MARCH 28, 1911.

The rain falls, the sun shines, the wind blows, the cold wave freezes, the snow floats down on it all, and the sun shines again, as inconsistent as a college wooer—this weather.

Have you thought of going to the track meet at Omaha next Saturday to see the Cornhuskers run? Well, think then.

REMOVAL MUCK.

Of all the arguments against the removal of the university to the state farm, that advanced by the Western heard of the like? It is not necessary to inquire where this discoverer obtained his information, for undoubtedly his own imagination served as the source.

But wherever it came from, it is infamously false. It is an ignorant attempt to make a cause where none exists. It indicates a state of mind far worse than a mere lack of information. It shows that the Western Laborer is opposed to higher education or anything that stands for something. Because the men at the university do not wear overalls, they are snobbish. That is the sum and substance of the whole thing.

Before some of these eminent critics of the state university go too far, they had better come down and investigate things for themselves. Unless they have drifted absolutely beyond recall, they can learn something that will greatly increase their store of information, and perhaps crowd out some of the decayed matter that is causing the stench.

PASSION PLAY LECTURES.

Rev. Harmon at Oberammergau a Year Ago.

The first of two lectures on the Passion Play by Rev. H. H. Harmon will be given Tuesday from 5 to 5:45 p. m., at the Y. W. C. A. rooms in the Temple. These lectures promise to be exceptionally interesting, as Rev. Harmon was in Oberammergau a year ago, where he witnessed the play. The opportunity to hear a lecture on so famous a subject by an eye witness and student of the play is so seldom that a large audience is expected. The women of the university are invited.

BRYAN AT CONVOCATION.

Will Make Address to Students of the University.

William Jennings Bryan will speak to the university students today at convocation, which will probably be held at the Temple to accommodate the crowd. While his subject has Laborer, an Omaha publication, has reached the limit. The article, which in itself is so ridiculous that it hardly need be answered, is as follows:

"The consolidating of the state university and the state agricultural college would seem to be all right from an economic standpoint, but we fear the consolidation will spoil a good agricultural school. The fool society nonsense of frat, rat and cat societies of the university will poison the ambition of the scholars at the agricultural school who now attend strictly to business. A few years ago the frat smart-alecks jeered the overall boys at the agricultural school, but now they are to rub elbows with them. Come to think of it, the plan of the regents may be based on the theory that if the schools are mixed, the strong, sensible character of the farmer boy will predominate and eventually the university will be agriculturalized. But really it is a shame to risk spoiling the agricultural school with a bunch of catfish society snobs."

This is the first time the men of the university have been maligned as "snobbish." The one thing that Nebraska can pride herself on is the democratic spirit that prevails among the students. In fact, the fraternity men have been criticised as not being exclusive enough. But "a bunch of catfish society snobs." Who ever not been announced, Mr. Bryan always has something of interest to say when he speaks at convocation. This is the first formal talk of Mr. Bryan before a university audience this school year.
