

The Daily Nebraskan

VOL. XI. NO. 67.

UNIVERSITY OF NEBRASKA, LINCOLN, SATURDAY JAN. 13, 1912.

Price 5 Cents

ANOTHER UNI STUDENT DIES OF TYPHOID FEVER

CHARLES H. KUEBLER PASSES AWAY AT MILFORD HOME AFTER LONG ILLNESS.

CLIMAX OF EPIDEMIC NOW REACHED

Will Be Gradual Decrease in Number of Cases Reported After This Week.

"Until further notice it will be advisable for all who drink city water to boil it before using. This especially applies to those residents living in that portion of the city north of J street and east of Thirteenth."

(Signed) H. H. WAITE,
Professor of Bacteriology,
University of Nebraska.

Charles H. Kuebler, a first-year pharmacy student of the University of Nebraska, died Wednesday morning of typhoid fever at his home at Milford, Nebraska. The death of Mr. Kuebler is the second mortality from the typhoid fever epidemic which is prevalent among a portion of the students of the University.

The disease attacked him in Lincoln and he never really recovered from the initial attack. The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon from the German Evangelical church of Milford.

More than thirty cases of typhoid fever and other sicknesses were reported to the Nebraskan office Friday, and the majority of the cases were diagnosed as typhoid. Grippe, pneumonia and bronchitis made up the list of causes for others out of school.

The climax of the typhoid fever epidemic will be reached within five days from this date, according to Dr. H. H. Waite of the University, and from that time there will be a gradual cessation of the number of cases reported each day.

Although he does not state this as a certainty, Dr. Waite is fairly sure that he is right in his prediction and that the worst of the feared epidemic is passing at the present time.

"There is not the slightest question in my mind that the cause of the epidemic is the city water," declared Dr. Waite, Friday. "There is no reason to doubt this."

"The intestinal infection which was prevalent in Lincoln in December was due to the same cause—the water—but not to the same germ in the water. This contamination is confined to a more or less definite portion of the city, the portion to which the Rice well led."

"This has been remedied and from (Continued on Page 4.)

NEBRASKA VICTORY OPENS SEASON, 42-24

Cornhusker Quintette Wallops Drake Team In First Missouri Valley Basket-Ball Game.

Nebraska took its first step towards attaining the 1912 Missouri Valley basketball title, Friday night, by walloppling the five from Drake University, 42 to 24. The game was played in Armory hall, Cornhusker rooters packing it to the roof.

Drake played by no means a sluggish or unskillful game, for every one of the Blue and White squad was up on his toes and handling the ball with speed and precision. But the warriors from Iowa were outsized and also outplayed in team work and speed by the husky team developed by Coach Stiehm.

Drake Begins Well.

Drake began the game with a rush and up to the point of the game when the score stood with each team 13 credits the Blue and White five were pushing the Cornhuskers hard.

Then, headed by Captain Owen Frank, the Nebraska quintette speeded up and soon the pace got too fast for Drake. With Frank and Jimmy Gibson doing great work at guarding the Scarlet and Cream goal, the Drake five found it almost impossible for it to score the few points chalked up for it in the last half.

Stars for Nebraska.

Gibson, Carrier and Haskell were the little scorers for Nebraska. Gibson played an excellent individual game and at the same time worked in fine style with his teammates. Carrier's deadly work in shooting goals netted 14 points for Nebraska, and the little Haskell proved so elusive that he spent a goodly portion of the time he was in the game shooting at the basket.

Drake Little Slow.

Drake's teamwork was slower than Nebraska's, and did not cover the floor as well, the men often being bunched about the ball, leaving the basket almost unguarded. In dribbling the ball Drake excelled, and there were flashes of individual work

Forbes to Talk.

Will Forbes, a senior, will address the class on "Dairy Judging" at the Farm this morning. The members of this class will take part in a contest during the agricultural convention next week and the address is in preparation for that event.

throughout the play by the Iowa five. Maricle, the husky forward of Drake, proved the star of their five until he left the game, shooting incredibly long shots into the baskets.

