

BASKET-BALL PRACTICE
BY SPORTING EDITRESS

I went to see the men play basket-ball. When we came near the gymnasium I heard a lot of shouting and yelling that sounded just like an Indian war camp. We went inside the building, which was all lit up with electric lights, and a big man, who was just as polite as could be, told us to climb it; so we went up into the dustiest gallery, all full of horrid spiders and mostly cobwebs.

There were a lot of men who were dressed in perfectly killing costumes. It is a wonder that they don't catch cold. Some of them wore red sweaters with white letters on them. I wonder who sewed them on.

We watched the boys toss a ball around awhile and then we came back down to the office to write the story. Coming back I saw the loveliest plume hat on the campus.

WOMAN ELECTED MANAGER
TULANE FOOTBALL TEAM

Tulane University, Ala.—Fannie Seiforth, seventeen years old, the daughter of a New Orleans editor, is the manager of the Tulane University football team this season, an honor that never before has fallen to any college woman. Miss Seiforth confers with the coach concerning the best methods of training, attends all the practice games and daily scrimmages and has full charge of arranging details when the squad makes an out-of-town trip. Moreover, it is said that her election was carried by almost unanimous vote of the student body, and that her opponents frankly admitted afterward that she has shown more ability than any football manager in the university for several years.

INDOOR HOCKY TEAM PLAYS

PRACTICE GAMES IN GYMNASIUM AND TAKE UP OTHER COLLEGE SPORTS.

For several months this fall indoor hockey has been played by the special students. There has been some practice on the football grounds and playing on such a large field made it quite strenuous. These same students, under the supervision of Miss Gittings, are having practice in all popular athletics and playground activities.

EAR MUFFS

Ear muffs are out of date, but chestnuts are still cracked.

T. Pontius Quinn watched the sunset fading o'er Capital Beach. The Texas steer grazing near by fell in with a splash. "Cow-boys are passing fast," he said sadly.

Did you ever see a fly cry? No, but we have seen a moth ball.

If there is something wrong with the Rag, should the co-ed it?

Would the village bell give society tone?

Did you ever get these Christmas horrors:

- A copy of "Evangeline"?
- A celluloid whisk-broom holder?
- A pint bottle of "Jockey Club"?
- A pair of pink crocheted bedroom slippers?
- A lavender mull scarf?
- A stag-horn manicure set?
- White House cook book?
- A rhinestone back comb?
- And other unmentionable things?
