"OWED TO THE DANDELION."

By A. L. Bixby.

One universal plant is known
 Throughout the earth, and one alone,
 That lives and thrives in every clime,
 And keeps on growing all the time.
 Its leaves are green, its blossoms gold,
 Its roots sink deep and take firm hold
 Upon the soil of every land,
 And hang right on to beat the band.
 In Russian forests far away,
 Across the vales of old Cathay,
 From Hindustan to Galilee,
 On all the islands of the sea;
 On Rocky mountains, peaked with snow,
 From Halifax to Mexico,
 In lava beds of Idaho,
 The dandelions sprout and grow.
 The "yellow peril"—I'd rejoice
 If it were really Hobson's choice,
 For Hobson, when he's frightened, sees
 The swarming of the Japanese,
 A million and a half, almost,
 All headed for our western coast,
 To tear the stars and stripes to bits,
 And beat us up till we call quits.
 These dandelions are the chaps
 That scare me worse than all the Japs;
 For, when you kill a Jap, he's gone;
 But dandelions come right on
 And rise up from the very clay
 Where they were lately torn away.
 In vain we cry aloud for blood;
 In vain we wield the knife and spud—
 This rugged plant will lift its head
 In golden bloom when we are dead.
 This is the "peril" I declare
 To be a permanent affair;
 Yet will brave women and strong men
 Brave dandelions in their den,
 Give mangled roots and tops a flip,
 And say words that they ought to skip,
 While toiling to eradicate
 The nuisance in every state.
 Like scheme for graft in politics,
 You may subdue, not kill it. BIX.

Most young men want to wear clothes which will win the approval of others as well as themselves.

The matter of clothes is a mighty important factor in the success or failure of every man—too important to pass by without careful thought.

Be critical in your decision—don't buy a suit because it's a necessity—get clothes which show you up—which make your personality stand out like a sore thumb—wear Scotch Tailored Clothes.

The price is the one cheap feature about them—never more nor less—we would like to help you to choose your pattern.