Coach Stiehm's work in drilling Nebraska in team work showed in the ability of the Cornhuskers to bring the ball right under the basket before attempting to shoot a basket.

Game Rough.

Nebraska found the game rough in spite of the fact that the Cornhuskers looked the biggest built. Drake's men were solid weight and when a collision occurred Nebraska suffered. Haskell and Carrier were both forced to leave the game because of injuries.

Following is the lineup and score:

Nebraska	Drake
Gibson	Guard Hardesty
Frank (Capt.)	Guard Neiman (Capt.)
Hiltner	Center Colville
Haskell	Forward Lansing
Carrier	Forward Maricle

Summary: Field goals, Gibson 4, Haskell 5, Frank 2, Carrier 5, Lansing 2, Maricle 5, Neiman 2; foul goals, Gibson 2, Haskell 6, Hiltner 2, Lansing 4, Neiman 2. Substitutes: Stryker for Hiltner, Nagle for Haskell, Underwood for Gibson, Hanzlick for Carrier, Jordan for Hardesty, Havens for Neiman. Referee: R. H. Seymour. Time-keeper: Dobbs.

Meet Again Tonight.

Nebraska and Drake meet again tonight in the last game of this series, and the Drake five will be out for revenge. The squad from Des Moines is used to a larger floor and will probably play a better game than last night, as they will be more accustomed to the playing in smaller territory.

Nebraska's work of Friday night was enough to please any Cornhusker supporter and the crowd tonight will fully squal the packed condition of the hall at the opening game. Come out and watch 'em—we want more M. V. honors.

The Domestic Science girls at the Farm served another of their formal luncheons yesterday. But a few of these dainty affairs are given and the invited guests feel highly favored.

Fifty-nine co-eds were awarded class numerals at Wisconsin.

"THE AMAZONS" HOLD THE BOARDS TONIGHT

FIRST PRODUCTION OF DRAMATIC CLUB TO BE HELD IN TEMPLE.

PLAY OF NOVEL SETTING

Competent Cast to Present Pinero's Famous Work—Special Costumes and Scenery.

Promptly at eight-fifteen this evening, at the Temple Theatre, the curtain will rise on what is the most novel and unique play the Dramatic Club has ever attempted. The dress rehearsal was held last night and at that time a slight indication was gotten by a Nebraskan reporter of what sort of a treat the University public has in store for it.

The play, "The Amazons," is one of Pinero's most famous and delightful works. The settings are quaint and typical of England's most settled aristocracy. The characters present in a humorous yet realistic manner the general theme of the most refined comedy.

It will be a sight worth seeing to see the three Amazons, in their up-to-date costumes, and the eccentricities of the three gallants who pursue their affections.

The play is in three acts. Fred McConnell is stage manager and has provided several settings that will please. Mildred Bevins has trained the cast for the past two months, and the assured success of the play will be in many respects attributable to her untiring efforts.

Following is the cast:
Barrington, Viscount Litterly.... Harry Coffee
Galfred, Earl of Tweenways.... C. L. Clark
Andre, Count de Grival... Louis Horne
Rev. Roger Minchen..... Will Aten
Fitton (a gamekeeper).... Otto Sinkie
Youtt (a servant).... Ralph Northrup
Orts (a poucher).... Dale Boyles
Miriam, Marchioness of Castlejordon Florence Farman
Lady Noeline Belturbet... Hazel Perrin
Lady Wilhelmina Belturbet.... Marjorie Kunkel
Lady Thomasin Belturbet..... Florence Hostettler
"Sergeant" Shuter.... Marie Douglas

WEATHER FORECAST.

For Lincoln and vicinity: Fair tonight and Saturday, with rise in temperature.

For Nebraska: Fair with rise in temperature.

Coldest temperature for Lincoln yesterday was 25 degrees below zero; Omaha, 26 below zero.

TEMPLE THEATER

8:15 SHARP

The Dramatic Club
Presents Pinero's
"The Amazons"

Saturday, Jan. 13, 1912

Twenty-five Cents

BASKET BALL

Drake
Friday and Saturday

Informal Dance, Friday Night