TENNIS ENTHUSIASTS AT WORK IN EARNEST

NEBRASKA WILL HAVE A WELL BALANCED TEAM.

CO-EDS TAKE TO THE RAQUET

Prospects Are Most Favorable and Spectacular Players Exhibiting Great Form.

The tennis prospects for Nebraska are as good, if not better, than ever before at this time of the year. More interest has been taken by the semi-star players, fellows who previously have withdrawn from tennis activities because of their small chances of winning a letter. This year such a motive does not seem to be the deciding influence to the men who delight in the sport of Lawford and the Dougherty brothers.

The chief reason why Nebraska's chances for intercollegiate championship are all to the good this year is because most of the last year varsity material has returned and all of the squad members, selected last fall, are still active members of the club. The stock in championship prospects took a big slump last year when Scudder, former champion of Wesleyan university, and winner of many single and double tournaments, did not return to the university. His enrollment for one semester shot the prospects high, due probably to his victory at the start over the then Nebraska champion.

Good Balanced Teams.

This year, however, such men as Weaverling, Flory, Goodbody, Tate, Osterhaut and Pierce are wielding the raquet for team honors and did fair to make material for a better balanced varsity than existed under the former all-star regime. Weaverling won first place in the local tournament held last fall for the selection of squad members, and holds both a Kansas and Nebraska letter for tennis. Flory was runner-up in the last local tournament, having lost to Weaverling in one of the closest matches of the series. Flory is a conservative player, although it is doubtful whether he can hold his place in the local tournament which will, from present prospects, be held this spring. Goodbody and Tate, who have been working together so far this year and will undoubtedly slate together in doubles, are playing in great form. They are both spectacular players, Goodbody being especially so, and would make good runs for first and second positions, if another local tournament is held.

Co-eds Busy.

Another feature of the tennis situation, which differs from previous conditions, is the big manifestation made by the co-eds to participate in the search "for the little white pill." More girls have played this year than ever before, some of whom are exhibiting remarkable talent in locating hard serves and making quick recoveries.

HOUSE DEBATES REMOVAL

ON RECONSIDERATION MEMBERS
ENGAGE IN TWO-SIDED
DISCUSSION.

Friday morning the house considered the university removal bill and voted the one-half mill levy down. A motion to reconsider finally carried and the greater part of the session was devoted to its consideration.

The question was debated at length by Gerdes of Richardson, Colton of York, Bassett of Buffalo, and Haller of Washington spoke in favor of removal with the larger appropriation. Hardin of Harlan thought it well to let the university remain as it was for the present and await further developments.

Gerdes declared that ultimately removal must come and that now was the time to look into the future and provide for it. Economic management and the complete development of a large institution demanded removal, he said. Colton and Bassett seconded his argument for farsighted economy and the latter urged the consolidation of all the colleges in order that the agricultural school might be benefited. Haller said that any settlement other than removal could be but temporary, and temporary settlement would be the wrong sort of economy. Hardin took issue on this point, believing that it would be well to wait a few years.

Y. M. C. A. INSTALLATION

NEW OFFICERS FORMALLY TAKE CHARGE AND ASSOCIATION
REVIEWED.

The Y. M. C. A. inaugural exercises were held last night in science hall of the Temple. A true progressive spirit was shown in all of the committee reports of work done this year and in the suggested plans for the new association year. It is safe to say that this has been the most successful year in the history of the U. of N. association.

Annual reports were made by each of the retiring committee chairmen, and Prof. F. D. Barker, chairman of the board of directors, presided at the meeting. Professor Barker told how the western state universities are becoming the centers of influence and their Christian associations, therefore, more influential. He quoted President Strong, "The middle west is to become the battling ground of the nation and the state universities the centers of influence and therefore of the future nation." Western university enrollments have increased six fold in the last ten years and are fast becoming the centers of learning, not Harvard and Yale.

In retiring from office, President Ray Rice thanked his committeemen and other associates for their advice and support during the year just past and spoke of the future which the association should look forward to. He referred to the reports of committee chairmen as the best possible report of the work of the year which he could give to the members.

Guy C. Kiddoo, the new president, compared the association to a flywheel, and said that unless the wheel was connected up with the men of the university it could not do its work. The policies for the future, so carefully thought out by the retiring officers, he said would form the guide for his administration.

President Kiddoo appointed six members of his cabinet, three committee heads yet to be selected. The following appointments to committee chairmanships were made: Membership, Enoch Nelson; Bible study, Ernest Hahne; missionary, Lloyd Hall; social, Randall F. Curtis; religious meetings, David M. Rogers; and finance, R. M. Higgins.

DRAMATIC CLUB PLAY NEXT SATURDAY NIGHT

BYRNE MARCELLUS AND MILDRED
BEVINS FOR STARS.

CHRISTOPHER JUNIOR THE FIRST TIME

Comedy of Laughter and Pathos Has Never Been Presented in Lincoln Before.

Next Saturday night the Dramatic club will put on its second big play of the year. The cast has been working on it for the past two months, and it is expected that a very finished production will be given the university public. "Christopher Junior" is the title of the drama, and although it has never been played in Lincoln before, it is bound to meet with approval. The plot is laid in England part of the time, and the rest in far away India. The story is of a strong character and is not only replete with funny situations of a laughter provoking nature, but there is an occasional touch of pathos to the play that gives it breadth and character.

Marcellus and Miss Bevins Star.

The club has spared no effort in casting the play so as to make it a strong one. Byrne Marcellus is in the title role in the lead, while Mildred Bevins has an equally strong feminine part. Others who have opportunity for strong character portrayal are S. P. Dobbs, C. F. Radcliffe, Harry Hathaway, Katherine Willis and Verne Bates. Mrs. Olga Stastney, M. O. Bates, Verne Giddings, Alpha Wharton and Will Ross will handle the minor parts.

The play will be staged at the Temple theater, and no effort will be spared to make it a finished production. The usual popular prices, thirty-five and twenty-five cents, will prevail. Tickets can be obtained from members of the club or at the University Book Store. Reservations will be made later in the week at the Temple box office.

HONOR SYSTEM FOR FRATS.

General Sentiment Among the Greeks
Favors Its Adoption.

The honor system at Nebraska is still causing some activity. A committee composed of three members of the interfraternity honor board is visiting the different houses and interviewing the members in an attempt to obtain some idea or plan, the installment of which will mean the success of the system at Nebraska. The general sentiment among the fraternities so far visited is that the honor system is greatly to be desired. That its installation will be difficult and will require a long time is foreseen. It is hoped by many that the committee's efforts will meet with success and that the honor system become something more than a farce.

Did Work in Cursu and Received Degree Last Spring.
