Elliott	Ross	Mulligan
E. Frank	Swanson	Potter
Freitag	Chauner	Raceley
Harmon	Elwell	Russell
Lofgren	O. Frank	Warner
Pearson	Gibson

The team—in the finest of condition, trained to the last minute, and confident that this year they are going to take the full measure of the Minnesota Gophers, leaves tonight for Minneapolis.

Nebraska is sending to the war camp of the Gophers, a better team in many ways than has ever before met Minnesota, better than the team which defeated Minnesota under Johnny Westover in 1902.

Backfield a Wonder.

The backfield has been the wonder and the downfall of the Cornhuskers' opponents in both of the games played this year. The speed of the individual players, combined with the almost perfect interference given to the man carrying the ball has been the source of long gains by Nebraska on almost every end play started this year.

On the line there are several of the stars of past seasons, the men who won the Missouri Valley championship for Nebraska last year. Led by Captain Shonka, they make a formidable wall of opposition in the faces of the opposing backs, and on offensive play they have been trained incessantly in the best methods of opening a hole for one of Nebraska's backs to plow through for a good sized gain.

Stiehm Drilled Long Hours.

Coach Stiehm has drilled his men unremittingly for the Minnesota game, all the efforts of the team up to date having been bent towards presenting a formidable front before the Gophers. Not a man but who is in perfect condition, and with every man out on the field every night, practice has been complete in every detail.

"If Minnesota beats us this year," said Coach Stiehm, "they are going to play the best game in many, many years. We hope to win, in fact the boys are going up there with the conviction that they are going to take that game."

There isn't one of the rooters, of the real football "fans" of Nebraska, who hasn't that firm conviction in his mind, that the Cornhuskers are going to beat the Gophers Saturday.

MINNESOTA FOOTBALL RALLY AT MEMORIAL HALL TODAY

Arrangements are complete for the first football rally of the year in Memorial hall at 11:30 this morning, to cheer the team on its way to do battle with the strong Gopher aggregation at Minneapolis.

The committee in charge of the program has spared no efforts to obtain the best talent available for the sort of talks and time desired at these meetings.

The familiar faces of Dr. Maxey, Dr. Condra, and other stirring speakers will be seen on the platform, and if modesty does not prevent, the physiognomies of all the squad who will wear jerseys at Minneapolis, will leer at the audience from behind Sylvie Shonka's broad shoulders.

Stiehm May Talk.

Coach Stiehm, Ewald O. for short, will be there. Some may doubt this, but he will.

Furthermore, Ewald O. will make a speech, in which he will tell something of what he expects, to do to the Earthdogs in the near future.

Yellmaster Hawley, also threatens to be present, and it is rumored that a few gentlemanly and ladylike huzzas may be given, if enthusiasm cannot be restrained. (Yes it is, you loffer.)

Chancellor Enthusiastic.

But no one need fear. In an interview (not) given out just before he left for Minneapolis, Chancellor Samuel Avery of the best and biggest school in the Missouri valley, hinted to the editor of this hand-bill, that he would not care if a few rafters were cracked on the occasion of this outburst. "We Must Beat Minneapolis," said the Chancellor (not). Be that as it may, the Chancellor has already gone to Minneapolis, ostensibly to attend some national convention, but those having inside information allege that it was to get a good seat reserved ready for the game.

Clinches Matters.

This of course, clinches matters. After the Chancellor has gone to such lengths, Winged Victory would not have the heart to alight on other than Cornhusker shoulders. Come out to the rally, therefore, and send a yell that will set off all the alarm clocks in Parnassus, that Victory may be awakened to the fact that the Cornhuskers are off for Minneapolis, and about to take the FIRST STEP TOWARD THE WESTERN CHAMPIONSHIP.

BAND MAKES DECIDED HIT

GERMAN DAY PARADE APPEARANCE PLEASES CROWDS ON O STREET.

