COME OUT OF IT.

Even a casual observer would notice the large number of women who enter the campus by the driveway on the south. This is especially so at the 9 o'clock intermission. There is also a reason. And it is not because it affords a short cut to any of the buildings or because it is more handy; quite the contrary, it is unhandy, for many of these same girls come by Eleventh street. It is not because they are eccentric and prefer the by-ways.

It is all because the south gate is sity has a right of passage through the south gate and should not allow this right to be infringed upon in such a rude and haughty manner. If these fellows would just be so accommodating as to move to the driveway and allow the women to use the gate, it would be a decided improvement.

The co-eds at Wisconsin get out an annual edition of the Daily Cardinal. Why not at Nebraska? The general complaint is that the women play no important part in the college life. That they are seldom heard of doing anything for the school but attend to social matters alone, is a statement often made. It hardly seems that it is true. The real substance of the whole matter is that they do not make themselves so conspicuous as the men. Now is your chance, girls. Show them what you can do and get out an edition of the Nebraskan this spring that will make them all "sit up and take notice." Let some of these women haters learn that their opinion is not worth its breath.

They begin Monday—those mid-semester.

MORE AT VESPER SERVICE.

An Increased Attendance Noticeable Friday Afternoon.

There was an increased attendance at vespers yesterday evening and those who went felt well repaid by the beautiful music and the restful service. The rendition of Schubert's "Ave Maria" by the string quartet and organ was especially enjoyed. The anthem by the chorus with a solo and quartet deserves special mention. It was a rare treat. Dean Bessey presided at the services.

GEOLOGISTS AT ASHLAND.

Investigating Formations Along the Platte River Valley.
Members of the class in field geology left yesterday morning for Ashland, from which place they made a trip up the Platte river. Geological rendered impassable at this time. A football player would find great difficulty in charging through, so it is no wonder that the co-ed does not even desire to make the attempt. It does seem possible that these smokers might get a few manners some day. Protests are not enough to remedy the evil, and something severe apparently will have to be done before these things will remove their obnoxious and unnecessary presences to less conspicuous quarters.

They say that they are on the outside of the gate and have a perfect right to be on the walks. But the walks are not for nicotine mass meetings, and as soon as they become stopped, the obstruction, whatever it is, is a nuisance. The police authorities of the city have the power to keep order and to preserve the walks for public convenience. Walks have been put down for pedestrians to pass over, and not to be used as pavillions for smokers who have not consideration enough for others nor respect for themselves to gather in a spot where they would cause less inconvenience.

The whole thing is bad enough any way you look at it, but when these persons can not get away from the gate, it is time to do something. If they are beyond the jurisdiction of the university authorities, the police should be appealed to. The univer-formations in the valley were subjects of investigation and discovery. The party spent last night at South Bend and left there this morning for Fremont, whence they return to Lincoln. Professor Bengtson had charge of the expedition.
