MONDAY, MAY 5, 1911.

Saturday afternoon the only big track meet to be held on Nebraska Field will take place. The Cornhuskers have been doing some hard training as was plainly shown in the contest with Ames. At the least, Nebraska has one of the best teams in the valley. It is as worthy of support as any team in the country. That a good showing will be made goes without the saying. That the meet will be close is equally a foregone conclusion. Kansas is an old enemy and rival for athletic honors. Nebraska ber of hours that a student is allowed to carry be cut from eighteen to fifteen. The work required will be of a more strenuous nature. This would probably be a good change, but there may be a few objections offered. The rule in itself would be all right, but it should be made elastic. It is a detriment to any institution to have too many ironclad rules. It is both unjust and detrimental not to allow one who can carry heavier work than the average to do so.

It would be detrimental to the university because it would drive the most enterprising and intellectual students to other schools where they would be allowed to take work in accordance with their capacity. Above all, industry is to be encouraged and every student should be given the opportunity to let his mind expand. All are not alike and all have not the same number of talents. It is unwise to try to make one do more than he can or to prevent another from doing as much as he can. The result in both cases would be discouragement. A closer supervision of the individual can result in no harm. Rigid rules that must apply to one extreme or the other are to be condemned. All regulations should be made so that they can be applied to any circumstances without doing any injustice.

GRADUATION RECITAL.

Miss Adeline Amelia Strickers Sings at the Temple.

Before a large audience at the Temple theater last evening Miss Adeline Amelia Stricker, a student with Howard Kirkpatrick, gave a recital for graduation. Miss Stricker was well ceived and showed considerable technique in her renditions. The following program was given.

Dr. Arne (1710-1778)—Under the Greenwood Tree, Where the Bee Sucks.

Gounod—Cavatina, from "Queen of Sheba."

Brahms—O Liebliche Wangen.

Schubert—Im Abendroth.

Oxfords for Men $2.50
Tan, Gun and Patent--Button and Lace. BUDD must win.

It was really too bad you had to break that Ivy day date with her. But it could not be helped and so there is no use to worry. But let her know that your heart is in the right place by taking her to the track meet Saturday afternoon. Any loyal student of the University of Nebraska would appreciate such an invitation. Bring your megaphones along and make a noise, not a wee rah, rah; but a big, loud, incessant, hearty yelling. Be sports and see the Kansas-Nebraska track meet.

A word lest we forget. Examinations are less than four weeks distant. Don't trust to the leniency of any professor, for they are perilous creatures in which to repose such confidence.

The law barbeque is something new. The lawyers are to be given a good time all to themselves. They can make all the noise they want to at Capital Beach and the rights of the other departments in University hall will not be trespassed upon. All who can should attend for it means much to the law school.
