained for three days by the university. The fraternities have been the first to offer to keep some of the teams and other organizations will undoubtedly follow their example. In this way the high school men will be given a chance to become acquainted with the university. It will produce an effect on them which would be impossible, if they were sent to hotels.

The basket-ball tournament will become more popular every year and it will not be a great while until every school large enough to support a team will be represented. These men will go home and tell their school fellows about the university and a greater desire will be created among young people over the state to come to Lincoln. This is a great thing for Lincoln, and the student body should lend its support to make the meet a howling success.

ing that others arrive before Jones and Schulte leave. But the health officer does not believe there will be a spread of the smallpox among the students.
