MARCH 24, 1911.

This issue of the Nebraskan contains six pages, and is an attempt of the staff to live up to its promise to give the readers the best paper possible. It also has another purpose—to show the advertisers of Lincoln that the Nebraskan represents a live student body that supports everything which it is endeavoring to put forward. Read the advertisements and you will know where you want to do your buying. Do this and we can have a big paper.

The gymnastic exhibition at the amateur wrestling events. If it was the strong point of their team, it is unfortunate. But it is worse than more of it to think that Iowa can not take an unexpected defeat in good grace.

IT MEANS SOMETHING.

Did you go to the band concert last night? You did? Well, that is all right then. The concert was not only a credit to the band, but to the university. When we can show the people of the state, and especially those so important as the state officers and the legislators, that the university is doing something, it is to our advantage. Some have the erroneous idea that all young men and women come here for is social distinction.

This is so, perhaps, in a few rare cases. But the most come here for work. They are preparing themselves for a life of usefulness. The sooner everyone knows this, the better it will be. It will cause the people of the state to have a more kindly feeling for its great institution, and at the same time make them more anxious to have their children come here to finish their education. Such things as the band concert show that attention is concentrated more on the intellectual than the social or frivolous.

VESPER SERVICE AT 5 O'CLOCK.

Quartet Will Sing and Special Music by Strings and Organ.

A very interesting program has been arranged for vespers tonight, which will be held at 5 o'clock in Memorial hall. The string quartet and organ will be heard in Schubert's "Ave Maria," and an andante by Saint-Saens. The chorus will sing a "Jubilate Deo," with an incidental solo and quartet.

The quartet is composed of Misses Osa Haul and Edith Hanna and Messrs. W. W. Guidinger and Ernest Wilson.

Minnesota's track chances took a slump when seven stars were declared ineligible.

Armory tonight is something out of the ordinary. There will be novelties in athletics that can not be seen anywhere else. It is something that does not come every day, but only once a year. The classes begin their preparation in the fall. It takes lots of hard work to perfect the drills and dances. Nebraska students who stay at home, study, or go elsewhere for the evening, are going to miss a chance that will not come again for some time.

A BAD FEELING.

Again Iowa is playing the baby part. The overwhelming defeat of their wrestlers at the hands of the Cornhuskers has evidently made them feel bad. The Daily Iowan on the day after the meet devotes considerable space in excusing the sudden and unexpected reversal. The principal reasons given are that the Nebraska management failed to give them notice of coming until three days before and consequently the Hawkeyes had broken training; and the greatest grievance of all is that the toe-hold was barred, everything being done which the visitors asked.

Nebraska must acknowledge the courtesy of their opponents in granting the concessions demanded before the former would consent to the tournament. The Iowan forgets that the toe-hold complained of is barred in all

The average cost of the Yale junior prom festivities was $122.90 for each man. One man spent $900, but he entertained at a house party. Omitting this, the average cost falls to $105.25. Taking the entire junior week into consideration, the sums averaged $180.84.

The University of Minnesota will meet Illinois in football next fall instead of Michigan.
