PATHOLOGICAL CLUB MEETS.

Dr. Willard and Dr. Mekesser Read Interesting Papers.

The Pathological club met last night in the physiology lecture room. Dr. Willard read an interesting paper on "Phagocytosis." This is the term applied to the process of the destruction of germs and other foreign substances in the blood by means of the white blood cells. Dr. Mekesser, a Lincoln physician, read a paper on "Opsonins." Opsonins are a type of substance which favor and induce the action referred to in Dr. Willard's paper. Although both subjects possess great interest and importance to the medical applies in clothes as well as in congress.

The Majority Rule

A majority of men would wear clothes that look well, fit well and are made well—if they could find them.

We have confidence in the majority—also in our Kensington clothes.

They vary in cut and price—but they're all the same in quality—the best.
