THE RESURRECTION OF THETA NU EPSILON

ORGANIZATION REPORTED DEAD IS STILL ALIVE.

BANQUET AT THE LINCOLN THURSDAY

Twenty-six Members Spend Joyous Evening Which Lasts Well Into the Morning Hours.

Although reported to have been dead for a year, twenty-six members of Theta Nu Epsilon, which included many alumni of the university, met in the basement of the Lincoln hotel Thursday night and held a joyous banquet, which lasted until the early hours of the morning. Nothing further than that a rousing good time was had could be learned of the proceedings.

While there has always been considerable mystery surrounding the T. N. E., the mystery has become more profound during the past year than ever before. Though it is strictly a secret organization, things were carried on in a more bold manner heretofore. There has always been a great deal of feeling against it and the agitation led to the announcement last spring that the local chapter had been sent in, and the news was spread that Theta Nu Epsilon was no more at Nebraska.

Never Dissolved.

Since that time little has been heard from it and many believed that the disbanding had actually taken place. But there have been several things that have only confirmed the suspicions of others who supposed the dissolution was only a blind and that the organization existed as strong as ever. Rumors have been current several times that regular meetings were being held, but nothing could be obtained to confirm the reports.

Its Influence.

The influence of the T. N. E. has been most felt in the athletic elections, and the banquet Thursday night is taken as significant of some future action on their part in the election to be held the second Monday in May. Since alumni are no longer permitted to vote for the student members of the board, but have the privilege of electing a member of their own, the influence of the T. N. E.'s has not been so pronounced. Nevertheless, their candidates quietly appear as usual with no indications of the machine which backs them. All the influence possible is brought to bear in order to elect these men. But the old days of getting all the graduates to come to the university and vote for the T. N. E. has been done away with in a great measure.

Attitude of University.

The attitude of the university students at the present time seems to be strongly antagonistic to the secret organization. It was stated by some yesterday that an attempt would be made to find out the men who are affiliated with the club and start an active campaign for their defeat. One of the leaders of the movement stated that he had in his possession almost enough information at the present time to show who were and who were not Theta Nu Epsilons. The injection of this element into the athletic election promises to make it more exciting and interesting than is the usual case.

SOME MOVING DAY TROUBLES.

HOSPITAL DAY.

Women of Lincoln Out After Coin to Erect Public Institution.

The people of Lincoln are to have a public hospital if the canvass of today is a success, and from all appearances it will be even more than just a success. A public hospital has long been needed in Lincoln. Public sentiment has awakened to the realization and the new institution will be built within the next year.

It is not probable that university people will be cornered and all urged to take a share in the stock of the hospital, but in the general canvass of today an attempt will be made to sell a share to each house in Lincoln, fraternity houses included. A number of students and faculty members have already contributed to the fund.

TO IMPROVE SCENERY.

Tree Planting Time Has Come on Nebraska Campus.

Workmen have been busy for the past month turning sod, planting grass seed, setting out shrubs and grading ugly corners on the campus. Small patches of shrubbery are being put in at a dozen or more places and an energetic campaign is on to make the city campus a more beautiful spot.

Yesterday some young trees and shrubs were planted at the west and south of the Administration building. The tulips are showing up in spite of the cold weather and all seems to be in readiness for a warm spell. The landscape gardener is determined that the city campus be made a real beauty spot of Nebraska. A number of trees have been set out near the Engineering building and at other places where the campus has seemed to be barren.

PUBLICATIONS RECOGNIZED.

Board Grants Credit for Work on Blue Print and Agriculture.

The student publication board held a meeting Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock at which time it was voted to recognize the Blue Print and give the editor-in-chief credit for his work. This position is now held by C. A. Bennett. The organization of a staff for the Agriculture, which is the monthly publication of the agricultural students and was this year turned over to them by Professor Davidson, was also recognized and credit voted to the members of the staff. At the present time H. J. Gramlich is the editor and O. Liebers associate, with W. O. Forbes as business manager. The report that the board was to appoint a committee to revise the rules so as to prevent under classmen from serving on the staff of the Daily Nebraskan is unfounded. There has been some little agitation for such a measure, but it has never been called to the attention of the board.

TEMPLE HIGH WINS.

Power's Protesges Soar to Victory and Get Unanimous Verdict.

Seward high school put up a strong argument last night in the debate with the Nebraska high school, but their work proved to be all in vain when the judges handed down a decision of unanimous approval for their opponents.

The Temple team, composed of Winifred Whittaker, Herbert Priest and Charles Thompson, had for several weeks been under the coaching of J. R. Power, a prominent member of the junior law class of the university. This contest was the second round in the district championship argument.

NEXT TUESDAY IS PHI BETA KAPPA DAY

SENIORS AND SOPHOMORES DEBATE FOR CHAMPIONSHIP.

HONORARY ELECTIONS ANNOUNCED

Dean Hastings and Professors Fling and Caldwell Will Judge the Forensic Contest.

Next Tuesday is Phi Beta Kappa day. The honors for those who have been most diligent in the pursuance of their lessons will be announced. The reading of the Phi Beta Kappa elections will be followed by the list of those honored by the law fraternity, Theta Kappa Nu. The other exercises of the day will include the debate for the championship of the university classes.

The senior debating team will be pitted against the sophomore trio. Great interest is being shown in this championship contest, and both teams are working their material into fine shape. The senior team is composed of J. E. Lawrence, W. T. Wolvington and A. M. Hare. H. B. English, C. S. Radcliffe and G. R. Mann will represent the second year class.

Judges of Debate.

Prof. Miller M. Fogg is to preside over the debate. The judges have been picked by the interclass debating board and are as follows: Dean W. G. Hastings, Prof. F. M. Fling and Prof. H. W. Caldwell. The debate will probably be held at 10 o'clock Tuesday, all classes being excused at that hour. No definite announcement, however, has been made.

Regarding the chances of the two teams in the championship debate no forecasts are being made. Both teams are strong. All of the men on the senior team have been prominent debaters both in the university and in their high school days. They are strong upper classmen and by all odds should put up a forceful argument. The sophomores, on the other hand, are full of the spirit of competition, and though younger in the university are going in to win. This debate will undoubtedly bring out a large crowd.

TEGNER BANQUET A SUCCESS.

Swedish Toasts and Songs Afford Plenty of Entertainment.

The Tegner society banqueted at the Lindell hotel Thursday evening and spent a few pleasant hours recounting the experiences of the past. Mr. Oscar W. Sjogren served as toastmaster, introducing each speaker by means of an appropriate anecdote. The following toasts were responded to:

"The Tegner as I Know It," Miss Verna Coleman.
"Funderingar," Prof. J. E. A. Alexis.
"I gar, i dag, i morgon," Miss Tillie C. Anderberry.
"Politikussar och andra bussar," C. J. Warner.
"Kokets betydelse" (with recipes), Miss Amy Bern.
Remarks (wit and humor), Prof. C. C. Engberg.
Retrospect, Dr. Anderson.

The final numbers consisted in the singing of "Sjungom studentens lyckliga dar" and giving the university yell, whereupon the members of the Tegner bade each other good night, assured that the evening spent would afford a delightful memory in years to come.
