LAW BARBECUE IS A GRAND SUCCESS

FRESHMEN SCORE MOST POINTS FOR THE TUCKER CUP.

J. D. RINGER DELIVERS ADDRESS

Short Talk by Chief Justice Reese—
Roast Ox, Buns and Ice Cream
for the Hungry.

With weather conditions and everything else favorable the law barbecue was a grand success. The first cars left for Capital Beach yesterday morning at 10 o'clock and bore the student aggregation to the scene of the day's festivities. All marched in single file to the spit where the ox was being prepared. A band composed of lawyers, under the leadership of M. O. Bates, furnished music for the occasion and was most heartily applauded by the jolly crowd. No accidents marred the day and a general good feeling was evident everywhere.

Soon after arriving the crowd repaired to the baseball grounds, where the first athletic contests were held. About 11:30 all gathered in the grand stand to listen to the program. Dean Hastings introduced J. D. Ringer of South Omaha, who was the orator of the day.

Judge Ringer Speaks.

Mr. Ringer took for his subject "The Lawyer and His Work." In beginning he said that it was the duty of every lawyer to raise the standard of the profession. There were too many who were not true to the oath they had taken. Of these he had little to say, but dwelt upon the importance of the man who was in big affairs. It is his duty to shape public opinion in the right way. The man in the legal profession has an important part to play in settling the differences between capital and labor.

The destruction of the Times building in Los Angeles was cited as an example. If it were destroyed maliciously it shows a diseased condition of the body politic. The speaker did not believe that labor was getting its full rights. In the divorce evil and the promotion of substantial justice the lawyer has a great part to play. There are many things which he must do.

Higher Requirements.

But the lawyer should not forget that he must have a strong body to carry him through life. After the first year or so he will find himself so overtaxed that he has little time for exercise. Mr. Ringer cited one instance when a large body aided him considerably in protecting a young boy who was his client. Nevertheless, on account of the keen competition, the young man must have a keen mind. The speaker was also in favor of raising the requirements for admission to the bar. The preliminary education is all important and should not be neglected in that it gives the mind the best training.

But the man who must have big interests as his clients must be equal to the occasion. Like any other lawyer he must be strong morally. His conduct should be above suspicion. There is no better way to secure this training than in the class room, where fairness should be the model of conduct on every occasion. The lawyers who are honest are the only ones who ever rise to any height of success. It is the selfish aims of some that have degraded the profession. Mr. Ringer closed with a plea to the students to live up to the highest standard.

Chief Justice Reese.

Chief Justice Reese of the Nebraska supreme court, and formerly dean of the law school, was called on for an impromptu talk. He too was heartily in favor of antecedent preparation to the study of law. But he declared that the one who succeeded best was the one who never ceased to study all things. Technicalities were caused by the carelessness of the lawyers. A diploma, or admission to the bar, is not a sign that a man knows anything. It is simply to signify that he is prepared to study. The law on every case should be carefully looked up before any action is taken. Judge Reese also admonished the young men to always treat the court with respect, regardless of what they thought of him. He told different incidents to illustrate his point. They made the meaning clear and at the same time provoked much laughter.

He told of the work the Nebraska graduates were doing through the western states. He said that if it had not been for the Nebraska law school it would have been hard to tell what would have become of Oklahoma.

The Big Barbecue.

The quartet composed of Bates, Morehouse, Hodgkins and Holland sang several original parodies dealing for the most part with the faculty. These were clever and much appreciated by all.

About 12:30 the meeting was adjourned and the big feed served. There was roast beef, pronounced the best, buns, coffee, potatoes and ice cream. That there was a plenty was evidenced by the fact that there was something left and each had a free chance to help himself. All the necessary articles, such as butter, salt, spoons and knives were to be had. The 300 present seated themselves on the grass and ate one of the heartiest meals in many a day. The committee in charge of the barbecue is deserving of special credit for the skillful manner in which things were handled. A great deal of work was required to make it the success it was.

Sports Resumed.

After all had satisfied their appetites the sports were resumed. The first event to be pulled off in the morning was the married men's race. This fifty-yard dash proved most exciting, as did the other events. Toll, who was entered by the freshmen, was unable to prove his marriage to the satisfaction of Referee Collins and after winning the event was disqualified. Cook, '95, was the only alumni to take part in any event, and he failed to get a place. The three-legged race resulted in a victory for the seniors, as did the 25-yard dash in the sack. The egg race had three entries from each class and was won by Phares for the juniors. This ended the sports before noon and resulted in a score of 13 points for each the freshmen and the juniors and 10 for the seniors.

