Mentor-Comfort Union Suits

They fit snugly without giving that "bunched up" feeling. They yield to every movement of the body without straining or cramping you.

Men who know comfort wear Mentor, and men who wear Mentor, know Comfort.

A union suit does not have the latitude of fit possessed by shirts and drawers. It must fit correctly or there is no comfort in it.

STIFF WORKOUT AGAINST FRESHMEN AGGREGATION

In spite of the drop in the thermometer there was no let up in football practice on Nebraska Field yesterday afternoon. Coach Stiehm's men were put through signal practice and scrimmage all the more brisk for the icy wind that blew across the field. On the Varsity, Mulligan and McKee were put at ends, Purdy and Russell at halves, and Gibson at full, while Owen Frank and his brother, Chauner, Lofgren and Harmon of the regulars, had a little signal practice all their own, just to keep off Jack Frost.

Few Injured in Camp.

Purdy is being tried out at half, his natural position, so that in case of injury to either of the Frank boys in the next two games, the loss of Racely will not be so keenly felt. Purdy can take a half, while Gibson replaces him at full back. Racely is more seriously injured than at first appeared, and will be unable to don a suit for at least a week.

Jerry Warner was also unable to put on a suit this afternoon and his place was taken by Potter.

Hybrids Beat the Scrubs.

The usual practice game was indulged in with the hybrid lineup and the scrubs, which resulted in favor of the hybrids, who seemed to work exceptionally well. Purdy at half showed up especially well, his dodging, twisting runs netting several touchdowns.

Cornhusker Luck is Over.

There were no serious injuries, and it seems as if possibly the Cornhusker streak of hard luck, which has lasted nearly a week is about over. Captain Shonka was limping slightly, but as usual, did not let it interfere with his play. He was up and down and around the field much faster than several who own two good legs.