The University cadet band made the hit of German Day in the big parade yesterday. There were seven bands and fifty-two flower decorated automobiles in the pageant. It was a display of grandeur, but no part of the entire outlay drew more attention than did the University band.

Crowd Cheers.

The band was in a class by itself. It was the only one of the seven bands which even attempted to keep step. Its music was martial. One could hear the college boys coming even when they were two blocks away. They played march pieces and specialties such as "U-U-Uni," "Cheer, Cheer, Cheer for the Good Old German Beer," and "We're Going to the Hamburg Show."

When the band passed the corner of Twelfth and O streets, playing "U-U-Uni" the crowds cheered them lustily. The cheering did not come alone from college students, but the masses joined in the spirited applause. One other band, called a "concert band," distinguished itself by attempting to play a grand opera overture while on the march.

FOURTH FRATERNITY BURGLARY

PHI DELTS LOSE DRESS SUIT AND SOME OTHER VALUABLES—POLICE AROUSED.

The fourth burglary of a fraternity or sorority house was committed late Wednesday afternoon, when about $500 in money, watches and jewelry was taken from the Phi Delta Theta house, Twenty-sixth and Q streets. The first of the season's visits is said to have been to the Acacia house. An early morning burglar at the Farm House club's home continued the series Monday. The Delta Delta Delta sorority house was another place honored with a visit by the stealthy prowler, who called there late Monday afternoon.

Crawled in at Window.

The thief at the Phi Delt house entered through a rear window when most of the fraternity men were away, and made a thorough inspection of the rooms, hunting for valuables. Aside from the money, watches and jewelry, one full dress suit was taken.

The Lincoln police are aroused over the series of burglaries in Greekdom and patrolmen are especially alert in fraternity house neighborhoods. So far no arrests have been made in the cases. It is not thought that any further trouble will be caused as all frats are now on the watch for callers.

CO-EDS TO HELP SEND OFF CORNHUSKER TEAM

GIRLS WILL GO TO STATION IN A BODY.

BLACK MASKS TO SELL TICKETS

University Maidens Will Sing the Cornhusker at Burlington Depot
Send-off.

The college girls will help send off the football team this afternoon. They will meet on the campus, in front of the Library, at 5:30 p. m., and go in a body to the Burlington depot, where they hope to help cheer the 'Husker team on to victory. They will sing the Cornhusker song at the depot.

Enthusiasm Not Lacking.

There is great enthusiasm among the co-eds to make a particularly good showing on this occasion, when the most critical game of the year hangs in the balance. Every University girl is urged to come out, and to bring her colors and pennants. Anyone who doesn't know the words of the Cornhusker should bring a copy of the music or one of the University Hand Book.

Ultimatum Issued.

The following notice was issued last night.

"Girl's season tickets will be on sale by the Black Mask girls immediately after the rally this morning in Memorial hall. Remember the big games are in line now and one game is worth the price of your season ticket. These tickets are going fast, but there is one left for YOU, and YOU are needed. Get a ticket and bring your little fund of college spirit out to the next game."

LAST PRACTICE BY TEAM

CORNHUSKER ELEVEN FINISHES PRACTICE FOR BIG GOPHER GAME.

Putting in the few last finishing touches on their organization, Nebraska's Cornhuskers met at the State Farm grounds Tuesday for two hours of strenuous drill under Coach Stiehm's tutelage.

Scrimmage practice was undertaken by the squad, both the freshmen and the scrubs getting in the game for some minutes of rough work with the Varsity.

Coach Stiehm appeared pleased at the end of the day's practice, the team having gone through the plays with snap and without a bungle.

New Plays Look Good.

The plays which were worked out in secret practice Tuesday night were run through yesterday and all went off like machinery.

Jack Best, the Cornhusker trainer, has been watching his men closely, and Wednesday night he and his assistants put in many an extra rub for the good of Nebraska on Northrup Field, Saturday. Jack will probably go with the team as usual, as the old-time trainer always likes to be along where he can be sure that his boys are keeping in fit shape.

WE MUST BEAT MINNESOTA!