Seniors vs. Freshmen.

The first thing in the afternoon was a game of baseball between the freshmen and the seniors, in which the former won 5 to 2. In the first inning Decatur was knocked out of the box and Ratcliffe took his place, but sprained an ankle after the first half while sliding to second and was replaced by Trump, whose pitching was the feature of the game. Danley also took Patterson's place at back stop. The upper classmen did not seem to play together like their more successful opponents. Frank and Hyde were the batteries for the freshmen. Doctor Maxey called the strikes and balls in this game, while Justice Root looked after the bases.

Juniors vs. Freshmen.

In the second series the juniors lost to the freshmen in a close contest 3 to 4. There were several exciting moments, and especially was this the case when Switzler took the advice of the verdant players and started back to first because of a foul. There was no foul and Switzler was out. Judge Cook of Fremont then retired as umpire and left the management of the game entirely to Dr. Maxey, who was threatened several times with the remains of the egg race. But the little professor was not to be bluffed and ran the game to suit himself. Batteries—For freshmen, Strange and Hyde; juniors, Schmidt and Switzler.

The potato race and the broad jump went to the freshmen, while the juniors took the square pull and the seniors the hand wrestle. Following is the summary:

Freshies Win.

The freshmen being the winners, will receive the beautiful loving cup which is awarded by Mr. Tucker. On account of the rough weather, little boating was done. A few enjoyed a swim in the waters of the lake. Besides the students and faculty of the college the contests were witnessed by the seven judges of the supreme court and many prominent attorneys from over the state.

SAM FOSTER SPEAKS.

College Trained Men Needed to Help the Boys.

Sam Foster, boys' work director of the Lincoln city Y. M. C. A., addressed the mid-week meeting of the college association last night on the "Relation of the University Man to the Boy Scout Movement." In explanation he said: "The boy scout movement is not a new thing. It is merely a new name for a type of work that has been done for a good many years. No equipment is necessary. All you need is a man, a group of boys, and the out-of-doors. The movement will not run itself. It needs men, and the trained college man should be one of the first to get in and help the boys in his home town. They need you and you need them. Don't wait for someone to ask you; get busy and get a group together and you will find them responding eagerly to every move you make. Remember, men, you are leaders."

CADET ENCAMPMENT WILL LAST SEVEN FULL DAYS

GOVERNMENT RANGE AT ASHLAND PROBABLE LOCATION.

DATE IS JUNE 5 TO 12

More Target Practice Than Formerly, and Team to Be Sent to National Competition.

The cadet encampment of 1911 will be two days longer than has been the custom in past years. Usually the cadets have pitched camp on Wednesday and returned to Lincoln on the following Monday, but this year they will go into camp on Monday to remain for seven days. The date is June 5 to 12 inclusive.

The camp will be at the government rifle range at Ashland. It is possible that some other place may be chosen, but highly probable that Ashland will be the camping place. Suggestions have been made that the maneuvers be held at Fort Crook, near Omaha, but as there is no rifle range at the fort it is out of the question.

Much Target Practice.

A larger amount of target practice will be on the program for this year. Longer shots will also be made. While last year only the 200-yard range was used, shots will be made at 200, 300 and 500 yards this year. Target practice will easily be the feature of the camp.

A competitive shoot will also be held, each man firing from 200, 500 and 600 yards. The six highest shots will represent the university in competition for the championship shoot of the National Rifle association. These six marksmen will shoot at the Ashland range and their score compared with that made by the six best men at other universities of the association.

Prize a Silver Shield.

The rifle team will shoot from three ranges and in three positions—standing, leaning or sitting and prone. The prize offered by the national association is a large silver shield. The trophy was first offered in 1905, when it was won by the Princeton team. Since then it has been won three years by George Washington university and once by Massachusetts agricultural college, the present holders of the shield. The team winning this shield the largest number of times in sixteen years will become the permanent possessor of it.

Visitors' Day on Sunday.

Dean R. Leland, captain and chaplain of the university cadets, will go to camp with the regiment and on Sunday will preach to the men. Sunday will be visitors' day. A special invitation will be extended to all friends of the cadets to visit the camp on that day. Regimental parade will be held for their benefit late Sunday afternoon.

A. I. E. E. MEETING.

There will be a meeting of branch of A. I. E. E. in the engineering building tonight at 7:30. Two papers are to be read. L. E. Hertz of the Lincoln Telephone Co. will talk on "The History and Development of the Telephone Since the Expiration of the Patents." Professor G. H. Morse will talk up on the subject "Some Observations on the Electrical Engineering Course in the Universities of the Middle West." All are invited.
