DR. WAITE SAYS BOIL TH. WATER

Although in Month Water Will Be
Pure as Usual, Boil It Until Further Notice.

Typhoid fever has passed its period of epidemic climax in Lincoln and from this time on there will be a gradual lessening of the number of cases each week. In less than a month conditions tending to conduce typhoid fever in Lincoln will be normal.

This is the opinion of Dr. H. H. Waite, professor of bacteriology at the University of Nebraska, probably the best informed man on conditions of typhoid in Lincoln.

"Tests and experiments of the past week confirm me in my opinion," declared Dr. Waite. "When I first expressed it, it was partly conjecture, but my opinion has been carried out in action and in a month, unless there is further contamination of the water."

Reports of sickness of typhoid, Monday, tended to indicate that the worst of the epidemic has passed. There were fewer reported as seriously ill, and the condition of those previously reported was reported to be generally good.

Parents of Nebraska students, have been greatly worried over the conditions in Lincoln, but no students have considered it necessary to leave school, although rumors of nervous parents outside Lincoln sending hurry calls for their sons or daughters have been heard about the campus.

Dr. Waite advises that all students take the most extreme care of all water which they drink, being sure that it is boiled first. He advises this course to be kept to regorously for at least a month.
